Grain Price Dive May Ease Control Need, Baruch Says

Break Called "Wholesome" By Economists

Wheat Futures Again Tumble Daily Limit

WASHINGTON, Feb. 6 (AP)—Bernard Baruch has informed the Senate Banking Committee that commodity market trends may make "less pressing" any need for price control.

Chairman Tobey (R-NH), of the committee, late today made public a telegram from Baruch, financier and adviser on economic matters, asking to be excused from testifying before the Senate group about rationing and price control.

Baruch said he does not know the details of administration plans and would prefer not to testify under present conditions, including "high political pressures."

Previously Baruch, in testimony in support of the European recovery program, had urged a strong system of government controls. He appeared then before the Senate Foreign Relations Committee.

His telegram was dated February 4, the first of the last three days of heavily-dropping grain prices. It said, after giving reasons for not wanting to testify:

"Another point: There is evidence, superficial perhaps, but existing, that commodities show a tendency to soften. Were that to come about, the need for control would be less pressing."

Most government economists tonight called the commodity price break "healthful." They held small fear of any collapse which would lead to a business slump.

Wait-And-See" Policy

The Commerce Department reported it is "too early to interpret—we're willing to wait and see."

Meanwhile grain prices skidded downward, despite some signs of steadying, and the stock market regained its balance.

Wheat and corn futures dropped their full permissible limits the third day in a row. At the close of Friday trading, wheat contracts were 42½ to 50⅝ cents a bushel below seasonal peaks, with the May price at $2.56⅝. March wheat contracts closed at $2.65.

At the same time, the millers' price on flour dropped another 20 cents at 60 cents a hundred pounds lower than last Tuesday at Minneapolis, and one grocery chain announced its retail price for 10-pound sacks of flour would drop four cents next Monday.

However, one expert declared that the gyrations in the commodity markets won't be felt in many instances by retail store shoppers immediately.

Paul S. Willis, president of the Grocery Manufacturers of America, called the commodity price break "a step in the right direction."

"If commodity prices stabilize at a lower level, pressure on manufacturers will be eased," Willis said. "Unless other cost factors such as labor offset this lessened pressure, a halt to the upward price movement is indicated."

Butter Goes Up

Not all commodities shared in the downward price movement. Butter ranged from a new wholesale high of 95 to 98 cents a pound at Baltimore to 2½ to three cents a pound lower at Chicago. Feeds, poultry, lard, cocoa and other food items remained even or better.

Pressman Quits As CIO's Counsel

WASHINGTON, Feb. 6 (AP) —Lee Pressman resigned as the CIO's chief attorney today to help Henry Wallace's third party bid for president.

Long identified with the labor organization's leftwing element, Pressman quit as general counsel for both the CIO and the CIO steel workers union.

Philip Murray, president of the CIO as well as the steel union, expressed "regret" but said the resignation avoided "embroiling yourself or me in difficulties concerning matters of fundamental CIO policy."

Pressman's onetime powerful influence within the CIO had waned. Leftwing union leaders recently tried to get the CIO to endorse Wallace but, instead, a majority of its unions formally rejected the Wallace candidacy.

In quitting, Pressman said he will enter private law practice so "it will be possible for me to take part in such activities as the Wallace for President Political Campaign." It was reported Pressman may become associated with Nathan Witt, a New York labor lawyer.

Now 41, Pressman has been CIO general counsel since the labor organization was formed in 1936. He advised on the writing of a number of laws passed by Congress during the New Deal.

The CIO legal staff will be headed for the time being by Frank Donner, who has been associate general counsel.

Dixie Democratic Bolt Is Opposed By Ga. Governor

Thompson Assails Folsom Movement

TALLAHASSEE, Fla., Feb. 6—(AP) —Gov. M. E. Thompson, of Georgia, took the lead tonight in a move to block a bolt of Southern Democrats from President Truman.

Thompson, here for a conference of southern governors, called Truman's program of civil rights for negroes "unnecessary" and "unwise." But he declared it would be even more unwise for the South to bolt the Democratic party.

Thompson opposed an open bid by Alabama's gigantic governor, James Folsom, for support of his candidacy for President of the United States.

Comment Aimed At Folsom

"I cannot join in any movement," said Thompson, "which directly or indirectly would cut the feet from under the Democratic Party and its leaders, and thereby deprive the South of its greatest strength.

"I will support the Democratic party."

Thompson did not name Folsom. Close associates told reporters, however, that his comment was aimed at the Alabama governor.

Folsom announced last week he would oppose President Truman for the Democratic nomination. He accused Truman of being "hog-tied" by Wall Street interests and by "the State Department fancy pants."

Today Folsom announced in a radio talk he would welcome support of other states. He let it be known he would use the southern governors' conference as a sounding board for that candidacy.

Meanwhile, Gov. Fielding Wright, of Mississippi, told reporters he planned to introduce a resolution Sunday calling on southern Democrats to hold their own presidential nomination convention next summer.

30-Year Wait Is Over; Woman Drawing Pension

HUNTINGTON, W. Va., Feb. 6 (AP) — Mrs. Laura Alice Moore Sears, 86-year-old widow of a Union Army drummer boy, today started drawing the pension she has been waiting for for more than 30 years.

The first check was $194.67, retroactive to the filing of a formal claim last August after new evidence cleared her first husband of being a deserter. She'll get $48 monthly.

The former drummer boy of the 24th Ohio Infantry, William T. Moore, died in 1918 at 76. He had become a full-fledged soldier when he walked off his guard post and joined the Navy.

Arabs Say They'll Battle U.N. Units Sent To Palestine

LAKE SUCCESS, Feb. 6. (AP)—Palestine Arabs told the United Nations today that they would battle any international military units sent to enforce partition.

The Arabs charged also in a formal note that "the pressure put by the United States delegation and government on certain nations is nothing short of political blackmail." This was in reference to the United States support of the United Nations Assembly's November 29 partition decision.

The Arabs, through their Higher Committee representatives, further advised Secretary - General Trygve Lie that United Nations efforts to divide Palestine would be considered as an act of aggression.

Ukraine Accuses Britain

The Arab statement came in the midst of these other developments in the situation:

1. In an interview, the Soviet Ukraine accused the British government of obstructing the partition plan.

2. Replying to the charge made thus by Delegate Vassily A. Tarasenko, a British spokesman said United Nations members are waking up belatedly to the dangers of split-

"Friendly" Accord

Pearson Libel Trial Ends; Paper Stands Court Costs

CHARLES TOWN, W. Va., Feb. 6 —(AP)—The trial of a $100,000 libel suit brought by Columnist Drew Pearson against the weekly Jefferson Republican ended today after the judge announced a settlement which involved a letter to Pearson from the editor.

The letter, read in court, was from Raymond J. Funkhouser, Charles Town industrialist and editor of the paper, which stated the article upon which the suit was based was published without Funkhouser's knowledge.

The letter added that "I have no reason to believe you are a Communist, but feel assured you are neither a Communist or sympathizer with so-called principles of Communism, or ever have been."

Judge Decatur H. Rodgers earlier in the trial had ruled that to call a person a "Commie" was libel in itself. After that ruling he held that further testimony would be limited to mitigation of damages, if any.

He repeated the statement today, saying the remark in the column was actionable and that some damage was done.

The judge announced a "friendly agreement" had been reached after he had held a two-hour conference in chambers with opposing attorneys.

The defendant publishing company and editors were instructed to pay the court costs, which the judge said he understood amounted to $75.28. He said they were paid today.

Judge Rodgers said that there was a discussion to the effect that Funkhouser's letter would be published in the Jefferson Republican,

Senate Group Defers Vote On Rent Measure

Committee To Make Decision On Feb. 16

WASHINGTON, Feb. 6 (AP)—The Senate Banking Committee, in disagreement on how to extend rent controls, decided today to wait until February 16 to make its decisions.

At that time, the present rent control law will have 13 days of life remaining.

Chairman Tobey (R-NH) told reporters that in the meantime "we've decided to sleep on this with our consciences."

He explained that both Democratic and Republican members will be busy up until February 16 making Jackson and Lincoln Day speeches.

There were reports meanwhile that the senators are considering proposals for automatic rent increases and automatic decontrol of rental units in whole areas—under certain circumstances.

Informed persons on Capitol Hill said these provisions were included in the 14-month rent control extension bill drawn up by a subcommittee headed by Sen. Cain (R-Wash).

"Automatic" Provisions Studied

In addition, it was reported, the subcommittee's draft would give legal sanction to rent increases of any size when landlord and tenant could agree on a lease running through all of 1949.

With the present rent control law running out February 29, the Banking Committee studied the two "automatic" provisions recommended by Cain's unit:

1. Automatic increase in rent, up to 15 per cent, if a landlord could show that his operating costs had gone up.

2. Automatic decontrol of rents in any city or rent control area if the Census Bureau found vacancies of one per cent or more among all dwelling units offered either for rent or for sale.

Earlier Sen. Sparkman (D-Ala.) had come out of the closed-door session tossing off the opinion that the current draft will be "greatly revised or sent back for additional subcommittee work."

Under the automatic increase proposal, any landlord who could show that his taxes, labor costs, repairs and similar expenses had advanced a certain per cent would be allowed a rent increase of half that percentage, with a maximum rent boost of 15 per cent officially countenanced. If his costs had gone up more than 30 per cent, the 15 per cent lid would prevail.

Rejection Subject To Appeal

A housing official said that a Census Bureau survey made last fall showed vacancies of one per cent or more in Denver, Seattle, San Antonio, Memphis, Tulsa, Portland, Ore., Newsport News, Va., Portsmouth, Va., and Norfolk, Va.

If similar conditions prevailed now and the subcommittee bill became law, all rent controls in those cities would be lifted.

The subcommittee bill proposes a check on the Housing Expediter's authority to reject rent increases recommended by local boards. Any such rejection would be subject to court appeal.

Tenants could appeal increases by going first to the local board, then to the Housing Expediter, and finally to the courts.

Cain told reporters he "wouldn't get excited" if the committee rejects some of the provisions of his bill.

Vaughn Puzzled By Un-Promotion

WASHINGTON, Feb. 6 (AP)—Maj. Gen. Harry H. Vaughan, President Truman's military aide, announced his own promotion today, but it turned out to be all a "misapprehension."

In a few hours he was right back where he started.

The General told the press his new job was chief armed forces aide to the President, with three assistants.

This got into the papers.

Several hours later, Presidential Press Secretary Charles G. Ross called White House reporters to his office. Speaking, he said, for Mr. Truman, Ross told them:

"There is no change in the White House setup as announced earlier in the day. There seems to have been some misapprehension."

What happened, Ross said, is that the appointment of Col. Robert B. Landry, New Orleans, as Air Forces aide gives the President a total of three aides.

All, Ross said with emphasis, are of equal rank. "There are no chief aides," he said.

The three are Landry, Vaughan and Capt. Robert L. Dennison for the Navy.

Vaughan took the news of his unpromotion with an air of good-natured bewilderment.

He said he thought when he made his announcement that the President had elevated him.

He said he wasn't sore at anybody.

Mother, 40, Gives Birth To Second Set Of Triplets

Girl And Two Boys Born In 8 Minutes

SYRACUSE, N. Y., Feb. 6 (AP)—A 40-year-old mother gave birth to her second set of triplets today in eight minutes flat.

A spokesman for the American Medical Association said chances of such a birth probably were one in a million.

Mrs. Margaret Walker felt a bit "groggy" but otherwise okay, Syracuse Hospital attaches reported, and the triplets appeared healthy. They had been expected.

Dr. Morris Fishbein, editor of the AMA Journal, said the birth was "unusual," but added that medical literature contains histories of other mothers bearing more than one set of live triplets.

To the father, Michael Walker, a repairman at the Solvay Process Company, news of the 17-pound, two-ounce trio was a signal to buy cigars.

Now Have Nine Children

The Walkers now have nine children. The oldest is 16. Where they all will sleep in their four-bedroom home is a question.

First to arrive today was a six-pound boy, at 12:06 p. m., Eastern Standard Time. A five-pound, 4½ ounce girl followed. The third, another girl, weighed in at five pounds, 13½ ounces, eight minutes after her brother.

Mrs. Walker normally weighs about 135 pounds. She had wanted all girls.

"How is she?" was the first question that came from the father when halted in his pacing at the hospital.

In Hospital Since Jan. 21

Advised "everything is fine," Walker slumped into a chair.

"Guess I better start buying the cigars," he said.

In addition to the first set of triplets—Peter, Paul and Patricia—born April 21, 1943, the Walkers have John, 16, Michael Joseph, 14, and James Patrick, who will be seven a week from today.

Before leaving the hospital to break the news to his six other children, Walker received congratulations from physicians, nurses and patients. Mrs. Walker had been there since January 21.

Her doctor, who declined use of his name, said he had known of the pending multiple birth "since the start."

V-2 Rocket Successfully Maneuvered In Flight

WHITE SANDS, N. C., Feb. 6. (AP)—The first successful attempt by American scientists to maneuver a V-2 rocket in powered flight was made today at the White Sands Proving Grounds, Capt. J. B. Dickey, public information officer reported.

The V-2 was equipped with an electronic guidance system that permitted the rocket to be maneuvered left and right and up and down.

The missile reached a maximum altitude of 70 miles. Overall flight time was seven minutes, 25 seconds.

By changing the missile's aerodynamic stability on its downward course, the impact velocity was materially reduced, Capt. Dickey said. This made possible the recovery of optical gear and other instruments.

De Valera Party Loses Parliamentary Majority

Stunt Man With Less Luck Than Brodie Is Killed

SAN FRANCISCO, Feb. 6 (AP).. A man with three small parachutes leaped from the Golden Gate bridge to his death today 265 feet below while a cameraman took pictures.

The elaborately- equipped man, wearing football padding, was identified tentatively by highway patrolmen as Dusty Rhodes, of Honolulu.

The parachutes apparently were too small. The man fell like a stone to the Pacific waters below although the 'chutes opened.

A bridge foreman, Arthur Olson, grabbed the stunt man but lost his grip. A man who gave his name to the police as Jose A. Guzman and identified himself as a commercial photographer from Los Angeles took the pictures of the stunt leap.

Another General Election Possible

DUBLIN, Feb. 7.— (Saturday) — Prime Minister Eamon De Valera's Fianna Fail Party failed today to win a clear parliamentary majority in Eire, and another general election is possible.

De Valera's party obtained only 66 seats out of the 147 voted on in Wednesday's general elections.

The combined opposition total was 76 seats.

De Valera, the 65-year-old Brooklyn-born leader, refused to comment on the results today.

It became fairly certain that De Valera will be named Premier when the Parliament meets February 18 because he will be supported by the National Labor Deputies and a number of independents.

But De Valera had said during the campaign that he did not want the support of the others, hence the possibility of another general election in an effort to remove an uncertain period of government ahead.

In Saddle 16 Years

De Valera has been in the ruling saddle in Eire for 16 years.

His party needed 74 seats out of the 147-man Parliament to get a clear working majority. Five of these seats will not be decided until next week when a postponed election is held in Kilkenny County.

But even if De Valera got all of those he would have only 71 seats.

De Valera, who has headed the government since 1932, will go to Kilkenny next Tuesday for the elections.

Political quarters consider that he may gain two of the five Kilkenny seats and perhaps more. It all depends on his power to sway the crowd in his last-minute speeches.

Noel Hartnett, campaign director for Sean MacBride, the brilliant 43-year-old lawyer who led the New Republican Party to 10 seats, described the election results flatly as " a defeat for Fianna Fail," De Valera's party.

The labor group was particularly elated at having almost doubled its strength in Parliament.

Final Standings

The final standings of the various parties in the Wednesday election for 142 seats:

Three Trainmen Injured In Wreck

MADISON, N. C., Feb. 6 (AP) — Three trainmen were injured late today when a Norfolk and Western passenger train jumped the tracks and plowed through a brickyard into a rural store two miles south of Madison.

Mr. and Mrs. George Lester, operators of the store, and their eight-year-old daughter, Flora, were all in the building, but escaped injury.

The train carried 30 passengers. None was injured. It was Train 22 enroute north from Winston-Salem to Roanoke, Va.

The injured were:

O. D. Moomaw, Roanoke, engineer; C. P. Manuel, Roanoke, brakeman, and C. C. Meadows, Roanoke, fireman.

Meadows was taken to a Winston-Salem hospital where his condition was reported as "very critical." Moomaw was taken to a Leaksville hospital and his condition is "critical."

$570,000,000 For China Will Be Requested

15-Month Estimate Now $9,333,000,000

WASHINGTON, Feb. 6 (AP)—The State Department raised its foreign spending target tonight to $9,333,000,000, with an estimated $570,000,000 going to China.

This new estimate, for the 15 months beginning April 1, was given to Chairman Vandenberg (R-Mich), of the Senate Foreign Relations Committee, by Lewis W. Douglas, ambassador to Britain, on behalf of the State Department.

It is $250,000,000 more than President Truman asked in his budget message last month.

Douglas said the increase came in the amount the State Department wants to spend for China and several other programs, including any military aid that may be decided upon for Turkey and Greece.

The Ambassador gave this foreign spending breakdown from the president's budget message:

European recovery program $6,800,000,000; government and relief in occupied areas (Germany, Austria, Japan and Korea), $1,400,000,000; Philippine war damage, rehabilitation and veterans benefits $133,000,000, and other foreign aid, including China, $750,000,000.

Not Official Request

To this has since been added the $250,000,000 for other foreign aid, the Ambassador said.

Of the billion dollars estimated for China and "other aid" programs, he said he could only "indicate" the amount for China at $570,000,000. He added:

"I should like to emphasize that this does not represent an official request approved by the President."

Douglas' letter came amid indications that the President may get much less than he asked for the European recovery program.

Vandenberg told a reporter, without elaborating:

"The timetable of foreign aid is just as important as the fund totals."

Linked with previous public statements he has made, this seemed to point toward a compromise perhaps substantially below the $6,800,000,000 figure

Both President Truman and Secretary of State Marshall have stood stoutly for that total but Vandenberg has said the amount must not be regarded as "sacrosanct."

Decision To Carry Weight

The Michigan Senator is chairman of the Foreign Relations Committee and sponsor of the European recovery bill. His final decision on what he considers a fair compromise will carry heavy weight with the administration and his Senate colleagues.

Friends said Vandenberg's position is that it is more important to have the right amount of money ready for expenditure when it is needed on the aid delivery timetable than it is to vote the full fund all at once.

The Senate Republican Policy Committee, meanwhile, set March 1 as the opening day of floor debate on the recovery bill which Vandenberg and his committee are to begin writing next Monday.

Chairman Taft (R-Ohio) said the schedule called for final Senate action by April 1. This is the date by which Marshall wants the program approved by both houses. No timetable has yet been announced in the House.

State Department officials said today it is much too early to tell whether the current drop in commodity prices will lower the cost of the Marshall program.

The $6,800,000,000 figure was bas-

German General Hangs Himself

PARIS, Feb. 6 (AP) — Gen. Otto Von Stuelpnagel, the iron-handed German administrator of occupied France, hanged himself today in a Paris prison cell to avoid trial on war crimes charges.

Guards of Cherche-Midi Prison found Stuelpnagel swinging in his cell before dawn. The 69-year-old General had fashioned a noose from strips of bedding and fastened it to a bar of the window. He was still alive when taken down, but died less than an hour later.

Stuelpnagel's suicide was touched with irony.

From the same prison scores of hostages were sent to their deaths during his administration as Nazi governor general of France. A former possible hostage, now a free man, waited outside to photograph the body of the General whose orders had sent him to prison. The man, Maurice Albert Aubry, a temporary Associated Press photographer, had served as a member of the resistance during the war.

Stuelpnagel's death came a little more than a day after another German general, Johannes Blaskowitz, killed himself in a jump from a prison catwalk in Nuernberg, Germany. Blaskowitz also faced war crimes charges.

Suicide has been used as a way out by many other German leaders including Hermann Goering, Henrich Himmler, Robert Ley, Karl Westphal and Dr. Leonard Conti. Adolf Hitler and Paul Joseph Goebbels also are reported to have taken their own lives.

Letters Discovered

Return Of Wrights' Plane To U.S. Now Seems Certain

DAYTON, O., Feb. 6 (AP) — The Wright brothers' historic Kitty Hawk airplane seemed certain tonight to be returned to the United States.

Col. E. E. B. Mackintosh, former director of London's Kensington Science Museum which now has the tiny craft, said he supposed the plane would be returned.

His statement in London followed discovery of two secret letters, one from Orville Wright, co-inventor with his brother of the Kitty Hawk; the second, a reply from Mackintosh.

Mackintosh admitted receiving a letter from Wright in 1943. The co-inventor, said Mackintosh, declared he had decided to return his pioneer plane to the United States after the war.

The museum director replied with an acknowledgement the plane belonged in America and promising to ship it as soon as the course of World War II made an ocean crossing safe.

He said today the plane probably would be returned if Wright's letter "fits in with the terms of the will from a legal point of view."

The Kitty Hawk made its first flight December 17, 1903, with Orville Wright at the controls. It was the first powered heavier-than-air machine to carry man aloft.

Wright's letter was dated December 8, 1943, six years after he had written his will. The will gave the plane to England's museum, "unless before my decease I personally in writing have asked its withdrawal from that museum."

Col. Mackintosh's reply was dated January 15, 1944.

When Wright's will was read yes-

Ukraine Accuses Britain

The Arab statement came in the midst of these other developments in the situation:

1. In an interview, the Soviet Ukraine accused the British government of obstructing the partition plan.

2. Replying to the charge made thus by Delegate Vassily A. Tarasenko, a British spokesman said United Nations members are waking up belatedly to the dangers of split-

Senate Group Defers Vote On Rent Measure

Committee To Make Decision On Feb. 16

WASHINGTON, Feb. 6 (AP)—The Senate Banking Committee, in disagreement on how to extend rent controls, decided today to wait until February 16 to make its decisions.

At that time, the present rent control law will have 13 days of life remaining.

Chairman Tobey (R-NH) told reporters that in the meantime "we've decided to sleep on this with our consciences."

He explained that both Democratic and Republican members will be busy up until February 16 making Jackson and Lincoln Day speeches.

There were reports meanwhile that the senators are considering proposals for automatic rent increases and automatic decontrol of rental units in whole areas—under certain circumstances.

Informed persons on Capitol Hill said these provisions were included in the 14-month rent control extension bill drawn up by a subcommittee headed by Sen. Cain (R-Wash).

"Automatic" Provisions Studied

In addition, it was reported, the subcommittee's draft would give legal sanction to rent increases of any size when landlord and tenant could agree on a lease running through all of 1949.

With the present rent control law running out February 29, the Banking Committee studied the two "automatic" provisions recommended by Cain's unit:

1. Automatic increase in rent, up to 15 per cent, if a landlord could show that his operating costs had gone up.

2. Automatic decontrol of rents in any city or rent control area if the Census Bureau found vacancies of one per cent or more among all dwelling units offered either for rent or for sale.

Earlier Sen. Sparkman (D-Ala.) had come out of the closed-door session tossing off the opinion that the current draft will be "greatly revised or sent back for additional subcommittee work."

Under the automatic increase proposal, any landlord who could show that his taxes, labor costs, repairs and similar expenses had advanced a certain per cent would be allowed a rent increase of half that percentage, with a maximum rent boost of 15 per cent officially countenanced. If his costs had gone up more than 30 per cent, the 15 per cent lid would prevail.

Rejection Subject To Appeal

A housing official said that a Census Bureau survey made last fall showed vacancies of one per cent or more in Denver, Seattle, San Antonio, Memphis, Tulsa, Portland, Ore., Newsport News, Va., Portsmouth, Va., and Norfolk, Va.

If similar conditions prevailed now and the subcommittee bill became law, all rent controls in those cities would be lifted.

The subcommittee bill proposes a check on the Housing Expediter's authority to reject rent increases recommended by local boards. Any such rejection would be subject to court appeal.

Tenants could appeal increases by going first to the local board, then to the Housing Expediter, and finally to the courts.

Cain told reporters he "wouldn't get excited" if the committee rejects some of the provisions of his bill.

Vaughn Puzzled By Un-Promotion

WASHINGTON, Feb. 6 (AP)—Maj. Gen. Harry H. Vaughan, President Truman's military aide, announced his own promotion today, but it turned out to be all a "misapprehension."

In a few hours he was right back where he started.

The General told the press his new job was chief armed forces aide to the President, with three assistants.

This got into the papers.

Several hours later, Presidential Press Secretary Charles G. Ross called White House reporters to his office. Speaking, he said, for Mr. Truman, Ross told them:

"There is no change in the White House setup as announced earlier in the day. There seems to have been some misapprehension."

What happened, Ross said, is that the appointment of Col. Robert B. Landry, New Orleans, as Air Forces aide gives the President a total of three aides.

All, Ross said with emphasis, are of equal rank. "There are no chief aides," he said.

The three are Landry, Vaughan and Capt. Robert L. Dennison for the Navy.

Vaughan took the news of his unpromotion with an air of good-natured bewilderment.

He said he thought when he made his announcement that the President had elevated him.

He said he wasn't sore at anybody.

Mother, 40, Gives Birth To Second Set Of Triplets

Girl And Two Boys Born In 8 Minutes

SYRACUSE, N. Y., Feb. 6 (AP)—A 40-year-old mother gave birth to her second set of triplets today in eight minutes flat.

A spokesman for the American Medical Association said chances of such a birth probably were one in a million.

Mrs. Margaret Walker felt a bit "groggy" but otherwise okay, Syracuse Hospital attaches reported, and the triplets appeared healthy. They had been expected.

Dr. Morris Fishbein, editor of the AMA Journal, said the birth was "unusual," but added that medical literature contains histories of other mothers bearing more than one set of live triplets.

To the father, Michael Walker, a repairman at the Solvay Process Company, news of the 17-pound, two-ounce trio was a signal to buy cigars.

Now Have Nine Children

The Walkers now have nine children. The oldest is 16. Where they all will sleep in their four-bedroom home is a question.

First to arrive today was a six-pound boy, at 12:06 p. m., Eastern Standard Time. A five-pound, 4½ ounce girl followed. The third, another girl, weighed in at five pounds, 13½ ounces, eight minutes after her brother.

Mrs. Walker normally weighs about 135 pounds. She had wanted all girls.

"How is she?" was the first question that came from the father when halted in his pacing at the hospital.

In Hospital Since Jan. 21

Advised "everything is fine," Walker slumped into a chair.

"Guess I better start buying the cigars," he said.

In addition to the first set of triplets—Peter, Paul and Patricia—born April 21, 1943, the Walkers have John, 16, Michael Joseph, 14, and James Patrick, who will be seven a week from today.

Before leaving the hospital to break the news to his six other children, Walker received congratulations from physicians, nurses and patients. Mrs. Walker had been there since January 21.

Her doctor, who declined use of his name, said he had known of the pending multiple birth "since the start."

V-2 Rocket Successfully Maneuvered In Flight

WHITE SANDS, N. C., Feb. 6. (AP)—The first successful attempt by American scientists to maneuver a V-2 rocket in powered flight was made today at the White Sands Proving Grounds, Capt. J. B. Dickey, public information officer reported.

The V-2 was equipped with an electronic guidance system that permitted the rocket to be maneuvered left and right and up and down.

The missile reached a maximum altitude of 70 miles. Overall flight time was seven minutes, 25 seconds.

By changing the missile's aerodynamic stability on its downward course, the impact velocity was materially reduced, Capt. Dickey said. This made possible the recovery of optical gear and other instruments.

De Valera Party Loses Parliamentary Majority

Another General Election Possible

DUBLIN, Feb. 7.—(Saturday)—Prime Minister Eamon De Valera's Fianna Fail Party failed today to win a clear parliamentary majority in Eire, and another general election is possible.

De Valera's party obtained only 66 seats out of the 147 voted on in Wednesday's general elections.

The combined opposition total was 76 seats.

De Valera, the 65-year-old Brooklyn-born leader, refused to comment on the results today.

It became fairly certain that De Valera will be named Premier when the Parliament meets February 18 because he will be supported by the National Labor Deputies and a number of independents.

But De Valera had said during the campaign that he did not want the support of the others, hence the possibility of another general election in an effort to remove an uncertain period of government ahead.

In Saddle 16 Years

De Valera has been in the ruling saddle in Eire for 16 years.

His party needed 74 seats out of the 147-man Parliament to get a clear working majority. Five of these seats will not be decided until next week when a postponed election is held in Kilkenny County.

But even if De Valera got all of those he would have only 71 seats.

De Valera, who has headed the government since 1932, will go to Kilkenny next Tuesday for the elections.

Political quarters consider that he may gain two of the five Kilkenny seats and perhaps more. It all depends on his power to sway the crowd in his last-minute speeches.

Noel Hartnett, campaign director for Sean MacBride, the brilliant 43-year-old lawyer who led the New Republican Party to 10 seats, described the election results flatly as " a defeat for Fianna Fail," De Valera's party.

The labor group was particularly elated at having almost doubled its strength in Parliament.

Final Standings

Stunt Man With Less Luck Than Brodie Is Killed

SAN FRANCISCO, Feb. 6 (AP).. A man with three small parachutes leaped from the Golden Gate bridge to his death today 265 feet below while a cameraman took pictures.

The elaborately- equipped man, wearing football padding, was identified tentatively by highway patrolmen as Dusty Rhodes, of Honolulu.

The parachutes apparently were too small. The man fell like a stone to the Pacific waters below although the 'chutes opened.

A bridge foreman, Arthur Olson, grabbed the stunt man but lost his grip. A man who gave his name to the police as Jose A. Guzman and identified himself as a commercial photographer from Los Angeles took the pictures of the stunt leap.

Three Trainmen Injured In Wreck

MADISON, N. C., Feb. 6 (AP) — Three trainmen were injured late today when a Norfolk and Western passenger train jumped the tracks and plowed through a brickyard into a rural store two miles south of Madison.

Mr. and Mrs. George Lester, operators of the store, and their eight-year-old daughter, Flora, were all in the building, but escaped injury.

The train carried 30 passengers. None was injured. It was Train 22 enroute north from Winston-Salem to Roanoke, Va.

The injured were:

O. D. Moomaw, Roanoke, engineer; C. P. Manuel, Roanoke, brakeman, and C. C. Meadows, Roanoke, fireman.

Meadows was taken to a Winston-Salem hospital where his condition was reported as "very critical." Moomaw was taken to a Leaksville hospital and his condition is "critical."

$570,000,000 For China Will Be Requested

15-Month Estimate Now $9,333,000,000

WASHINGTON, Feb. 6 (AP)—The State Department raised its foreign spending target tonight to $9,333,000,000, with an estimated $570,000,000 going to China.

This new estimate, for the 15 months beginning April 1, was given to Chairman Vandenberg (R-Mich), of the Senate Foreign Relations Committee, by Lewis W. Douglas, ambassador to Britain, on behalf of the State Department.

It is $250,000,000 more than President Truman asked in his budget message last month.

Douglas said the increase came in the amount the State Department wants to spend for China and several other programs, including any military aid that may be decided upon for Turkey and Greece.

The Ambassador gave this foreign spending breakdown from the president's budget message:

European recovery program $6,800,000,000; government and relief in occupied areas (Germany, Austria, Japan and Korea), $1,400,000,000; Philippine war damage, rehabilitation and veterans benefits $133,000,000, and other foreign aid, including China, $750,000,000.

Not Official Request

To this has since been added the $250,000,000 for other foreign aid, the Ambassador said.

Of the billion dollars estimated for China and "other aid" programs, he said he could only "indicate" the amount for China at $570,000,000. He added:

"I should like to emphasize that this does not represent an official request approved by the President."

Douglas' letter came amid indications that the President may get much less than he asked for the European recovery program.

Vandenberg told a reporter, without elaborating:

"The timetable of foreign aid is just as important as the fund totals."

Linked with previous public statements he has made, this seemed to point toward a compromise perhaps substantially below the $6,800,000,000 figure

Both President Truman and Secretary of State Marshall have stood stoutly for that total but Vandenberg has said the amount must not be regarded as "sacrosanct."

Decision To Carry Weight

The Michigan Senator is chairman of the Foreign Relations Committee and sponsor of the European recovery bill. His final decision on what he considers a fair compromise will carry heavy weight with the administration and his Senate colleagues.

Friends said Vandenberg's position is that it is more important to have the right amount of money ready for expenditure when it is needed on the aid delivery timetable than it is to vote the full fund all at once.

The Senate Republican Policy Committee, meanwhile, set March 1 as the opening day of floor debate on the recovery bill which Vandenberg and his committee are to begin writing next Monday.

Chairman Taft (R-Ohio) said the schedule called for final Senate action by April 1. This is the date by which Marshall wants the program approved by both houses. No timetable has yet been announced in the House.

State Department officials said today it is much too early to tell whether the current drop in commodity prices will lower the cost of the Marshall program.

The $6,800,000,000 figure was bas-

German General Hangs Himself

PARIS, Feb. 6 (AP) — Gen. Otto Von Stuelpnagel, the iron-handed German administrator of occupied France, hanged himself today in a Paris prison cell to avoid trial on war crimes charges.

Guards of Cherche-Midi Prison found Stuelpnagel swinging in his cell before dawn. The 69-year-old General had fashioned a noose from strips of bedding and fastened it to a bar of the window. He was still alive when taken down, but died less than an hour later.

Stuelpnagel's suicide was touched with irony.

From the same prison scores of hostages were sent to their deaths during his administration as Nazi governor general of France. A former possible hostage, now a free man, waited outside to photograph the body of the General whose orders had sent him to prison. The man, Maurice Albert Aubry, a temporary Associated Press photographer, had served as a member of the resistance during the war.

Stuelpnagel's death came a little more than a day after another German general, Johannes Blaskowitz, killed himself in a jump from a prison catwalk in Nuernberg, Germany. Blaskowitz also faced war crimes charges.

Suicide has been used as a way out by many other German leaders including Hermann Goering, Henrich Himmler, Robert Ley, Karl Westphal and Dr. Leonard Conti. Adolf Hitler and Paul Joseph Goebbels also are reported to have taken their own lives.

"Friendly" Accord
Pearson Libel Trial Ends; Paper Stands Court Costs

CHARLES TOWN, W. Va., Feb. 6 —(AP)—The trial of a $100,000 libel suit brought by Columnist Drew Pearson against the weekly Jefferson Republican ended today after the judge announced a settlement which involved a letter to Pearson from the editor.

The letter, read in court, was from Raymond J. Funkhouser, Charles Town industrialist and editor of the paper, which stated the article upon which the suit was based was published without Funkhouser's knowledge.

The letter added that "I have no reason to believe you are a Communist, but feel assured you are neither a Communist or sympathizer with so-called principles of Communism, or ever have been."

Judge Decatur H. Rodgers earlier in the trial had ruled that to call a person a "Commie" was libel in itself. After that ruling he held that further testimony would be limited to mitigation of damages, if any.

He repeated the statement today, saying the remark in the column was actionable and that some damage was done.

The judge announced a "friendly agreement" had been reached after he had held a two-hour conference in chambers with opposing attorneys.

The defendant publishing company and editors were instructed to pay the court costs, which the judge said he understood amounted to $75.28. He said they were paid today.

Judge Rodgers said that there was a discussion to the effect that Funkhouser's letter would be published in the Jefferson Republican,

Letters Discovered
Return Of Wrights' Plane To U.S. Now Seems Certain

DAYTON, O., Feb. 6 (AP) — The Wright brothers' historic Kitty Hawk airplane seemed certain tonight to be returned to the United States.

Col. E. E. B. Mackintosh, former director of London's Kensington Science Museum which now has the tiny craft, said he supposed the plane would be returned.

His statement in London followed discovery of two secret letters, one from Orville Wright, co-inventor with his brother of the Kitty Hawk; the second, a reply from Mackintosh.

Mackintosh admitted receiving a letter from Wright in 1943. The co-inventor, said Mackintosh, declared he had decided to return his pioneer plane to the United States after the war.

The museum director replied with an acknowledgement the plane belonged in America and promising to ship it as soon as the course of World War II made an ocean crossing safe.

He said today the plane probably would be returned if Wright's letter "fits in with the terms of the will from a legal point of view."

The Kitty Hawk made its first flight December 17, 1903, with Orville Wright at the controls. It was the first powered heavier-than-air machine to carry man aloft.

Wright's letter was dated December 8, 1943, six years after he had written his will. The will gave the plane to England's museum, "unless before my decease I personally in writing have asked its withdrawal from that museum."

Col. Mackintosh's reply was dated January 15, 1944.

Top U. S. General Will Help Greece Smash Guerrillas

Van Fleet Heads Advisory Forces

WASHINGTON, Feb. 6. (AP)—The United States is dispatching one of its top-flight combat generals to help Greece smash its Communist rebellion.

The Army announced today Maj. Gen. James A. Van Fleet has been named commander of all American Army, Air and Navy forces assigned to the Greek mission.

Maj. Gen. William G. Livesay, who has been serving as head of the mission and the military groups, will retain overall command. But Livesay henceforth will concentrate on the problems of handling United States supplies furnished under the Greek aid program. The program has the dual aim of enabling Greece to put down the guerrilla revolt and rebuild her war-ravaged economy.

As head of United States advisory forces in Greece, Van Fleet will help Greek military leaders step up preparations for a big spring offensive.

Thus Van Fleet, who the Army says is "no arm-chair general", will be able to put to use the combat experience gained among such places as the Remagen bridgehead, where the Rhine was first crossed, and other critical battles of the European campaign.

Van Fleet has been serving recently as assistant chief of staff for operations at American Army headquarters in Germany.

Meanwhile news dispatches from Athens indicated a new phase in the civil war. The Greek navy was ordered to attack and sink all unidentified submarines in Greek territorial waters.

The order followed the reported appearance of two strange submarines off Southern Greece.

Of all the countries charged with supplying aid to the Greek guerrillas, only Yugoslavia is listed as possessing submarines. Jane's Fighting Ships reports Marshal Tito's country has two submarines in its fleet.

Eugene Clay, economic adviser to the United States mission to Greece, said in an interview here today that guerrilla bands are being supplied with arms by smuggler boats. He said there can be "no economic recovery in Greece until order is restored."

ting the Holy Land. He said Britain had been consistent in her stand and had tried to warn the United Nations of the dangers it would face while armed only with a paper plan devoid of enforcement measures.

3. The Security Council put the Palestine situation on its provisional agenda for discussion at the next meeting on Monday.

The memorandum to Lie said Arabs never would recognize the validity of the partition plan or the authority of the United Nations to enforce it. It said that not a single Arab would co-operate with the partition commission now here preparing to go to Palestine.

Declaring that the prestige of the United Nations would best be served by abandoning the plan, the Arabs said "the only way to establish partition is first to wipe them (the Arabs) out — man, woman and child."

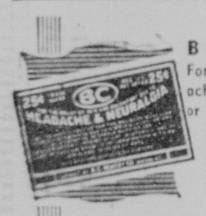

Death Toll Climbs

JERUSALEM, Feb. 6. (AP)—Seven Jews and two Arabs were killed today in scattered communal fighting in Palestine. A total of 1,080 persons have been killed in the Holy Land since the United Nations voted for partition November 29, an unofficial tabulation showed.

Police said two men believed to be Arabs shot and killed a 50-year-old Jewish messenger of the Ottoman Bank in Haifa. The attackers took $2,400 from the messenger and escaped.

Sniping continued in the border area between Jaffa and Tel Aviv. Two Jews were killed there and an Arab was wounded. Scattered casualties were reported elsewhere.

Snow And Cold In Sight For Much Of Country

CHICAGO, Feb. 6 (AP) — Snow, rain and cold are in sight for much of the country this weekend, but the Gulf area will remain balmy.

The Weather Bureau predicted light snow beginning late tonight in Illinois will spread to Indiana, Southern Wisconsin and Lower Michigan Saturday, then move into Iowa, Minnesota, Northern Wisconsin and Upper Michigan.

Ohio, Pennsylvania, Kentucky, Tennessee and New York will receive the snow Saturday night.

The northern section of the country, beset by freezing to sub-zero weather, will have more of the same this weekend.

Light rain or drizzles will hit the south central and southern states tomorrow. Rain also will fall in the northwest area.

Liebermans Drop Claims To Hoard

PHILADELPHIA, Feb. 6 (AP) — Mr. and Mrs. Benjamin Lieberman today withdrew their claims to $92,800 found in a cardboard box in the cellar of their home last March 10.

The Liebermans agreed to halt their legal battle under the "finders keepers" law after the state assured them they would be paid the usual 25 per cent informers' fee if the commonwealth gets the $92,800 under escheat proceedings. Lieberman told police he did not know how the money got in his home.

The widow of a slain ex-convict personally pressed her claim to the hoard.

Mrs. Anna Frances King Hillop, whose husband was tortured and shot to death in New Jersey nearly 16 years ago — two months after their marriage, said in common pleas court that the $92,800 belonged to her husband's estate.

Her attorney, F. Raymond Heughes, said he would prove that the money was not found by Lieberman in the cellar of his home but rather in a trap door in the ceiling of a second floor bedroom where it had been hidden by Hillop in conspiracy with Lieberman.

Besides Mrs. Hillop and the commonwealth, other persons sought part of the money.

Woman Who Visited Kuhn Before Escape Is Sought

MUNICH, Germany, Feb. 6. (AP)—Bavarian police searched today for a young woman who visited Fritz Kuhn in his Dachu cell four days before he escaped.

American military authorities in Berlin appealed to military police of three nations—British, French and Russian—to aid in the hunt for Kuhn, former German-American bund leader. Some German authorities speculated that he might have escaped to the Russian zone.

Kuhn, awaiting trial before a German denazification court, was reported missing Tuesday. Authorities have not been able to learn how he escaped or even the exact time. Some German officials have not shown much interest in his case.

Sailor And 10 Children Evicted From Home

PHILADELPHIA, Feb. 6. (AP)—A sailor and his 10 children were evicted from their home today.

Samuel Magro, 34-year-old aviation machinist's mate stationed at the Willow Grove (Pa.) Naval Air Station, temporarily moved his family in with a next-door neighbor.

The sailor said he did not know what, or where, his next move would be.

Landlord Pasquale Vagoni had a sheriff's deputy carry out the eviction. Vagoni said he bought the house in July, 1946, and was tired of living in one room.

"Protection" Money Can't Be Deducted

WASHINGTON, Feb. 6. (AP)—The operator of a race bet establishment can deduct some of its expenses from his income tax, even if the business is illegal—but not money he pays for "protection" against the law.

That ruling was set out today in a decision of the United States Tax Court ordering G. A. Comeaux, of Sedgwick County, Kans., to pay over $330,000 in back income tax and penalties.

"Protection" payments cannot be deducted because they are "contrary to sound public policy or proscribed types of conduct," the court held.

Hanns Eisler Offers No Evidence At Hearing

NEW YORK, Feb. 6 (AP) — The federal government conducted a swift deportation hearing today for Hans Eisler, Hollywood composer, accused of being a former Communist Party member, and a government official indicated he might be out of the country by the end of the month.

The 49-year-old song writer offered no evidence at the Immigration Service hearing. He is a brother of Gerhart Eisler, designated as America's "No. 1 Communist" by a congressional committee.

Communism Curb Proposal Would Apply To Wallace

Would Force Stand On Backing By Reds

WASHINGTON, Feb. 6 (AP)—A law to make Henry Wallace and other political candidates go on record as rejecting or accepting Communist backing was suggested to Congress today by Louis Waldman, New York lawyer.

Waldman offered the proposal to a House Un-American Activities Sub-committee as part of a plan to curb Communism in general. Committee members let it pass by without any question.

The attorney is a prominent labor union lawyer, chairman of the American Bar Association's Committee on American Citizenship, and former member of the New York State Legislature.

He did not mention Wallace by name in his statement to the subcommittee. But he did to reporters.

He said his proposed bill definitely would apply to the independent presidential candidate. Endorsement by the Communist Party newspaper, the Daily Worker, he said, would be considered endorsement by the party itself.

Under the bill, any candidate for federal office endorsed or nominated by a "totalitarian" organization would have to file a statement rejecting this support or saying he "accepts the principles and policies of such organizations."

The committee, Waldman said, should ask the states to take similar action.

The plan is aimed, he said, at persons who are unsympathetic with totalitarianism but are willing to accept its support "in order to win election to public office."

Unmarried Women Are More Scarce In West

WASHINGTON, Feb. 6 (AP) — Don't go west, young man, if you're looking for single women.

The Census Bureau reported today that only 17 out of 100 women in the west are single. In contrast, 25 out of 100 are single in the northeast.

agencies — the Federal Reserve Board, agriculture Department and the President's Council of Economic Advisers—gave views which may be summarized as follows:

1. This week's plunge of grain prices, after two weeks of gradual decline, is probably a "wholesome" adjustment rather than a token of collapse.

2. The markets will come to a stop-look-and-listen point fairly soon. They may move considerably lower before pausing.

3. The leveling period will last several weeks at least, until spring weather signs are readable.

4. Prices will not rebound to the dizzy peaks of late 1947. Three-dollar wheat will not return.

5. Retail prices of bread, dairy products and other foods won't match the current sag on the exchanges. But the upward trend of grocery prices may be checked.

6. Grain prices could go lower without hurting farmers unduly.

These opinions were obtained on a "don't quote me" basis from responsible officials. None of them saw the slump as a death-blow to inflationary dangers, of which President Truman warned yesterday.

A spokesman for the London museum, which received the plane in 1928 in a dispute between Wright and the Smithsonian Institution of Washington over whether his ship or the Langley aerodrome was first to fly with a man, said only:

"We naturally had a great deal of correspondence in 20 years, but it was all confidential and we cannot say whether such a letter was received."

Judge Love said the copy of Wright's letter and the original of Col. Mackintosh's were found in the late inventor's files by his secretary for 28 years, Miss Mabel Beck. The judge had ordered a search of the Wright files for any evidence on the question.

Special Train To Carry Gandhi's Ashes To Rivers

NEW DELHI, Feb. 6—(AP)—The Indian Railway Board announced tonight that a special train will carry Mohandas Gandhi's ashes for immersion in the waters of three sacred rivers next Thursday.

The train will consist of third class coaches, such as Gandhi used in his lifetime, and will carry a limited number of persons who will neither smoke nor chew betel nuts during the trip, the announcement said. These were regulations in conformity with Gandhi's habits of abstinence.

The train will leave New Delhi Wednesday morning and reach Allahabad at the confluence of the Ganges, Jumna and Saraswait Rivers on Thursday morning. The ashes will be scattered at the spot where Rama, Gandhi's favorite deity, is believed to have performed the funeral obsequies for his father, Dasaratha, king of Ayodya.

U. S., Britain Strengthen German Economic Setup

BERLIN, Feb. 6 (AP)—British and American military governments proclaimed today the establishment of a more powerful German economic administration in their combined zones.

As a result, the East-West split over Germany's future yawned wider. The Russian-controlled press declared the "partition" of Germany was not official.

The proclamation becomes effective Monday and within 15 days the economic council of the two zones at Frankfurt will be increased from 52 to 104 members by elections to be held by the eight state legislatures. A state council, or upper house, consisting of two representatives from each state, will take office at the same time.

Murder Suspect Flees W. Va. State Hospital

HUNTINGTON, W. Va., Feb. 6—(AP)—Homer Jack Dean, described by Detective Chief Azel Bryant as the "No. 1 suspect in a Columbus, O., murder case and a dangerous man," escaped today.

The 37-year-old fugitive, who is also under charges of robbery, forgery and obtaining money under false pretenses, made his getaway from an unarmed guard at the Huntington State Hospital.

The break, said Bryant, came a few minutes after Dean was being returned to his ward following an examination on a lunacy warrant obtained by his mother to prevent his extradition to Ohio for questioning about the slaying of Elmo Rice, in Columbus, December 10.

Rice, a real estate agent, disappeared after leaving his home to demonstrate his automobile to a prospective buyer. His body was found on a lonely country road the following morning.

Foreign Demand For U. S. Coal Shows Decline

WASHINGTON, Feb. 6 (AP) — Foreign countries, which recently couldn't get as much American coal as they wanted, are now passing up part of the American coal which is offered them.

Officials, in acknowledging this slackening in foreign demand, said it might be short-lived. Some said they may expect today's situation to be reversed again by mid-summer.

Nevertheless, United States shipments of coal overseas—about 85 per cent of which goes to Europe—have slowed down to considerably less than the export allowance and are expected to remain so through March at least.

Argentina Urges Parley To Settle Antarctic Claims

Proposal Is Made In Note To London

BUENOS AIRES, Feb. 6 (INS)—Argentina proposed tonight an international conference to settle claims of various nations to territory in Antarctica.

The Argentine Foreign Ministry proposal came in the text of a reply to two recent British notes protesting against Argentine occupation of Deception Island and other alleged Argentine activities within the Antarctic circle.

Britain's protests had clearly reserved the right to take steps to assure respect of British claims on certain Antarctic areas.

Navy Maneuvers Planned

Meanwhile, the Argentine navy reportedly is preparing to sail February 11 for large scale maneuvers in disputed Antarctic waters with a fleet of capital ships, cruisers, destroyers and airplanes.

The Argentine note rejected a British proposal that the International Court of Justice settle the Argentine-British dispute, pointing out that several other nations, particularly Chile, are interested in the South Polar regions with its possible resources of uranium and oil.

Argentina and Chile have an agreement to work together in exploiting any Antarctica riches.

The Argentine Foreign Ministry released a map showing the nation's claims in the ice-covered polar region. These included the southern Shetlands Islands, the southern Orkneys Islands, Graham Land (also known as Palmer Peninsula), and other areas.

U. S. Has Made No Claims

The United States has made no formal claims to Antarctic territory but has carried on several large explorations in the region.

The American Finn Ronne South Polar Exepition finshed a mapping program last December that covered 230,000 square miles of hitherto unexplored territory.

Rear Adm. Richard E. Byrd headed a large Navy Antarctic expedition last year to Little America, site of a previous expedition.

Upon his return to Washington last April, Adm. Byrd declared he did not advocate a United States claim to the territory because he doubted its military importance.

British Airman Breaks World's Speed Record

MORETON VALENCE AIRDROME, Gloucestershire, Eng., Feb. 6. (AP)—Squadron Leader W. A. Waterton today broke the world's plane speed record twice over a 100-kilometer closed course.

Flying a twin jet Meteor IV, he attained 542.9 miles an hour on his second attempt. A few hours earlier he had set a new record of 515.89 miles.

The previous record for such a course was set by Group Capt. John Cunningham last August in a De Havilland Vampire jet fighter at an average speed of 496.88 mph. Both the Meteor and Vampire are RAF operational planes.

Both United States and British jet planes have exceeded 600 miles an hour over other courses.

Farley Sees Vandenberg Getting GOP Nomination

DETROIT, Feb. 6 (AP)—James A. Farley predicted here today that Sen. Vandenberg (R-Mich) would be the Republican Party's presidential nominee.

To this he added that President Truman would defeat Vandenberg because "never in history has a President been beaten when times are good."

"There is no reason to believe," Farley said, "that the present prosperity will not exist when the voters go to the polls."

The former Postmaster General who was a Democratic Party strategist said in an interview that he foresaw a deadlock between Gov. Thomas E. Dewey, of New York, and Sen. Taft (R-Ohio) and that the GOP convention would draft Vandenberg.

Man Shot Down By Police After Wounding Wife

Father Of Four In Critical Condition

CHICAGO, Feb. 6 (AP) — A father of four tonight shot and wounded his wife, Policeman John Morrison reported, and then was shot down by police when he refused to surrender.

The man, Otto Krennrich, 33, a printing plant worker, is in critical condition. His wife, Jennie, 32, is expected to recover from a hip wound.

Morrison gave this account:

Morrison and two other policemen responded when neighbors reported the Krennriches were quarreling because he had been drinking. The police broke down the locked door and found Mrs. Krennrich shot.

The police ordered Krennrich to drop a shotgun, but he cocked it, aimed it at them, and warned:

"If you come any closer I'll shoot."

Morrison fired once. The bullet lodged in Krennrich's neck.

The four children, who were away from home at the time of the shooting, said Krennrich yesterday forced them to read aloud a newspaper story about Alvin Gregory, of Chicago, who shot and killed his wife and then himself Wednesday, orphaning their six children.

Otto Krennrich Jr., 9, said his father then told him:

"When I get paid I am going to buy a gun, and that is what is going to happen to this family."

Top U. S. General Will Help Greece Smash Guerrillas

Van Fleet Heads Advisory Forces

WASHINGTON, Feb. 6. (AP)—The United States is dispatching one of its top-flight combat generals to help Greece smash its Communist rebellion.

The Army announced today Maj. Gen. James A. Van Fleet has been named commander of all American Army, Air and Navy forces assigned to the Greek mission.

Maj. Gen. William G. Livesay, who has been serving as head of the mission and the military groups, will retain overall command. But Livesay henceforth will concentrate on the problems of handling United States supplies furnished under the Greek aid program. The program has the dual aim of enabling Greece to put down the guerrilla revolt and rebuild her war-ravaged economy.

As head of United States advisory forces in Greece, Van Fleet will help Greek military leaders step up preparations for a big spring offensive.

Thus Van Fleet, who the Army says is "no arm-chair general", will be able to put to use the combat experience gained among such places as the Remagen bridgehead, where the Rhine was first crossed, and other critical battles of the European campaign.

Van Fleet has been serving recently as assistant chief of staff for operations at American Army headquarters in Germany.

Meanwhile news dispatches from Athens indicated a new phase in the civil war. The Greek navy was ordered to attack and sink all unidentified submarines in Greek territorial waters.

The order followed the reported appearance of two strange submarines off Southern Greece.

Of all the countries charged with supplying aid to the Greek guerrillas, only Yugoslavia is listed as possessing submarines. Jane's Fighting Ships reports Marshal Tito's country has two submarines in its fleet.

Eugene Clay, economic adviser to the United States mission to Greece, said in an interview here today that guerrilla bands are being supplied with arms by smuggler boats. He said there can be "no economic recovery in Greece until order is restored."

Arabs Say

ting the Holy Land. He said Britain had been consistent in her stand and had tried to warn the United Nations of the dangers it would face while armed only with a paper plan devoid of enforcement measures.

3. The Security Council put the Palestine situation on its provisional agenda for discussion at the next meeting on Monday.

The memorandum to Lie said Arabs never would recognize the validity of the partition plan or the authority of the United Nations to enforce it. It said that not a single Arab would co-operate with the partition commission now here preparing to go to Palestine.

Declaring that the prestige of the United Nations would best be served by abandoning the plan, the Arabs said "the only way to establish partition is first to wipe them (the Arabs) out — man, woman and child."

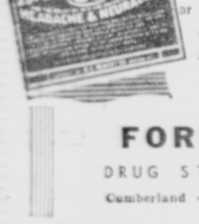

Death Toll Climbs

JERUSALEM, Feb. 6. (AP)—Seven Jews and two Arabs were killed today in scattered communal fighting in Palestine. A total of 1,080 persons have been killed in the Holy Land since the United Nations voted for partition November 29, an unofficial tabulation showed.

Police said two men believed to be Arabs shot and killed a 50-year-old Jewish messenger of the Ottoman Bank in Haifa. The attackers took $2,400 from the messenger and escaped.

Sniping continued in the border area between Jaffa and Tel Aviv. Two Jews were killed there and an Arab was wounded. Scattered casualties were reported elsewhere.

Snow And Cold In Sight For Much Of Country

CHICAGO, Feb. 6 (AP) — Snow, rain and cold are in sight for much of the country this weekend, but the Gulf area will remain balmy.

The Weather Bureau predicted light snow beginning late tonight in Illinois will spread to Indiana, Southern Wisconsin and Lower Michigan Saturday, then move into Iowa, Minnesota, Northern Wisconsin and Upper Michigan.

Ohio, Pennsylvania, Kentucky, Tennessee and New York will receive the snow Saturday night.

The northern section of the country, beset by freezing to sub-zero weather, will have more of the same this weekend.

Light rain or drizzles will hit the south central and southern states tomorrow. Rain also will fall in the northwest area.

Liebermans Drop Claims To Hoard

PHILADELPHIA, Feb. 6 (AP) — Mr. and Mrs. Benjamin Lieberman today withdrew their claims to $92,800 found in a cardboard box in the cellar of their home last March 10.

The Liebermans agreed to halt their legal battle under the "finders keepers" law after the state assured them they would be paid the usual 25 per cent informers' fee if the commonwealth gets the $92,800 under escheat proceedings. Lieberman told police he did not know how the money got in his home.

The widow of a slain ex-convict personally pressed her claim to the hoard.

Mrs. Anna Frances King Hillop, whose husband was tortured and shot to death in New Jersey nearly 16 years ago — two months after their marriage, said in common pleas court that the $92,800 belonged to her husband's estate.

Her attorney, F. Raymond Heughes, said he would prove that the money was not found by Lieberman in the cellar of his home but rather in a trap door in the ceiling of a second floor bedroom where it had been hidden by Hillop in conspiracy with Lieberman.

Besides Mrs. Hillop and the commonwealth, other persons sought part of the money.

Woman Who Visited Kuhn Before Escape Is Sought

MUNICH, Germany, Feb. 6. (AP)—Bavarian police searched today for a young woman who visited Fritz Kuhn in his Dachu cell four days before he escaped.

American military authorities in Berlin appealed to military police of three nations—British, French and Russian—to aid in the hunt for Kuhn, former German-American bund leader. Some German authorities speculated that he might have escaped to the Russian zone.

Kuhn, awaiting trial before a German denazification court, was reported missing Tuesday. Authorities have not been able to learn how he escaped or even the exact time. Some German officials have not shown much interest in his case.

Sailor And 10 Children Evicted From Home

PHILADELPHIA, Feb. 6. (AP)—A sailor and his 10 children were evicted from their home today.

Samuel Magro, 34-year-old aviation machinist's mate stationed at the Willow Grove (Pa.) Naval Air Station, temporarily moved his family in with a next-door neighbor.

The sailor said he did not know what, or where, his next move would be.

Landlord Pasquale Vagoni had a sheriff's deputy carry out the eviction. Vagoni said he bought the house in July, 1946, and was tired of living in one room.

"Protection" Money Can't Be Deducted

WASHINGTON, Feb. 6. (AP)—The operator of a race bet establishment can deduct some of its expenses from his income tax, even if the business is illegal—but not money he pays for "protection" against the law.

That ruling was set out today in a decision of the United States Tax Court ordering G. A. Comeaux, of Sedgwick County, Kans., to pay over $330,000 in back income tax and penalties.

"Protection" payments cannot be deducted because they are "contrary to sound public policy or proscribed types of conduct," the court held.

Hanns Eisler Offers No Evidence At Hearing

NEW YORK, Feb. 6 (AP) — The federal government conducted a swift deportation hearing today for Hans Eisler, Hollywood composer, accused of being a former Communist Party member, and a government official indicated he might be out of the country by the end of the month.

The 49-year-old song writer offered no evidence at the Immigration Service hearing. He is a brother of Gerhart Eisler, designated as America's "No. 1 Communist" by a congressional committee.

Communism Curb Proposal Would Apply To Wallace

Would Force Stand On Backing By Reds

WASHINGTON, Feb. 6 (AP)—A law to make Henry Wallace and other political candidates go on record as rejecting or accepting Communist backing was suggested to Congress today by Louis Waldman, New York lawyer.

Waldman offered the proposal to a House Un-American Activities Sub-committee as part of a plan to curb Communism in general. Committee members let it pass by without any question.

The attorney is a prominent labor union lawyer, chairman of the American Bar Association's Committee on American Citizenship, and former member of the New York State Legislature.

He did not mention Wallace by name in his statement to the subcommittee. But he did to reporters.

He said his proposed bill definitely would apply to the independent presidential candidate. Endorsement by the Communist Party newspaper, the Daily Worker, he said, would be considered endorsement by the party itself.

Under the bill, any candidate for federal office endorsed or nominated by a "totalitarian" organization would have to file a statement rejecting this support or saying he "accepts the principles and policies of such organizations."

The committee, Waldman said, should ask the states to take similar action.

The plan is aimed, he said, at persons who are unsympathetic with totalitarianism but are willing to accept its support "in order to win election to public office."

Unmarried Women Are More Scarce In West

WASHINGTON, Feb. 6 (AP) — Don't go west, young man, if you're looking for single women.

The Census Bureau reported today that only 17 out of 100 women in the west are single. In contrast, 25 out of 100 are single in the northeast.

agencies — the Federal Reserve Board, agriculture Department and the President's Council of Economic Advisers—gave views which may be summarized as follows:

1. This week's plunge of grain prices, after two weeks of gradual decline, is probably a "wholesome" adjustment rather than a token of collapse.

2. The markets will come to a stop-look-and-listen point fairly soon. They may move considerably lower before pausing.

3. The leveling period will last several weeks at least, until spring weather signs are readable.

4. Prices will not rebound to the dizzy peaks of late 1947. Three-dollar wheat will not return.

5. Retail prices of bread, dairy products and other foods won't match the current sag on the exchanges. But the upward trend of grocery prices may be checked.

6. Grain prices could go lower without hurting farmers unduly.

These opinions were obtained on a "don't quote me" basis from responsible officials. None of them saw the slump as a death-blow to inflationary dangers, of which President Truman warned yesterday.

A spokesman for the London museum, which received the plane in 1928 in a dispute between Wright and the Smithsonian Institution of Washington over whether his ship or the Langley aerodrome was first to fly with a man, said only:

"We naturally had a great deal of correspondence in 20 years, but it was all confidential and we cannot say whether such a letter was received."

Judge Love said the copy of Wright's letter and the original of Col. Mackintosh's were found in the late inventor's files by his secretary for 28 years, Miss Mabel Beck. The judge had ordered a search of the Wright files for any evidence on the question.

Special Train To Carry Gandhi's Ashes To Rivers

NEW DELHI, Feb. 6—(AP)—The Indian Railway Board announced tonight that a special train will carry Mohandas Gandhi's ashes for immersion in the waters of three sacred rivers next Thursday.

The train will consist of third class coaches, such as Gandhi used in his lifetime, and will carry a limited number of persons who will neither smoke nor chew betel nuts during the trip, the announcement said. These were regulations in conformity with Gandhi's habits of abstinence.

The train will leave New Delhi Wednesday morning and reach Allahabad at the confluence of the Ganges, Jumna and Saraswait Rivers on Thursday morning. The ashes will be scattered at the spot where Rama, Gandhi's favorite deity, is believed to have performed the funeral obsequies for his father, Dasaratha, king of Ayodya.

U. S., Britain Strengthen German Economic Setup

BERLIN, Feb. 6 (AP)—British and American military governments proclaimed today the establishment of a more powerful German economic administration in their combined zones.

As a result, the East-West split over Germany's future yawned wider. The Russian-controlled press declared the "partition" of Germany was not official.

The proclamation becomes effective Monday and within 15 days the economic council of the two zones at Frankfurt will be increased from 52 to 104 members by elections to be held by the eight state legislatures. A state council, or upper house, consisting of two representatives from each state, will take office at the same time.

Murder Suspect Flees W. Va. State Hospital

HUNTINGTON, W. Va., Feb. 6—(AP)—Homer Jack Dean, described by Detective Chief Azel Bryant as the "No. 1 suspect in a Columbus, O., murder case and a dangerous man," escaped today.

The 37-year-old fugitive, who is also under charges of robbery, forgery and obtaining money under false pretenses, made his getaway from an unarmed guard at the Huntington State Hospital.

The break, said Bryant, came a few minutes after Dean was being returned to his ward following an examination on a lunacy warrant obtained by his mother to prevent his extradition to Ohio for questioning about the slaying of Elmo Rice, in Columbus, December 10.

Rice, a real estate agent, disappeared after leaving his home to demonstrate his automobile to a prospective buyer. His body was found on a lonely country road the following morning.

KEEPING UP WITH

HOLLYWOOD

By LOUELLA PARSONS

HOLLYWOOD, Feb. 6 (INS)—All you girls who yearned to play Helen Morgan on the screen can relax. Dorothy Lamour gets that plum and the picture will be be started as soon as she is 'ree.

Janet Waldo

Here's the story: Leonard Hoffman wrote a script, which Mrs. Lulu Morgan, Helen's mother, okayed. The first, by the way, that Mrs. Morgan would accept. So Attorney Greg Bautzer took himself to New York quickly and was able to obtain financing, and more, important, a release through 20th Century-Fox. The Carthay Company was formed with young Mr. Hoffman, Attorney Bautzer, and Joseph Rifkin as the officers.

I don't need to tell you the life of Helen Morgan will make a popular and dramatic movie. So many of us remember her sitting on the piano singing "My Bill" in that wonderful voice.

• — • — •

The Michael Curtiz production, "The 49ers," has been called off. That's because the cost involved was $5,000,000. In its place, Mike will make "My Dream Is Yours" starring Doris Day, with Harry Kurnitz directing.

You'll see fewer and fewer big productions. The studios are cutting down to the bone. When "Captain From Castile" was shown, Darryl Zanuck said, "Take a good look at that—it's the last of its kind that will be made for some time."

I am sorry Mike couldn't have made "The 49ers" with a less expensive budget, but it just couldn't be done. It would have been wonderful with the California Centennial coming up.

• — • — •

Vienna is a long way to travel to get your heart's desire,, but not too far for Susanna Foster, who has been very unhappy because she wasn't permitted to sing on the screen. That's why she walked out of Universal-International.

When Susanna reaches Vienna in a few months, she will star in "Carline," and she will be accompanied by the world famous Vienna symphony orchestra. No wonder she's on a pink cloud.

Chatter in Hollywood: The Hollywood wolves may be interested to know that Hugette Empain, the 18-year-old daughter of the late Baron Empain, is in our midst, and staying at the Beverly Hills hotel.

The young lady inherited some of her papa's millions. She isn't interested in a movie career, but she is finding Hollywood a fascinating place to visit.

She is being shown the town by her step-aunt Betty "Ball of Fire" Rowland, the strip tease artist.

• — • — •

Myrna Loy, who has been vacationing in the east with Gene Markey after a session of one movie job after the other, has decided to go to Brussels to accept the award given her as "the outstanding American actress of 1947."

"The Best Years Of Our Lives" turned the trick for Myrna and I don't blame her for wanting to be on hand, Feb. 27, when the award is made.

• — • — •

Snapshots of Hollywood collected at random: Janet Waldo, who some of you may have heard as Corliss Archer on the radio, is marrying Bob Lee in June He is the author of "Look, Ma, I'm Dancing."

Barbara Brewster, one of the twins, is expecting a baby any day. In private life she is Mrs. Bob Le Monde.

At last a boy baby has arrived in a Hollywood home. The Irving Wallaces welcomed a boy, the first in the movie colony this year.

Liz Whitney has gone back to New York after a session at Santa Anita, where some of her horses ran.

Ethel Barrymore's book is strictly memoirs and not a story of the Barrymore family.

I hope it's true that Ken Murray will win a special award for "Bill And Coo" at the Academy Awards. That is the graeatest picture of its kind I have ever seen, and deserves some recognition.

Cobina Wright, Sr. received some of the wedding cake from Princess Elizabeth's wedding, so she sent me a piece—not to eat, but to dream on.

PE Erects 1,889 Miles Of New Line

The completion of 1,889 miles of new rural line by the Potomac Edison Company is supplying electric service to 10,000 rural families for the first time, company officials announced yesterday.

Of the rural lines, 608.3 miles were built in 1947 with 40.57 miles being completed in the Cumberland area. The local lines represent 90.16 per cent of the quota set for 1947.

The lines erected in 1947 were completed at a cost of $888,288 and service 3,317 customers who contracted for electricity, with 531 more families expected to contract for the service.

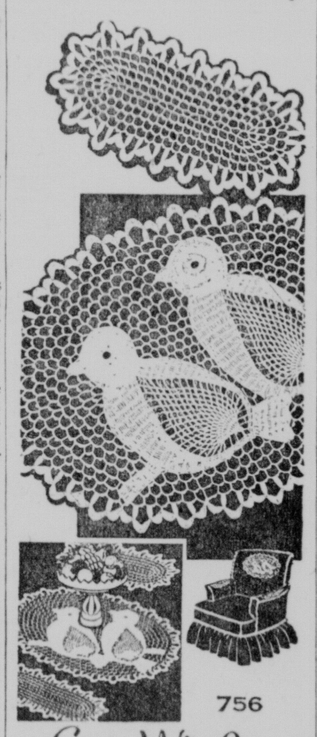

Seven Join Army, Air Force Here

Seven men enlisted at the local Army and Air Force recruiting station and have been sent to Baltimore for processing, Capt. Laurence M. Bairstow announced yesterday. They are:

Melvin S. Wilkins, Romney, W. Va.; Roy Franklin Droll, 21, and Joseph William Droll, 29, Beryl, W. Va.; Benjamin Harrison Gordon, Jr., 30, Rawlings; James Carl Crable, 18, 26 Church Street, Lonaconing; Richard Lee Hershberger, 18, 19 Church Street, Lonaconing; and Jack Lewis Yost, 18, 308 Park Street.

Most bells first used in western Christendom were probably hand bells. Several examples of these bells, some of them, it is believed, as old as the sixth century, are still preserved in Ireland, Scotland and Wales.

Dnieprdam Is Restored

MOSCOW — (AP) — Restoration of the first section of the Dnieprdam power station has been completed with the installation of the third 102,000 horsepower turbine.

Although six other turbines are to be installed before the rehabilitation job is finished, the most difficult stage is said to have been passed.

The big dam, the huge power house, the river port, the shipping locks and other technical installations have been rebuilt and as a whole the station has assumed its pre-war contours.

Engineers say it is more modern than the plant the Germans destroyed.

Calls For End In The Marketing Of Medical Care

The medical profession in Cumberland, as elsewhere, has been called on by the American Medical Association, in a sharply-worded editorial, to take steps toward a housecleaning of doctors who accept kickbacks, commissions and rebates. It is not immediately known if such methods are practiced here, but it is to be expected that if they are they will ferreted out. The editorial in the Journal of the American Medical Association declares "marketing of medical care" must end. The editorial:

"The pride of medicine as a profession has always been its freedom from the taint of barter and trade in the sick patient. Physicians must give their wholehearted devotion to the care of the patient; no other objective must be given precedence over considerations of the patient's need. Nevertheless, the charge is made that some physicians have forgotten the ethical principles that prevail in the relationship between doctor and patient and have selected the surgeon willing to make the greatest division of fees rather than the one best suited to perform the operation. Ophthalmologists have sent the patient for lenses to the optician who returned a proportion of the fee rather than to the optician who rendered the highest quality of optical service. Occasionally orthopedic surgeons and others who utilize the work of the maker of braces, splints and elastic bandages have been willing to accept commissions from such manufacturers and have delegated the procurement of these accessories to the agency offering the largest commission rather than to the one most painstaking in production and most reasonable in price. From time to time criticism has been leveled against pharmacists who have offered commissions to physicians on the prescriptions sent to them and to the physicians who have accepted such commissions. Wherever barter and trade have insinuated their insidious and evil aspects into the practice of medicine, the quality of the service has depreciated. The morals of the physicians and the commercial agencies that deal in these unwholesome profits in this marketing of medical care have already deteriorated.

"From the beginning of its entrance on the medical scene, the American Medical Association has fought this menace to the quality of medical service and to the good repute of medical practice. Resolutions have been passed by the official bodies of the association unequivocally condemning such practices. The Judicial Council has repeatedly urged the expulsion or other action against physicians proved to have participated in such procedures. The leaders of surgery, ophthalmology, orthopedic surgery and pharmacy have been unanimous in pointing out the extent to which such commercial considerations may break down the good repute of the specialties concerned. The American College of Surgeons adopted an oath to be taken by its fellows to the effect that they would not participate in the secret division of fees. The Principles of Ethics of the American Medical Association have declared the unethical character of such divisions—direct or indirect.

"Now the development of greater complexity in medical practice and in medical relationships has introduced new factors into this problem of barter and trade.

"The development of roentgenology [x-ray examination and treatment] as an important medical specialty and the establishment of clinical pathologic laboratories to which physicians send patients for the making of highly technical and often costly tests have introduced new sources of rebates, kick-backs and commissions. In some communities means have been proposed for evading the condemnation of medical organizations and societies through the establishment of corporations, cooperative laboratories and roentgenologic offices of multiple ownership.

"As might have been anticipated, the ultimate development was recognition by governmental agencies of the fact that the unprotected public was being exploited by such methods. The first warning and one of tremendous significance was the indictment by the Department of Justice of two manufacturing optical agencies and of a considerable number of ophthalmologists who participated in a plan which took hundreds of thousands of dollars from unknowing patients. A full report appeared in The Journal of the American Medical Association when the Department of Justice took this action during 1946. A popular periodical with millions of circulation has called on the medical profession to cleanse itself as it has repeatedly cleaned its own house in the past. The house of delegates asked the secretary of the American Medical Association to call the situation to the attention of every state and county medical society in the nation and to urge on these societies the initiation of the necessary steps toward ridding medical practice of these parasites. The Better Business Bureaus in several large communities, notably Los Angeles, have begun a campaign of enlightenment of the public regarding the extent to which these abuses prevail in their communities; they too have called on the medical profession to take the necessary steps to stop this pernicious practice.

"The housecleaning has been too long delayed. Biology has proved that any living organism that tries to maintain itself in the presence of filth invariably dies. The board of trustees of the American Medical Association therefore calls on leaders of the medical profession in every community in which the association is represented to act promptly, remembering, however, the necessity for proceeding in due form by the filing of formal charges against physicians known to be participating in such methods, thus offering an opportunity for the presentation of evidence and a suitable hearing so that the innocent may not be harmed but the guilty may be properly exposed and punished."

Bronchial Asthma Remedies

ACCORDING to Unger there are between 500,000 and 1,000,000 individuals in our country with bronchial asthma. Some are more incapacitated than others, especially those who exhibit wheezing and shortness of breath most of the time. The remainder are bothered only periodically, feeling perfect well between attacks.

Dr. Van Dellen

Asthma is an allergic phenomenon and symptoms appear after the sufferer inhales, swallows, or touches something to which he is sensitive. The irritants can usually be determined by various tests. There are also some who begin to pant after catching cold, following a period of worry, or when their vitality is low particularly if due to fatigue. At any rate, the condition is complex and the victim should take the disorder seriously, making every effort to have it studied thoroughly by one competent in this field. Otherwise treatment becomes a hit-or-miss affair and tends to recur.

The skin tests are helpful in two ways: they tell the subject what to avoid in order to stave off a bout and aid the physician in preparing a vaccine that may prove beneficial in desensitization. While there are always allergens that are difficult to escape—such as dust, pollens, danders, feathers, and some foods—nevertheless, an asthmatic can help by doing everything in his power to minimize contact with the offenders.

The attack itself can generally be controlled temporarily with a drenalin. This drug may be injected hypodermically or inhaled through a spray. Ephedrine has a somewhat similar effect and can be taken in tablet form. The only drawback to these products is the unpleasant side reactions that occur if used over a long period.

Other preparations like aminophyllin may be substituted and in many instances this substance is even better. It is more effective when adminstered directly into a vein and some of the most severe cases have responded to its continuous use for several days. In the circumstances the medicine is incorporated into several pints of a sugar or salt solution which is fed slowly into the blood of the wheezing patient. When the air of the room is filtered and dust free, comfort is greatly enhanced especially if pollen or dust is responsible for the condition. Oxygen, plain, or combined with helium often gives relief.

Isuprel is one of the latest remedies. It can be inhaled, injected beneath the skin, or taken by mouth in tablet form. Improvement is most marked in severe cases and less so in mild ones. We will probably hear more of this drug as time goes by. Penicillin and streptomycin are also valuable if infection co-exists. These wonder drugs are inhaled after incorporated into an aerosol mixture. Morphine should never be used.

Few people ever die from asthma and this fact should reassure victims of the malady. By staying in good physical condition the attacks can be weathered with greater ease and less wear and tear.

Excess Blubber

Mrs. R. writes: Can mere overweight in a person whose heart and lungs are in good condition, be responsible for shortness of breath?

REPLY

Yes because every extra pound means more work for the body.

Susceptible Husband

Mrs. N. writes: As soon as my husband goes to bed he starts sneezing. It is not a cold. Do you think he is allergic?

REPLY

Yes, this is a good bet. The irritant may be the wool in the blanket or the contents of the pillows or mattress.

Ovarian Cyst

Mrs. T. G. writes: "My doctor told me I have a water blister on my ovary. Have you any idea what could cause this?

REPLY

You refer to a cyst, which has many causes. Some are normal; others abnormal.

Ho Hum

E. R. writes: When I go to bed at night I yawn for about ten minutes. What might be the cause?

REPLY

Sleepy, I guess.

Blushing

Mrs. L. writes: I am a person who blushes for no reason at all. What causes this?

REPLY

Some individuals were born to blush and have no control over the reflex. It is a nervous reaction that is more embarrassing than serious. On the other hand, if you are in the menopausal age, the cause of the blushing is obvious.

AVERAGE REACTION

T. R. writes: What is it a sign of if a person's heart thumps when he becomes excited?

Reply

It means that he is normal. Every one reacts in this fashion.

Calloused Child

Mrs. Y. writes: My five year old daughter, since the age of one, has had callouses on her palms and soles. Is this due to lack of vitamins?

REPLY

No. These thickenings develop whenever the skin is irritated or rubbed against another part continually. The lesions are rare at the ages mentioned. Consequently, you should ask your family physician to look at them.

Thomas Of Oklahoma Active In Stock Market During Most Of His Senatorial Career; Opposed Cotton Controls To Own Advantage

Says DREW PEARSON

ED. NOTE—Drew Pearson's column today takes the form of a memo to Senator Ferguson of Michagan, chairman of the subcommittee investigating Senator Thomas and other grain speculators. Pearson was the first to expose Thomas's commodity speculation, two years ago, at which time he was called a liar by the Oklahoma Senator.)

WASHINGTON, Feb. 6.—Memo to Senator Ferguson of Michigan:

Believing in your sincere desire to get to the bottom of Senator Thomas and his use of the Senate for private speculation, I am sending you the results of my own investigation. These may furnish you with additional leads for your own probe.

I think you will find that during most of Senator Thomas's career in the U. S. Senate, he has been active in the stock market and has not hesitated to use his position of trust to influence the market. I suggest that first you look into 128 shares of Cities Service stock held by the Senator around 1928.

Following this, I suggest that you examine the Senator's dealing in silver and cotton in 1933. At around this time his son Wilfred was employed by the old stock-brokerage firm of Fenner and Beane at its Oklahoma City office, while the Senator traded through the firm's Washington office.

During the summer of 1933 you will find that Thomas was active in the silver market, in fact had bought a considerable quantity of silver on margin, and when the silver bubble burst in July, Thomas was caught short. John Mothershed, then manager of Fenner and Beane's Washington office, called on him for more collateral which the Senator did not put up. Accordingly, he was sold out, at a heavy loss.

I think you will find that the next day, July 19, 1933, Senator Thomas then sent two blistering telegrams to the presidents of the New York Stock Exchange and the Chicago Board of Trade demanding stricter regulation. The two telegrams read in part: "Today's activity in your exchange demonstrates absolute necessity for immediate adoption of a rule limiting the amount of loss on any stock during any one session."

It is interesting that the Senator did not reveal that he himself was caught short. He put his protest on the high moral plane of protecting the investing public. It is also interesting that some years later, in the spring of 1946 when the OPA urged stricter control of the cotton market. Thomas took an exactly opposite view and opposed those controls. At that time he and his wife were long on cotton and gambling on a continued rise in prices. The Senator didn't want OPA controls to interfere with such a rise.

Father Coughlin's Adviser

Going back to 1933, 1934 and 1935, I believe you will find that at about the time Senator Thomas was speculating in silver, he was also making speeches calculated to increase the price of silver. He was, for instance, an active member of Senator Key Pitman's silver bloc, and also described himself as "silver adviser to Father Coughlin," in attacking the Federal Reserve Act. Coughlin later turned out to be the biggest individual buyer (through his secretary) of silver in the United States.

In speech after speech Thomas urged passage of his silver-buying bill, the remonetization of silver and the payment of soldier bonuses from silver. But he said nothing to the public about the fact that he himself had been buying up silver.

On Feb. 18, 1935 Thomas offered an amendment to the WPA-Relief Appropriation Bill directing the Secretary of the Treasury to buy silver at the rate of 50,000,000 ounces a month until one-fourth of our total metallic reserve was silver instead of gold.

To check on the Senator's early commodity market transactions, look in an old warehouse at 818 Gravier Street, New Orleans, La., where the records of Fenner and Beane are stored. To check on some of his other silver transactions, look up the records of Harriss and Vose, 60 Beaver Street, New York, though these may have been destroyed.

In other words the Senator from Oklahoma seems to have been in the stock and commodity markets during practically all of his long career.

Regarding more recent operations, it might be interesting to check the account listed under "Farm Products Co." with Bache and Company and also for a short time with Merrill Lynch, Fenner and Beane. This account was handled by Dyke Cullum, about whom Senator Thomas recently said: "From time to time I have turned money over to Dyke Cullum and asked him to invest in cotton for me."

Brokers Suspicious

If your investigators check carefully, I think you will find that in February 1946, Dyke Cullum proposed opening an account under "Farm Products Co." with Merrill Lynch, Fenner and Beane. The brokers, however, were suspicious that it was a blind for Senator Thomas and queried Cullum closely. He replied that he wanted to use the account for himself, Ralph Moore and one other.

The brothers told him they would ask their New York office whether the account was acceptable. They also examined him closely as to why he wanted a separate account under Farm Products Co. when he was already trading heavily under his own name, while Ralph Moore was trading heavily under his own name.

Suspicious. Merrill Lynch, Fenner and Beane finally turned down the "Farm Products Co." account, though later, on October 22, 1946, by accident they accepted it. On Oct. 26, however, they asked Cullum to take the account elsewhere.

Ralph Moore, who has used the offices of both Senator Thomas and Senator Pappy O'Daniel of Texas, is now under investigation by the Justice Department.

Incidentally, it might be worth while also to examine the accounts of Kiki Cullum and Dyke Cullum, Jr. These are Cullum's children, but I suspect that their father handles the accounts for them.

(These are a few leads which I hope may be useful to your committee.)

Taft Warns Of Destructive Step In Truman's Civil Rights

By MARK SULLIVAN

On January 8th President Truman read to Congress his annual State of the Union message. The following night Senator Taft delivered a radio reply. Necessarily Mr. Taft's speech had to be prepared quickly, almost it had to be offhand. And necessarily it covered an immense scope, for the President's message had been long and had included many important points.

So great are the difficulties attending such a speech as Senator Taft made that many would have refrained from attempting it. On merit there is some question whether the value of promptness in the reply of an opposition party leader to a President's message may be offset by the difficulty of exact and comprehensive statement. But this consideration weighs less in the case of Senator Taft than perhaps any other important figure in public life. It is the frequently expressed judgment of Mr. Taft's associates in Congress and of observers that he has more information about a larger number of public questions than any other person in Congress. He not only has information acquired by industrious study; he has what is more rare, understanding of the relation of each question to fundamental principles of government. From a speaker thus equipped, and one so forthrightly candid as Mr. Taft habitually is, pressure generated by haste may evoke expressions having a force and touch of eloquence that might not emerge under ordinary conditions.

Foresaw Grave Peril

There was an example in Mr. Taft's reply to Mr. Truman's State Of the Union message. The latter had stressed participation by the Federal government in such activities as health, education and housing. Mr. Taft was careful to say he did "not mean to condemn all of the projects." But he was able to see, and forceful in pointing out, a guiding principle and the grave peril that may attend failure to respect the principle scrupulously. About the President's message Mr. Taft said:

"Throughout the message all the emphasis is on action by the Federal government. Not a word is said anywhere of preserving the power of the state and local communities to improve their own affairs or direct their own education, health, welfare or housing.

The message follows the standard New Deal line that places all power in Washington bureaus. If we destroy the independence of our communities, I don't believe we can retain any popular freedom in a country the size of the United States. Again, I do not mean to condemn all of the projects. I only point out that, taken together, they will add up to a totalitarian state."

This week the President sent another message to Congress. It deals with a different group of subjects, containing ten points composing a program for strengthening civil rights. Civil rights have as their supreme objective what Senator Taft described a "popular freedom", and what Mr. Truman in his present message describes to the same effect as "the great ideals of liberty and equality." As objectives these are the supreme end of government. But choice of methods for attaining the end present the same problem which Senator Taft pointed out—the same peril of arriving, through a wrong choice of methods, at an end which is the opposite of popular freedom and individual rights,namely, totalitarian government.

Stresses Government Action

In Mr. Truman's message as in his former one, he stresses action by the Federal government. There would be more bureaus at Washington. The spirit of nearly all his ten points is conveyed in the first one, which calls for "establishing a permanent Commission of Civil Rights, a Joint Congressional Committee on Civil Rights, and a Civil Rights Division in the Department of Justice."

One specific recommendation by Mr. Truman is legislation by Congress to end the requirement, in seven southern states, of payment of a poll tax as a prerequisite to voting. The poll tax is clearly distinguished from what Mr. Truman described as "discriminatory action by public officers based on race, color . . ." For the poll tax applies universally to all voters.

Action by the Federal government, through Congress to forbid the poll tax as a requirement for voting, would be an assertion of the right of Congress to take jurisdiction over requirements for voting in any or all states, such as those having to do with length of residence in the state or election precincts, and the like.

It would be difficult to imagine a step so destructive to the ideal about which Senator Taft warned, "preserving the power of the states" and refraining from anything which would "destroy the independence of our communities." The right of states to determine their own voting qualifications is so fundamental that to take it away would be to threaten their very existence as units of government.

Powers Truman Asks Could Bring About Deflation In '48

By DAVID LAWRENCE

WASHINGTON, Feb. 6— President Truman's warning about an economic crash unless Congress passes anti-inflation curbs that he has asked for must be interpreted realistically.

Nobody — neither the President nor the Congress nor business nor labor—will ever assume the responsibility for starting a crash or even for a "deflation" that could bring a recession.

The truth is all the talk is intended to be salutary—to exert psychological restraints against speculation or expansion and cause all economic groups to be cautious and prudent.

Perhaps the most lucid statement on the subject was made a few days ago by Allan Sproul, president of the Federal Reserve Bank of New York, who said:

"We are all a little enchanted, of course, with the idea of a modest downturn which would relieve some existing pressures and forestall a worse disturbance later. But no one has yet found a sure way of bringing about just a little depression."

There could be a crash, of course, but none that would be brought about deliberately. It could result from blundering in high places and by seeking to restrict one segment of the economy at the expense of the other.

Gross National Production

What is not generally realized is that America today is operating a gross national production at the rate of $237 billion a year. This means that, with wartime funds and surpluses, commercial operations are running higher than wartime because we are supplying not only our own needs but those of the rest of the world.

To operate a $237-billion business requires more working capital than ever before. Inasmuch as equity markers are dried up through fear of governmental policies or lack of incentive for risk capital due to the punitive tax rates imposed on the investor class, the businesses and industries of America have been getting their working capital from the banks. Now, with the screws being applied due to pressure from the Truman administration, it is questionable whether the end result may not be the liquidation of many businesses and the forcing of unemployment. Nobody will take responsibility for such an outcome, but the administration's pressure on the banks recently has resulted in a slowing up of credit operations generally.

A fallacious view of bank loans has been spread by the administration and the Federal Reserve Board. Testimony offered recently before the Senate banking and currency committee revealed that the ratio of bank loans to total deposits in banks is not as high as it was in 1939. Some constructive information on this point was placed before the committee by Robert Fleming, president of the Riggs National Bank of Washington and a former president of the American Bankers Association. Using data from Federal Reserve Board bulletins, he pointed out that, whereas on December 30, 1939, about 32 per cent of all deposits in all banks were interested in loans, only 25 per cent of all deposits were invested in loans in 1947 according to the latest available figures.

Deposits More Than Doubled

What so many people who decry the amount of bank loans overlook is that there were only $68 billions of deposits in all banks in 1939. There are about $153 billions now. To look only at the loans of $38 billions in 1947 and compare them with the $22 billions of loans in 1939 is to overlook entirely that deposits then were less than half of what they are today.

Certainly a $237-billion economy requires more working capital for increased payrolls and increased quantities of goods handled, and it would be tragic if restraints upon credit went to the point of deflation for deflation's sake.

What makes orthodox reasoning inapplicable to present-day conditions is the organized pressure of labor unions, which can effectively halt any price declines and can indeed force prices stil further upyard. Restriction of bank credit can bring a major collapse and start the whole economic system on a downward spiral.

The power to bring on a deflation rests in government. Mr. Truman may find it politically desirable to lash Congress for failing to give him inflation controls, but the last thing he wants is the power to deflate in an election year, for that means the end of his political career. So there will be warnings and much talk but no likelihood of a recession in 1948 unless the pressure already exerted on the banks to stop the flow of credit gets beyond anybody's control. There are no signs of such a disaster as yet, and the chances are against its occurrence.

These Days

By GEORGE E. SOKOLSKY

Phi Beta Kappa Proletariat

IT IS generally assumed in this country that the longer our sons and daughters are kept at school, the more they know. Apparently, the President's Commission on Higher Education wants nearly everybody to go to some kind of a college and wants $1,875,000,000 and more to make it possible.

Nothing is said about building a practical race of competent men and women to whom experience will mean a surer guide than mere repetition of the memorized contents of other men's thinking.

Two conflicting tendencies appear in our present-day colleges. The larger colleges grow tougher each year, but they also function increasingly on the factory system with very little, in fact, almost no relationship between professor and student, no sharpening of the mind on the anvil of classroom discussion. Just as, at another period, the rah-rah boy was something of a nuisance, today the stodgy, almost stuffy junior, full of quotations, drilled in authorities, his mind adjusted to electric-eye examination papers, reminds one of those Chinese students of old, preparing to become mandarins by making themselves dull.

The opposite tendency appears in many smaller colleges that filled themselves to the rafters by the windfall of the G.I. Bill of Rights. These colleges have lowered their standards to meet the capabilities of mass learning with the result that many of those who come out of them lack even an educated man's facility in his own native language. So many graduates of such colleges lack even a rudimentary knowledge of the culture of their race or the history of their own country. So many are specialists of the left eyebrow; that is, they know some detail of book learning with a degree of thoroughness—what they call a major—but they cannot fit that into anything like the whole of human experience nor have they been trained in thought process, in logic, to be able to apply knowledge to thought.

The result is that so many of them cannot get the kind of jobs college men and women expect nor can they do the work the nation is accustomed to expect from its college graduates. Professor Seymour E. Harris makes the point in an interesting article in the "Harvard Alumni Bulletin":

". . . The colleges of the country are not now able to take good care of 2,000,000, and certainly not 3,000,000 students. At the present time they offer a deteriorated product. The assembly-line method of turning out A. B.'s and Ph.D.'s cannot bring good results. The colleges and universities now find themselves in an unsound financial condition as a result of rising prices, costs, and taxes, and declining yields on investments . . ."

Can this country afford a deteriorated product? Can we afford to waste the facilities of our colleges and universities upon men and women who lack the mental equipment for thought and leadership and who are not likely to provide a greater capacity for work in learned and professional fields after a tenure at college than they would have been able to do had they gone into their chosen fields earlier in life? Is the college merely a place to mark time? Does the student benefit by attendance even if the years so spent add nothing to his intellectual stature or his competence?

What seems to be the outcome of all this is a proletariat of the white collar, a proletariat that has trained itself for a satisfied and secured low income, sufficient to maintain the white collar, but insufficient for a stimulating life of leadership. It is interesting to note how many of the students today aspire for the low incomes of civil service positions where they perform clerical tasks for which girls out of commercial high schools ought to be adequate. Does one have to spend four years at college for that?

This question requires an overall study. For instance, some of the colleges mark stiffly, maintaining the highest standards; others use a fairly low class average. A grade of B in one college might be an A in another. The boy who picks an easy marking college might swing through with honors and give the impression of great achievement. That false picture is very expensive to him and to his country.

Calls For End In The Marketing Of Medical Care

The medical profession in Cumberland, as elsewhere, has been called on by the American Medical Association, in a sharply-worded editorial, to take steps toward a housecleaning of doctors who accept kickbacks, commissions and rebates. It is not immediately known if such methods are practiced here, but it is to be expected that if they are they will ferreted out. The editorial in the Journal of the American Medical Association declares "marketing of medical care" must end. The editorial:

"The pride of medicine as a profession has always been its freedom from the taint of barter and trade in the sick patient. Physicians must give their wholehearted devotion to the care of the patient; no other objective must be given precedence over considerations of the patient's need. Nevertheless, the charge is made that some physicians have forgotten the ethical principles that prevail in the relationship between doctor and patient and have selected the surgeon willing to make the greatest division of fees rather than the one best suited to perform the operation. Ophthalmologists have sent the patient for lenses to the optician who returned a proportion of the fee rather than to the optician who rendered the highest quality of optical service. Occasionally orthopedic surgeons and others who utilize the work of the maker of braces, splints and elastic bandages have been willing to accept commissions from such manufacturers and have delegated the procurement of these accessories to the agency offering the largest commission rather than to the one most painstaking in production and most reasonable in price. From time to time criticism has been leveled against pharmacists who have offered commissions to physicians on the prescriptions sent to them and to the physicians who have accepted such commissions. Wherever barter and trade have insinuated their insidious and evil aspects into the practice of medicine, the quality of the service has depreciated. The morals of the physicians and the commercial agencies that deal in these unwholesome profits in this marketing of medical care have already deteriorated.

"From the beginning of its entrance on the medical scene, the American Medical Association has fought this menace to the quality of medical service and to the good repute of medical practice. Resolutions have been passed by the official bodies of the association unequivocally condemning such practices. The Judicial Council has repeatedly urged the expulsion or other action against physicians proved to have participated in such procedures. The leaders of surgery, opthalmology, orthopedic surgery and pharmacy have been unanimous in pointing out the extent to which such commercial considerations may break down the good repute of the specialties concerned. The American College of Surgeons adopted an oath to be taken by its fellows to the effect that they would not participate in the secret division of fees. The Principles of Ethics of the American Medical Association have declared the unethical character of such divisions—direct or indirect.

"Now the development of greater complexity in medical practice and in medical relationships has introduced new factors into this problem of barter and trade.

"The development of roentgenology [x-ray examination and treatment] as an important medical specialty and the establishment of clinical pathologic laboratories to which physicians send patients for the making of highly technical and often costly tests have introduced new sources of rebates, kick-backs and commissions. In some communities means have been proposed for evading the condemnation of medical organizations and societies through the establishment of corporations, cooperative laboratories and roentgenologic offices of multiple ownership.

"As might have been anticipated, the ultimate development was recognition by governmental agencies of the fact that the unprotected public was being exploited by such methods. The first warning and one of tremendous significance was the indictment by the Department of Justice of two manufacturing optical agencies and of a considerable number of opthalmologists who participated in a plan which took hundreds of thousands of dollars from unknowing patients. A full report appeared in The Journal of the American Medical Association when the Department of Justice took this action during 1946. A popular periodical with millions of circulation has called on the medical profession to cleanse itself as it has repeatedly cleaned its own house in the past. The house of delegates asked the secretary of the American Medical Association to call the situation to the attention of every state and county medical society in the nation and to urge on these societies the initiation of the necessary steps toward ridding medical practice of these parasites. The Better Business Bureaus in several large communities, notably Los Angeles, have begun a campaign of enlightenment of the public regarding the extent to which these abuses prevail in their communities; they too have called on the medical profession to take the necessary steps to stop this pernicious practice.

"The housecleaning has been too long delayed. Biology has proved that any living organism that tries to maintain itself in the presence of filth invariably dies. The board of trustees of the American Medical Association therefore calls on leaders of the medical profession in every community in which the association is represented to act promptly, remembering, however, the necessity for proceeding in due form by the filing of formal charges against physicians known to be participating in such methods, thus offering an opportunity for the presentation of evidence and a suitable hearing so that the innocent may not be harmed but the guilty may be properly exposed and punished."

Other preparations like aminophyllin may be substituted and in many instances this substance is even better. It is more effective when adminstered directly into a vein and some of the most severe cases have responded to its continuous use for several days. In the circumstances the medicine is incorporated into several pints of a sugar or salt solution which is fed slowly into the blood of the wheezing patient. When the air of the room is filtered and dust free, comfort is greatly enhanced especially if pollen or dust is responsible for the condition. Oxygen, plain, or combined with helium often gives relief.

Isuprel is one of the latest remedies. It can be inhaled, injected beneath the skin, or taken by mouth in tablet form. Improvement is most marked in severe cases and less so in mild ones. We will probably hear more of this drug as time goes by. Penicillin and streptomycin are also valuable if infection co-exists. These wonder drugs are inhaled after incorporated into an aerosol mixture. Morphine should never be used.

Few people ever die from asthma and this fact should reassure victims of the malady. By staying in good physical condition the attacks can be weathered with greater ease and less wear and tear.

Excess Blubber

Mrs. R. writes: Can mere overweight in a person whose heart and lungs are in good condition, be responsible for shortness of breath?

REPLY

Yes because every extra pound means more work for the body.

Susceptible Husband

Mrs. N. writes: As soon as my husband goes to bed he starts sneezing. It is not a cold. Do you think he is allergic?

REPLY

Yes, this is a good bet. The irritant may be the wool in the blanket or the contents of the pillows or mattress.

Ovarian Cyst

Mrs. T. G. writes: "My doctor told me I have a water blister on my ovary. Have you any idea what could cause this?

REPLY

You refer to a cyst, which has many causes. Some are normal; others abnormal.

Ho Hum

E. R. writes: When I go to bed at night I yawn for about ten minutes. What might be the cause?

REPLY

Sleepy, I guess.

Blushing

Mrs. L. writes: I am a person who blushes for no reason at all. What causes this?

REPLY

Some individuals were born to blush and have no control over the reflex. It is a nervous reaction that is more embarrassing than serious. On the other hand, if you are in the menopausal age, the cause of the blushing is obvious.

AVERAGE REACTION

T. R. writes: What is it a sign of if a person's heart thumps when he becomes excited?

Reply

It means that he is normal. Every one reacts in this fashion.

Calloused Child

Mrs. Y. writes: My five year old daughter, since the age of one, has had callouses on her palms and soles. Is this due to lack of vitamins?

REPLY

No. These thickenings develop whenever the skin is irritated or rubbed against another part continually. The lesions are rare at the ages mentioned. Consequently, you should ask your family physician to look at them.

Thomas Of Oklahoma Active In Stock Market During Most Of His Senatorial Career; Opposed Cotton Controls To Own Advantage

Says DREW PEARSON

ED. NOTE—Drew Pearson's column today takes the form of a memo to Senator Ferguson of Michagan, chairman of the subcommittee investigating Senator Thomas and other grain speculators. Pearson was the first to expose Thomas's commodity speculation, two years ago, at which time he was called a liar by the Oklahoma Senator.)

WASHINGTON, Feb. 6.—Memo to Senator Ferguson of Michigan:

Believing in your sincere desire to get to the bottom of Senator Thomas and his use of the Senate for private speculation, I am sending you the results of my own investigation. These may furnish you with additional leads for your own probe.

I think you will find that during most of Senator Thomas's career in the U. S. Senate, he has been active in the stock market and has not hesitated to use his position of trust to influence the market. I suggest that first you look into 128 shares of Cities Service stock held by the Senator around 1928.

Following this, I suggest that you examine the Senator's dealing in silver and cotton in 1933. At around this time his son Wilfred was employed by the old stock-brokerage firm of Fenner and Beane at its Oklahoma City office, while the Senator traded through the firm's Washington office.

During the summer of 1933 you will find that Thomas was active in the silver market, in fact had bought a considerable quantity of silver on margin, and when the silver bubble burst in July, Thomas was caught short. John Mothershed, then manager of Fenner and Beane's Washington office, called on him for more collateral which the Senator did not put up. Accordingly, he was sold out, at a heavy loss.

I think you will find that the next day, July 19, 1933, Senator Thomas then sent two blistering telegrams to the presidents of the New York Stock Exchange and the Chicago Board of Trade demanding stricter regulation. The two telegrams read in part: "Today's activity in your exchange demonstrates absolute necessity for immediate adoption of a rule limiting the amount of loss on any stock during any one session."

It is interesting that the Senator did not reveal that he himself was caught short. He put his protest on the high moral plane of protecting the investing public. It is also interesting that some years later, in the spring of 1946 when the OPA urged stricter control of the cotton market. Thomas took an exactly opposite view and opposed those controls. At that time he and his wife were long on cotton and gambling on a continued rise in prices. The Senator didn't want OPA controls to interfere with such a rise.

Father Coughlin's Adviser

Going back to 1933, 1934 and 1935, I believe you will find that at about the time Senator Thomas was speculating in silver, he was also making speeches calculated to increase the price of silver. He was, for instance, an active member of Senator Key Pitman's silver bloc, and also described himself as "silver adviser to Father Coughlin," in attacking the Federal Reserve Act. Coughlin later turned out to be the biggest individual buyer (through his secretary) of silver in the United States.

In speech after speech Thomas urged passage of his silver-buying bill, the remonetization of silver and the payment of soldier bonuses from silver. But he said nothing to the public about the fact that he himself had been buying up silver.

On Feb. 18, 1935 Thomas offered an amendment to the WPA-Relief Appropriation Bill directing the Secretary of the Treasury to buy silver at the rate of 50,000,000 ounces a month until one-fourth of our total metallic reserve was silver instead of gold.

To check on the Senator's early commodity market transactions, look in an old warehouse at 818 Gravier Street, New Orleans, La., where the records of Fenner and Beane are stored. To check on some of his other silver transactions, look up the records of Harriss and Vose, 60 Beaver Street, New York, though these may have been destroyed.

In other words the Senator from Oklahoma seems to have been in the stock and commodity markets during practically all of his long career.

Regarding more recent operations, it might be interesting to check the account listed under "Farm Products Co." with Bache and Company and also for a short time with Merrill Lynch, Fenner and Beane. This account was handled by Dyke Cullum, about whom Senator Thomas recently said: "From time to time I have turned money over to Dyke Cullum and asked him to invest in cotton for me."

Brokers Suspicious

If your investigators check carefully, I think you will find that in February 1946, Dyke Cullum proposed opening an account under "Farm Products Co." with Merrill Lynch, Fenner and Beane. The brokers, however, were suspicious that it was a blind for Senator Thomas and queried Cullum closely. He replied that he wanted to use the account for himself, Ralph Moore and one other.

The brothers told him they would ask their New York office whether the account was acceptable. They also examined him closely as to why he wanted a separate account under Farm Products Co. when he was already trading heavily under his own name, while Ralph Moore was trading heavily under his own name.

Suspicious, Merrill Lynch, Fenner and Beane finally turned down the "Farm Products Co." account, though later, on October 22, 1946, by accident they accepted it. On Oct. 26, however, they asked Cullum to take the account elsewhere.

Ralph Moore, who has used the offices of both Senator Thomas and Senator Pappy O'Daniel of Texas, is now under investigation by the Justice Department.

Incidentally, it might be worth while also to examine the accounts of Kiki Cullum and Dyke Cullum, Jr. These are Cullum's children, but I suspect that their father handles the accounts for them.

(These are a few leads which I hope may be useful to your committee.)

Taft Warns Of Destructive Step In Truman's Civil Rights

By MARK SULLIVAN

On January 8th President Truman read to Congress his annual State of the Union message. The following night Senator Taft delivered a radio reply. Necessarily Mr. Taft's speech had to be prepared quickly, almost it had to be offhand. And necessarily it covered an immense scope, for the President's message had been long and had included many important points.

So great are the difficulties attending such a speech as Senator Taft made that many would have refrained from attempting it. On merit there is some question whether the value of promptness in the reply of an opposition party leader to a President's message may be offset by the difficulty of exact and comprehensive statement. But this consideration weighs less in the case of Senator Taft than perhaps any other important figure in public life. It is the frequently expressed judgment of Mr. Taft's associates in Congress and of observers that he has more information about a larger number of public questions than any other person in Congress. He not only has information acquired by industrious study; he has what is more rare, understanding of the relation of each question to fundamental principles of government. From a speaker thus equipped, and one so forthrightly candid as Mr. Taft habitually is, pressure generated by haste may evoke expressions having a force and touch of eloquence that might not emerge under ordinary conditions.

Foresaw Grave Peril

There was an example in Mr. Taft's reply to Mr. Truman's State Of the Union message. The latter had stressed participation by the Federal government in such activities as health, education and housing. Mr. Taft was careful to say he did "not mean to condemn all of the projects." But he was able to see, and forceful in pointing out, a guiding principle and the grave peril that may attend failure to respect the principle scrupulously. About the President's message Mr. Taft said:

"Throughout the message all the emphasis is on action by the Federal government. Not a word is said anywhere of preserving the power of the state and local communities to improve their own affairs or direct their own education, health, welfare or housing.

The message follows the standard New Deal line that places all power in Washington bureaus. If we destroy the independence of our communities, I don't believe we can retain any popular freedom in a country the size of the United States. Again, I do not mean to condemn all of the projects. I only point out that, taken together, they will add up to a totalitarian state."

This week the President sent another message to Congress. It deals with a different group of subjects, containing ten points composing a program for strengthening civil rights. Civil rights have as their supreme objective what Senator Taft described a "popular freedom", and what Mr. Truman in his present message describes to the same effect as "the great ideals of liberty and equality." As objectives these are the supreme end of government. But choice of methods for attaining the end present the same problem which Senator Taft pointed out—the same peril of arriving, through a wrong choice of methods, at an end which is the opposite of popular freedom and individual rights, namely, totalitarian government.

Stresses Government Action

In Mr. Truman's message as in his former one, he stresses action by the Federal government. There would be more bureaus at Washington. The spirit of nearly all his ten points is conveyed in the first one, which calls for "establishing a permanent Commission of Civil Rights, a Joint Congressional Committee on Civil Rights, and a Civil Rights Division in the Department of Justice."

One specific recommendation by Mr. Truman is legislation by Congress to end the requirement, in seven southern states, of payment of a poll tax as a prerequisite to voting. The poll tax is clearly distinguished from what Mr. Truman described as "discriminatory action by public officers based on race, color . . ." For the poll tax applies universally to all voters.

Action by the Federal government, through Congress to forbid the poll tax as a requirement for voting, would be an assertion of the right of Congress to take jurisdiction over requirements for voting in any or all states, such as those having to do with length of residence in the state or election precincts, and the like.

It would be difficult to imagine a step so destructive to the ideal about which Senator Taft warned, "preserving the power of the states" and refraining from anything which would "destroy the independence of our communities." The right of states to determine their own voting qualifications is so fundamental that to take it away would be to threaten their very existence as units of government.

Powers Truman Asks Could Bring About Deflation In '48

By DAVID LAWRENCE

WASHINGTON, Feb. 6— President Truman's warning about an economic crash unless Congress passes anti-inflation curbs that he has asked for must be interpreted realistically.

Nobody — neither the President nor the Congress nor business nor labor—will ever assume the responsibility for starting a crash or even for a "deflation" that could bring a recession.

The truth is all the talk is intended to be salutary—to exert psychological restraints against speculation or expansion and cause all economic groups to be cautious and prudent.

Perhaps the most lucid statement on the subject was made a few days ago by Allan Sproul, president of the Federal Reserve Bank of New York, who said:

"We are all a little enchanted, of course, with the idea of a modest downturn which would relieve some existing pressures and forestall a worse disturbance later. But no one has yet found a sure way of bringing about just a little depression."

There could be a crash, of course, but none that would be brought about deliberately. It could result from blundering in high places and by seeking to restrict one segment of the economy at the expense of the other.

Gross National Production

What is not generally realized is that America today is operating a gross national production at the rate of $237 billion a year. This means that, with wartime funds and surpluses, commercial operations are running higher than wartime because we are supplying not only our own needs but those of the rest of the world.

To operate a $237-billion business requires more working capital than ever before. Inasmuch as equity markers are dried up through fear of governmental policies or lack of incentive for risk capital due to the punitive tax rates imposed on the investor class, the businesses and industries of America have been getting their working capital from the banks. Now, with the screws being applied due to pressure from the Truman administration, it is questionable whether the end result may not be the liquidation of many businesses and the forcing of unemployment. Nobody will take responsibility for such an outcome, but the administration's pressure on the banks recently has resulted in a slowing up of credit operations generally.

A fallacious view of bank loans has been spread by the administration and the Federal Reserve Board. Testimony offered recently before the Senate banking and currency committee revealed that the ratio of bank loans to total deposits in banks is not as high as it was in 1939. Some constructive information on this point was placed before the committee by Robert Fleming, president of the Riggs National Bank of Washington and a former president of the American Bankers Association. Using data from Federal Reserve Board bulletins, he pointed out that, whereas on December 30, 1939, about 32 per cent of all deposits in all banks were interested in loans, only 25 per cent of all deposits were invested in loans in 1947 according to the latest available figures.

Deposits More Than Doubled

What so many people who decry the amount of bank loans overlook is that there were only $68 billions of deposits in all banks in 1939. There are about $153 billions now. To look only at the loans of $38 billions in 1947 and compare them with the $22 billions of loans in 1939 is to overlook entirely that deposits then were less than half of what they are today.

Certainly a $237-billion economy requires more working capital for increased payrolls and increased quantities of goods handled, and it would be tragic if restraints upon credit went to the point of deflation for deflation's sake.

What makes orthodox reasoning inapplicable to present-day conditions is the organized pressure of labor unions, which can effectively halt any price declines and can indeed force prices stil further upyard. Restriction of bank credit can bring a major collapse and start the whole economic system on a downward spiral.

The power to bring on a deflation rests in government. Mr. Truman may find it politically desirable to lash Congress for failing to give him inflation controls, but the last thing he wants is the power to deflate in an election year, for that means the end of his political career. So there will be warnings and much talk but no likelihood of a recession in 1948 unless the pressure already exerted on the banks to stop the flow of credit gets beyond anybody's control. There are no signs of such a disaster as yet, and the chances are against its occurrence.

These Days

By GEORGE E. SOKOLSKY

Phi Beta Kappa Proletariat

IT IS generally assumed in this country that the longer our sons and daughters are kept at school, the more they know. Apparently, the President's Commission on Higher Education wants nearly everybody to go to some kind of a college and wants $1,875,000,000 and more to make it possible.

Nothing is said about building a practical race of competent men and women to whom experience will mean a surer guide than mere repetition of the memorized contents of other men's thinking.

Two conflicting tendencies appear in our present-day colleges. The larger colleges grow tougher each year, but they also function increasingly on the factory system with very little, in fact, almost no relationship between professor and student, no sharpening of the mind on the anvil of classroom discussion. Just as, at another period, the rah-rah boy was something of a nuisance, today the stodgy, almost stuffy junior, full of quotations, drilled in authorities, his mind adjusted to electric-eye examination papers, reminds one of those Chinese students of old, preparing to become mandarins by making themselves dull.

The opposite tendency appears in many smaller colleges that filled themselves to the rafters by the windfall of the G.I. Bill of Rights. These colleges have lowered their standards to meet the capabilities of mass learning with the result that many of those who come out of them lack even an educated man's facility in his own native language. So many graduates of such colleges lack even a rudimentary knowledge of the culture of their race or the history of their own country. So many are specialists of the left eyebrow; that is, they know some detail of book learning with a degree of thoroughness—what they call a major—but they cannot fit that into anything like the whole of human experience nor have they been trained in thought process, in logic, to be able to apply knowledge to thought.

The result is that so many of them cannot get the kind of jobs college men and women expect nor can they do the work the nation is accustomed to expect from its college graduates. Professor Seymour E. Harris makes the point in an interesting article in the "Harvard Alumni Bulletin":

". . . The colleges of the country are not now able to take good care of 2,000,000, and certainly not 3,000,000 students. At the present time they offer a deteriorated product. The assembly-line method of turning out A. B.'s and Ph.D.'s cannot bring good results. The colleges and universities now find themselves in an unsound financial condition as a result of rising prices, costs, and taxes, and declining yields on investments . . ."

Can this country afford a deteriorated product? Can we afford to waste the facilities of our colleges and universities upon men and women who lack the mental equipment for thought and leadership and who are not likely to provide a greater capacity for work in learned and professional fields after a tenure at college than they would have been able to do had they gone into their chosen fields earlier in life? Is the college merely a place to mark time? Does the student benefit by attendance even if the years so spent add nothing to his intellectual stature or his competence?

What seems to be the outcome of all this is a proletariat of the white collar, a proletariat that has trained itself for a satisfied and secured low income, sufficient to maintain the white collar, but insufficient for a stimulating life of leadership. It is interesting to note how many of the students today aspire for the low incomes of civil service positions where they perform clerical tasks for which girls out of commercial high schools ought to be adequate. Does one have to spend four years at college for that?

This question requires an overall study. For instance, some of the colleges mark stiffly, maintaining the highest standards; others use a fairly low class average. A grade of B in one college might be an A in another. The boy who picks an easy marking college might swing through with honors and give the impression of great achievement. That false picture is very expensive to him and to his country.

Hank Wallace says you'd be surprised at the people he meets in elevators who are going to vote for him.

If he can get the spiral staircase vote, he's in. That's the danger spot these inflated days.

A ballot's a ballot even in the air like the sword of Damocles. The main trouble is in rounding up the remuda. If one fellow says eleven, the next fourteen, the next eighteen and the last one twenty-two, it's against the laws of gravitation for Hank to get off with all of them.

Anyway, Hank has opened up another field of campaign. But it's going to take a lot of elevators.

Plans For County Housing Survey Get Underway

Plans were completed yesterday by Allegany County Board of Commissioners to assist in conducting a survey of approximately 10,000 veterans of the county to determine the need for housing, according to Charles N. Wilkinson, president of the board.

Commissioners, at the request of a Veterans Housing Committee composed of F. Patrick Allender, William B. Spangler, and James B. Reinhart, and of Thomas B. Finan, member, and James Lazzati, secretary of the Maryland Veterans Housing Commission, agreed to finance the mailing of questionnaires and have their clerical staff assist in dispatching the forms.

Veterans organizations, it was indicated, will address the envelopes from their membership rosters, and will mimeograph the questionnaires. The county purchased envelopes and stamps yesterday.

When the forms are returned, an analysis of the survey will be undertaken, and information will be used to determine the need for a public housing project, private building, or other answer to a housing shortage as it may exist in various parts of the county, including Cumberland.

Members of the committee last night indicated work will begin immediately on the task of sending out the forms.

Disallow Office Bills

Acting on an opinion of the Attorney General of Maryland, the Allegany County Board of Commissioners yesterday disallowed bills submitted by the Clerk of Circuit Court and Register of Wills totalling $4,792.51 for certain operating expenses connected with the two offices.

Lewis M. Wilson, attorney to the board, informed the commissioners several weeks ago that a bill for $3,659.09 from the Clerk of Court and one for $1,133.42 from the Register of Wills were not under law the responsibility of the County Commissioners. He then asked the Attorney General office for an opinion in the case.

The accounts submitted to the County Board will have to be paid from fees and emoluments of the two offices and constitute a saving to the county. These costs had been paid in former years by the county, but under terms of a law enacted by the 1947 Legislature they now must be paid from fees and emoluments of the offices.

Wilson pointed out that such items as indexing chancery dockets, binding of law books, and other customary expenses listed by the Clerk of Court are under the Attorney General's opinion payable from fees collected in the clerk's office and not by the county.

The wording of the act pertaining to the Register of Wills office is the same and Wilson said the bill of that office for customary and necessary expenses would also have to be paid by fees collected in operation of the office.

Board Suspends Strider's License

Hugh Strider, 31, operator of a tavern at 751 Kelly Boulevard, was given a hearing before the Allegany County Liquor Control Board yesterday on a charge of selling whisky without a license, and his permit to sell beer was suspended for 30 days, effective February 10.

The young tavern keeper had been arrested last November when two city police officers, in plain clothes, purchased a pint of whisky at his place. He was fined $300 in Police Court after admitting the sale, and was later indicted by the Grand Jury on the same charge.

In Circuit Court, he was given a three months suspended sentence in the county jail and placed on parole for three years.

Strider was the only witness at the hearing before the board yesterday. He told the board the same story he had previously related in Court. He explained that two policemen, posing as workers at the plant, came into his place and were there for sometime. Strider told the board he mixed himself a drink and the two men asked him to sell them some whisky.

Strider said he sold them a pint, which he had originally purchased for himself and said the sale was made as an accommodation and not for profit.

Year Around Aid Planned For Europe By Homemakers

At a meeting of all the International Relations chairmen of the Homemakers Clubs with Mrs. Austin D. Twigg, county chairman, recently in Miss Maude A. Bean's office, plans were formulated to help the destitute of war torn European countries through the Church World Service Center, New Windsor.

Mrs. Twigg pointed out that these contributions are to be delivered to the Church of the Brethren, 114 North Cedar Street, from where they will be taken by truck to New Windsor Monday. Contributions must be made before noon Monday.

It was decided that contributions of warm clothing, bedding and shoes should be made. Clothing may be new or old, but should be clean and wearable. If buttons are missing, they should be replaced or pinned into a pocket with needle and thread to sew them on. Shoes with good uppers will be half-soled at New Windsor. Soap is made there also and contributions of used fat are welcome. Containers to receive the fat are kept at the church. Shoes or pairs of anything, should be tied together securely. Matching parts of a suit should be fastened together.

Chairmen also planned for packages for individuals to be made up at the April club meetings for shipments in May. Mrs. Twigg suggested that packages be made up and sewed into bright colored bath towels, then marked, "boy aged 7", "girl aged 10", "man size 40", "woman size 36". They may contain clothing, toys, small books, toilet articles, writing materials and such articles.

Purses are to be filled at the July meetings. It is suggested to fill them with needles, thimbles, thread, buttons, pins, hair pins, combs, tooth brushes, chewing gum, handkerchiefs, wash cloths and such small articles.

Shoe box Christmas gifts were also planned. It was pointed out that a good pair of shoes could be packed int a box and surrounded with small unbreakable gifts, suitable for a person whom the shoes are likely to fit. Decorate the boxes with Christmas cutouts, but avoid pictures of food. These boxes are to be planned at the September club meetings, and packed in October, so as to be at New Windsor by November.

Mrs. Twigg suggests that names and addresses be pinned to the articles as they are likely to bring letters of gratitude and when answered the interchange of friendly letters between people of different countries is one of the best means of establishing international understanding and good will.

Celanese Plant Back To Normal After "Sitdown"

Officials of the Amcelle plant of the Celanese Corporation of America reported last night that operations were back to normal after an early morning "sitdown strike" which hampered production in the Twisting-Cheesing section of the Textile department.

Edward R. Allan, personnel superintendent, said the trouble involving about 120 employes, began about 4 a. m. over disagreement about working conditions and that normal production was not resumed until about 10 a. m.

Some 20 workers in the department had to be notified yeserday afternoon not to come to work as a result of the stoppage, the company said.

Allan said production from the examination department is relatively small but added that the effects of the stoppage would have been serious had the stoppage continued for any length of time.

Union officials, including Playford Aldridge, newly elected president, and John G. Thomas, business manager, who reported to the plant to participate in the settlement of the dispute, said last night that the company will submit a proposal for the operation to the union.

Both Allan and Fred T. Small, plant manager, declared the company refused to deal with the strikers until work was resumed, and strongly deplored striking as a first step in the settlement of a dispute.

Small said the dispute, apparently over work loads, started Thursday afternoon when employes in the department staged a demonstration by standing at machines but allowing them to run.

Members of the Allegany Junior Safety Council will hold their midwinter meeting this morning at 10:30 o'clock in City Hall auditorium.

Clothing Kits Being Made For Demonstrations

County Homemakers' Clothing chairmen are meeting at the office of Miss Maude A. Bean, and under her supervision are making "Clothing Kits" to exhibit at club meetings after which work meetings will be scheduled for those wishing to make the articles.

The kit is patterned after the state clothing kit, which is especially designed by the United States Bureau of Home Economics, for use through the Homemakers Clubs.

Dresses and utility aprons in the kit are designed for teaching simple and quick methods of clothing construction as well as methods suitable for specific purposes.

Special interest is being shown in the utility aprons for gardening and house work. The one has padded knees and the other one a plastic or rubber sheeting piece to protect the knees for either gardening or house work.

The dresses are designed for both stout and slender women.

A second kit is composed of different types of washable belts, designed to add interest to the dress and if purchased ready-made would add to the cost of the garment. The belts may be made out of old felt hats, scraps of rayon, cotton material or material matching the dress. There is also one design which is crocheted.

Plans For County Housing Survey Get Underway

Plans were completed yesterday by Allegany County Board of Commissioners to assist in conducting a survey of approximately 10,000 veterans of the county to determine the need for housing, according to Charles N. Wilkinson, president of the board.

Commissioners, at the request of a Veterans Housing Committee composed of F. Patrick Allender, William B. Spangler, and James B. Reinhart, and of Thomas B. Finan, member, and James Lazzati, secretary of the Maryland Veterans Housing Commission, agreed to finance the mailing of questionnaires and have their clerical staff assist in dispatching the forms.

Veterans organizations, it was indicated, will address the envelopes from their membership rosters, and will mimeograph the questionnaires. The county purchased envelopes and stamps yesterday.

When the forms are returned, an analysis of the survey will be undertaken, and information will be used to determine the need for a public housing project, private building, or other answer to a housing shortage as it may exist in various parts of the county, including Cumberland.

Members of the committee last night indicated work will begin immediately on the task of sending out the forms.

Disallow Office Bills

Acting on an opinion of the Attorney General of Maryland, the Allegany County Board of Commissioners yesterday disallowed bills submitted by the Clerk of Circuit Court and Register of Wills totalling $4,792.51 for certain operating expenses connected with the two offices.

Lewis M. Wilson, attorney to the board, informed the commissioners several weeks ago that a bill for $3,659.09 from the Clerk of Court and one for $1,133.42 from the Register of Wills were not under law the responsibility of the County Commissioners. He then asked the Attorney General office for an opinion in the case.

The accounts submitted to the County Board will have to be paid from fees and emoluments of the two offices and constitute a saving to the county. These costs had been paid in former years by the county, but under terms of a law enacted by the 1947 Legislature they now must be paid from fees and emoluments of the offices.

Wilson pointed out that such items as indexing chancery dockets, binding of law books, and other customary expenses listed by the Clerk of Court are under the Attorney General's opinion payable from fees collected in the clerk's office and not by the county.

The wording of the act pertaining to the Register of Wills office is the same and Wilson said the bill of that office for customary and necessary expenses would also have to be paid by fees collected in operation of the office.

Board Suspends Strider's License

Hugh Strider, 31, operator of a tavern at 751 Kelly Boulevard, was given a hearing before the Allegany County Liquor Control Board yesterday on a charge of selling whisky without a license, and his permit to sell beer was suspended for 30 days, effective February 10.

The young tavern keeper had been arrested last November when two city police officers, in plain clothes, purchased a pint of whisky at his place. He was fined $300 in Police Court after admitting the sale, and was later indicted by the Grand Jury on the same charge.

In Circuit Court, he was given a three months suspended sentence in the county jail and placed on parole for three years.

Strider was the only witness at the hearing before the board yesterday. He told the board the same story he had previously related in Court. He explained that two policemen, posing as workers at the plant, came into his place and were there for sometime. Strider told the board he mixed himself a drink and the two men asked him to sell them some whisky.

Strider said he sold them a pint, which he had originally purchased for himself and said the sale was made as an accommodation and not for profit.

Year Around Aid Planned For Europe By Homemakers

At a meeting of all the International Relations chairmen of the Homemakers Clubs with Mrs. Austin D. Twigg, county chairman, recently in Miss Maude A. Bean's office, plans were formulated to help the destitute of war torn European countries through the Church World Service Center, New Windsor.

Mrs. Twigg pointed out that these contributions are to be delivered to the Church of the Brethren, 114 North Cedar Street, from where they will be taken by truck to New Windsor Monday. Contributions must be made before noon Monday.

It was decided that contributions of warm clothing, bedding and shoes should be made. Clothing may be new or old, but should be clean and wearable. If buttons are missing, they should be replaced or pinned into a pocket with needle and thread to sew them on. Shoes with good uppers will be half-soled at New Windsor. Soap is made there also and contributions of used fat are welcome. Containers to receive the fat are kept at the church. Shoes or pairs of anything, should be tied together securely. Matching parts of a suit should be fastened together.

Chairmen also planned for packages for individuals to be made up at the April club meetings for shipments in May. Mrs. Twigg suggested that packages be made up and sewed into bright colored bath towels, then marked, "boy aged 7", "girl aged 10", "man size 40", "woman size 36". They may contain clothing, toys, small books, toilet articles, writing materials and such articles.

Purses are to be filled at the July meetings. It is suggested to fill them with needles, thimbles, thread, buttons, pins, hair pins, combs, tooth brushes, chewing gum, handkerchiefs, wash cloths and such small articles.

Shoe box Christmas gifts were also planned. It was pointed out that a good pair of shoes could be packed int a box and surrounded with small unbreakable gifts, suitable for a person whom the shoes are likely to fit. Decorate the boxes with Christmas cutouts, but avoid pictures of food. These boxes are to be planned at the September club meetings, and packed in October, so as to be at New Windsor by November.

Mrs. Twigg suggests that names and addresses be pinned to the articles as they are likely to bring letters of gratitude and when answered the interchange of friendly letters between people of different countries is one of the best means of establishing international understanding and good will.

Celanese Plant Back To Normal After "Sitdown"

Officials of the Amcelle plant of the Celanese Corporation of America reported last night that operations were back to normal after an early morning "sitdown strike" which hampered production in the Twisting-Cheesing section of the Textile department.

Edward R. Allan, personnel superintendent, said the trouble involving about 120 employes, began about 4 a. m. over disagreement about working conditions and that normal production was not resumed until about 10 a. m.

Some 20 workers in the department had to be notified yeserday afternoon not to come to work as a result of the stoppage, the company said.

Allan said production from the examination department is relatively small but added that the effects of the stoppage would have been serious had the stoppage continued for any length of time.

Union officials, including Playford Aldridge, newly elected president, and John G. Thomas, business manager, who reported to the plant to participate in the settlement of the dispute, said last night that the company will submit a proposal for the operation to the union.

Both Allan and Fred T. Small, plant manager, declared the company refused to deal with the strikers until work was resumed, and strongly deplored striking as a first step in the settlement of a dispute.

Small said the dispute, apparently over work loads, started Thursday afternoon when employes in the department staged a demonstration by standing at machines but allowing them to run.

Safety Meeting Planned

Members of the Allegany Junior Safety Council will hold their midwinter meeting this morning at 10:30 o'clock in City Hall auditorium.

The theme of the program, which will be in charge of Spencer Powell, is "The Spirit of the Patrol." John Connelly, chairman of the activities committee, will report on the patrol handbook, the project of the council for 1948.

Calls From Japan

Pfc. James R. Hamrick, husband of Mrs. Opal Hamrick, 4 Boone Street, telephoned his wife from Tokyo, Japan, at 9:30 Thursday night.

A veteran of seven years' Army service, Hamrick attended West Virginia University before enlisting prior to World War II. He re-enlisted after serving in the ETO during the war.

Clothing Kits Being Made For Demonstrations

County Homemakers' Clothing chairmen are meeting at the office of Miss Maude A. Bean, and under her supervision are making "Clothing Kits" to exhibit at club meetings after which work meetings will be scheduled for those wishing to make the articles.

The kit is patterned after the state clothing kit, which is especially designed by the United States Bureau of Home Economics, for use through the Homemakers Clubs.

Dresses and utility aprons in the kit are designed for teaching simple and quick methods of clothing construction as well as methods suitable for specific purposes.

Special interest is being shown in the utility aprons for gardening and house work. The one has padded knees and the other one a plastic or rubber sheeting piece to protect the knees for either gardening or house work.

The dresses are designed for both stout and slender women.

A second kit is composed of different types of washable belts, designed to add interest to the dress and if purchased ready-made would add to the cost of the garment. The belts may be made out of old felt hats, scraps of rayon, cotton material or material matching the dress. There is also one design which is crocheted.

Sayin' His Prayers

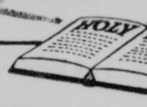

The earliest and often the most effective religious training a child receives is derived from the little prayer he is taught to say upon going to bed. He is proud when he learns to repeat it without his mother's prompting.

Some of the little prayers of childhood have become classics in many languages. Some have been embodied in song and story and have thus achieved lasting fame.

There is a story of a man who was rescued from tragic death, and later was asked how he felt during his experience. He said that in his excitement and fear he tried to pray, and the only words he could think of were "Now I lay me down to sleep."

Pity the child whose little feet are not thus firmly planted upon the rock of faith during his early and most impressionable years.

Parents face a great responsibility in the rearing of children. The task will be easier and the training more effective if they make the Bible their guide and seek the counsel and cooperation of the Church.

THE CHURCH FOR ALL . . . ALL FOR THE CHURCH

The Church is the greatest factor on earth for the building of character and good citizenship. It is a storehouse of spiritual values. Without a strong Church, neither democracy nor civilization can survive. There are four sound reasons why every person should attend services regularly and support the Church. They are: (1) For his own sake (2) For his children's sake. (3) For the sake of his community and nation. (4) For the sake of the Church itself, which needs his moral and material support. Plan to go to church regularly and read your Bible daily.

Sayin' His Prayers

The earliest and often the most effective religious training a child receives is derived from the little prayer he is taught to say upon going to bed. He is proud when he learns to repeat it without his mother's prompting.

Some of the little prayers of childhood have become classics in many languages. Some have been embodied in song and story and have thus achieved lasting fame.

There is a story of a man who was rescued from tragic death, and later was asked how he felt during his experience. He said that in his excitement and fear he tried to pray, and the only words he could think of were "Now I lay me down to sleep."

Pity the child whose little feet are not thus firmly planted upon the rock of faith during his early and most impressionable years.

Parents face a great responsibility in the rearing of children. The task will be easier and the training more effective if they make the Bible their guide and seek the counsel and cooperation of the Church.

THE CHURCH FOR ALL . . . ALL FOR THE CHURCH

The Church is the greatest factor on earth for the building of character and good citizenship. It is a storehouse of spiritual values. Without a strong Church, neither democracy nor civilization can survive. There are four sound reasons why every person should attend services regularly and support the Church. They are: (1) For his own sake. (2) For his children's sake. (3) For the sake of his community and nation. (4) For the sake of the Church itself, which needs his moral and material support. Plan to go to church regularly and read your Bible daily.

Mountaineer's Fire Burns 159 Years

Saluda, N. C.—(AP)—For 159 years a fire has been burning continuously on the hearth in the home of Mr. and Mrs. Alexander Owens in the mountains near this little town. Mrs. Owens' uncle, William Morris, bequeathed it to her in 1944 when he died.

They have eight children, 22 grandchildren and 17 great grandchildren to carry on the tradition when they can no longer tend the fire which requires about a cord of wood a month. It never has been fed with coal.

The fire was kindled with flint and steel by Thomas Dalton, Mrs. Owen's great uncle by marriage. He willed the fire to his wife, Elizabeth, who lived to be 102 years old and she willed it to Morris.

The Owens are past 70, but their youngest son, Wendell, has indicated he will continue the tradition.

Cupid Staggers Jobs

OLNEY, Ill.—(AP)—It was June in January so far as Richland county weddings are concerned.

A look at the county clerk's records for 1947 show that the fewest marriage licenses were issued in June, the month when the altar-bound traffic is supposed to be heaviest. The peak months were January and August.

Today's Talk

By GEORGE MATTHEW ADAMS

That Bridge

Borrowing is a bad business—no matter where it is applied, but borrowing trouble is the worst of all borrowing, for you borrow from yourself! And this trouble always is clothed in the garb of worry.

This worry-trouble is usually centred about some bridge, at some future time, and at some unknown point, where fear is to be encountered. But, in most cases, when that supposed bridge—or its location—is reached, there is no bridge there at all! And so the worry-trouble proves to be a borrowed phantom. And who wants to borrow on such basis?

Ask anyone—ask yourself—to review the many worries that have beset your path over the years, and just make a note of those that proved successful. Most of my worries have proved to be utter and tragic failures! I am learning to have no business with them as they appear.

Many years ago a friend told me of a scheme that he suggested to a friend of his. It was this—to make note of every worry as it came during the day and jot it down for a special hour at night, when it would be called "the worry hour." Nothing was to interfer with that hour, no matter how important any other engagement might be in hand at that time. Well, my friend told me that the worry hour was soon given up by his friend, and a happier, more contented man he became.

Usually the bridge that you imagined you would have to cross, isn't there when you reach the spot—and no bridge necessary, anyway! No one ever cashed in on a worry. And nothing eats into the structure of character, and a happy, orderly way of life, like these pesky worries that are forever seeking to undermine one, like termites that silently, and in the dark, eat away at the structure of a building.

If a problem presents itself, where a bridge proves to be one that has to be crossed, if we do no worrying about it, we usually have reserve strength able to pass over that bridge in confidence. Almost daily I think upon that line that is said to have been over the bed of the great English statesman, William E. Gladstone—"Thou wilt keep him in perfect peace, whose mind is stayed on thee."

Fort Hill Wins, 41 To 30; Steelers To Play Here Sunday

Sentinels Cop 3rd City Game From LaSalle

Victors Impressive; 400 Witness Contest

By JOHN W. KNOWLTON

The LaSalle High School Explorers matched the favored Fort Hill High School Sentinels point-for-point in the first six minutes of last night's ball game, then faded from view as the smooth-working Scarlet and White team took command to win an easy 41-30 victory over its city rival on the Fort Hill court.

Only about 400 fans braved the icy conditions outdoors to travel to Greenway Avenue to watch the Sentinels bag their third straight victory in the fourth game of the three-cornered race for the City title.

Moler Opens Scoring

Gary Moler, who surprised onlookers by failing to attempt an outside shot for which he is famous, opened the scoring with a charity toss seconds after the opening whistle Lanky Jack "Moons" Stotler connected on a pivot toss for the Explorers before Moler again scored on a lay-up after breaking through the middle and taking a snap pass from Mil Dean, Sentinel captain.

Chuck Sitter then gave Coach Johnny Long's Blue and Gold Passers a brief one-point lead at 4-3 by sinking two foul chances after being fouled by Jim Manges. Charley Lattimer, top scorer in the city, dumped in a free throw to knot the figures at 4-4 before Manges tallied on a lay-up and added a foul to boost the count to 7-4, Fort Hill.

Ronnie Cage's one-pointer, followed by Dick Leo's one-hander from the side, Lattimer's charity throw, and Stotler's two-for-two at the foul line made it 9-8 Fort Hill with a minute to go.

Cage Scores Twice

At this point Cage flipped in two quick twin-pointers for Fort Hill, followed by Jimmy Collins' foul and Dean's dribble-in lay-up to bring the score to 15-9 Sentinels as the quarter ended.

From that moment on it was no contest as the Explorers fell completely to the wayside and Coach John J. "Bobby" Cavanaugh's cagers ran the score to 25-9 before Bob Wood hit with a lucky one-hander from the corner for LaSalle's only points in the second stanza. Halftime tally was 25-11, Fort Hill.

Continuing to impress with their smooth ball handling and sharp, snappy plays, the Cavanaughmen increased their margin to 34-15 before Mentor Cavanaugh sent in an entire new team. LaSalle rallied momentarily to make the score 34--22 as the third canto ended.

With reserves dotting their lineup the Sentinels were outscored 8-7 in the final quarter, but walked off the court victorious for the 16th time in 18 games this season. LaSalle has won eight and lost seven.

Manges Is Ejected

Dick Leo and Jimmy Collins played outstanding floor games for the losers while Stotler paced the scorers with 11 points. Lattimer was again high for the Sentinels with 14 tallies as Dean and Moler played fine games. Although Referees Roby and Fearer called 27 personals Manges was the only player ejected on Fouls.

The Fort Hill Reserves defeated the LaSalle Reserves 31-16 in the preliminary event. The lineups:

New York Yanks Release Newsom

Bobo Toiled For 22 Bosses In 20 Years

NEW YORK, Feb. 6 (AP) — Boisterous Norman (Bobo) Newsom, after 20 rollicking years in organized baseball during which he toiled for 22 different bosses, joined the unemployed today.

The veteran righthanded pitcher, who in the course of his many travels once caused a club to pay $50,000 for his services, has been offered by the New York Yankees to any team which wants him for the price of one dollar.

Actually the Yankees, who obtained Newsom from Washington last summer for the $10,000 waiver price, have given the 38-year-old Gulliver of baseball his unconditional release. Newsom, however, is a 10-year man in the majors, and according to baseball law, waivers must first be asked on all such players.

Manager Bucky Harris of the Yankees, in breaking ties with Newsom for the third time (Harris handled him on two occasions in Washington), paid Bobo a fine tribute.

"However," Harris said, "I have decided to give several promising youngsters a shot at starting roles next season, and Newsom, at his age, simply does not fit into my plans.

Blind Named Starter At Havre De Grace

HAVRE DE BRACE, Md., Feb. 6 —(AP)—Appointment of Edward Blind as starter for both 1948 meetings of Havre De Grace track was announced today by Charles J. McClennan, the plant's general manager.

The assignment makes Blind starter at three of Maryland's four major tracks. He's been handling the chores at Pimlico and Laurel.

McLennan said the appointment came as a result of date changes made by the State Racing Commission. James F. Milton, originally chosen for the job, withdrew because the new dates conflict with those of two New Jersey tracks he is working.

Barbara Scott Takes Figure Skating Title

By BILL MACKLIN

ST. MORITZ, Switzerland, Feb. 6 (AP)—Blonde, blue-eyed Barbara Ann Scott, Canada's superb ballerina of the isce, won Sonja Henie's Olympic figure skating crown today with a dazzling exhibition of grace and beauty that left her rivals nowhere.

Wearing No 13 on the sleeve of her white fur-trimmed costume, the pretty Ottawa girl defied the "hoodoo" number to be hailed tonight as a worthy successor to the fabulous Norse star who won three Olympic titles before the war.

Barbara Ann's victory, coming on top of Dick Button's triumph for America in the men's figure skating final yesterday, gives the western hemisphere a sweep of the specialty which always before has been dominated by Europe's ice artists.

The Canada beauty, already the world's champion, returned a motor car to her admirers last year in order not to endanger her amateur standing. She declared after realizing her life's ambition today that she would not turn professional.

New Yorker Is Sixth

Four European girls, headed by Eva Pawlik of Austria, supplied Barbara Ann with what little opposition she encountered. Yvonne Sherman of New York City was judged sixth best, and Gretchen Merrill of Boston, the American champion, gained eighth place after taking two spills.

While the United States contingent was being halted temporarily after its banner two-victory splurge of the precious day, the hardy Swedes swept back into first place in the team standings by finishing first, second and fifth in the 50-kilometer (31-mile) cross-country ski race, most gruelling of all Olympic events.

Nils Karlsson sped over the long course in the excellent time of three hours, 47 minutes, 48 seconds. Harold Ericksson, his teammate, was a strong second in 3:52.20. No American even attempted to compete in the killing grind.

Sweden Grabs Lead

The 17 points picked up in the snow marathon jumped Sweden to the top among the 28 competing nations with a total of 79 points, with two days to go in the games. Switzerland dropped to second place with 70 points, and the United States clung to third with 53¼.

Other totals under the Associated Press unofficial scoring system were: Austria 51, Norway 48½, Finland 45, France 39, Italy 24, Great Britain 11, Canada 10¼, Holland 6, Hungary 5, Czechoslovakia 5, Belgium 3.

A broken water pipe flooded the Olympic bobsled run at midmorning and halted competition among the four-man bobs after the first of four scheduled heats had been completed and a good start made on the second heat.

The American No. 2 sled, piloted by Francis Tyler of Lake Placid, N. Y., had the second best time in the opening heat and was leading the second go-round when the accident occurred. Workmen repaired the chute, and it was announced that the contest would be resumed tomorrow, starting with the second heat.

U. S. Hockey Team Wins

The Amateur Hockey Association team representing the U. S. in the unofficial Olympic tournament scored a 13-2 victory over Austria, but, having suffered two defeats, was out of the running for the title.

The Swiss forged into the lead by scoring their sixth straight win over Poland, 14-0. Their chief rivals, Canada and Czechoslovakia, battled to a scoreless tie today, giving each a record of five wins and one tie. The Swiss have yet to play both Canada and the Czechs.

The biggest crowd since the Olympics opening ceremony packed the bleachers and perched on the terraced cliffs to see Miss Scott add the last great title to her skating honors.

She poised on her toes and took off in a twirl with the first note of the music. A fall might have meant taps, despite the big lead she held after the compulsory figures yesterday. She glided off the ice on one foot amid applause that bespoke her triumph even before the judges confirmed it a minute later with the marks, ranging 5.3 to 5.9. Six is perfect.

Four Of Lesser Lights Sharing Texas Open Lead

Blazing 65's Are Posted By Quartet

By HAROLD V. RATLIFF

SAN ANTONIO, Tex., Feb. 6 (AP)—Four of the lesser lights of the winter golf tour—Ky Laffoon, Jim Ferrier, Eric Monti and Norman Von Nida—led the greatest par-shattering rampage in the history of the Texas Open today as they laid down blazing 65's in the rain and mud to tie for the first round lead.

All told 53 players bested regulation 36-35—71 figures on the 6,400-yard Brackenbridge Park course and 15 others equalled them.

Three shot-makers tied for second at 66. They were Horton Smith of Detroit, Skip Alexander of Mid-Pines, N. C., and Sam Snead of White Sulphur Springs, W. Va.

Eight Post 67's

Eight posted 67's, nine registered 68 and 18 turned in 69.

Favorites Bobby Locke, the Johannesburg, South Africa, star, and Jimmy Demaret were two and three strokes respeetively back of the leaders and down at even par was Ben Hogan, Hershey, Pa., bantamweight who was a pre-tournament choice to finish at or around the top.

But Hogan apparently was withdrawn from the field. He put a seven on his card for hole 13, thinking he had one penalty stroke for a water hazard instead of two for an unplayable lie.

The tournament committee said he could not disqualify himself — that it was merely a matter of judgment and did not involve disqualification.

Hogan Refuses To Play

The score was changed from a 70 to a 71 and Hogan was told that if he did not continue playing he would be considered as having withdrawn but not disqualified. Hogan cleaned out his locker and left the course, saying he would not play further.

Snead used 34 putts although he hit all greens. He had six putts that stopped on the lip of the hole.

None of the crack amateurs entered in the tournament could get into the top 20 finishers. Skee Riegel, of Monterey, Calif., the national amateur champion, wound up with an even par 71. Frank Stranahan, the Toledo, Ohio star, had a 69.

Fort Hill Wins, 41 To 30; Steelers To Play Here Sunday

Sentinels Cop 3rd City Game From LaSalle

By JOHN W. KNOWLTON

The LaSalle High School Explorers matched the favored Fort Hill High School Sentinels point-for-point in the first six minutes of last night's ball game, then faded from view as the smooth-working Scarlet and White team took command to win an easy 41-30 victory over its city rival on the Fort Hill court.

Only about 400 fans braved the icy conditions outdoors to travel to Greenway Avenue to watch the Sentinels bag their third straight victory in the fourth game of the three-cornered race for the City title.

Moler Opens Scoring

Gary Moler, who surprised onlookers by failing to attempt an outside shot for which he is famous, opened the scoring with a charity toss seconds after the opening whistle Lanky Jack "Moons" Stotler connected on a pivot toss for the Explorers before Moler again scored on a lay-up after breaking through the middle and taking a snap pass from Mil Dean, Sentinel captain.

Chuck Sitter then gave Coach Johnny Long's Blue and Gold Passers a brief one-point lead at 4-3 by sinking two foul chances after being fouled by Jim Manges. Charley Lattimer, top scorer in the city, dumped in a free throw to knot the figures at 4-4 before Manges tallied on a lay-up and added a foul to boost the count to 7-4, Fort Hill.

Ronnie Cage's one-pointer, followed by Dick Leo's one-hander from the side, Lattimer's charity throw, and Stotler's two-for-two at the foul line made it 9-8 Fort Hill with a minute to go.

Cage Scores Twice

At this point Cage flipped in two quick twin-pointers for Fort Hill, followed by Jimmy Collins' foul and Dean's dribble-in lay-up to bring the score to 15-9 Sentinels as the quarter ended.

From that moment on it was no contest as the Explorers fell completely to the wayside and Coach John J. "Bobby" Cavanaugh's cagers ran the score to 25-9 before Bob Wood hit with a lucky one-hander from the corner for LaSalle's only points in the second stanza. Halftime tally was 25-11, Fort Hill.

Continuing to impress with their smooth ball handling and sharp, snappy plays, the Cavanaughmen increased their margin to 34-15 before Mentor Cavanaugh sent in an entire new team. LaSalle rallied momentarily to make the score 34--22 as the third canto ended.

With reserves dotting their lineup the Sentinels were outscored 8-7 in the final quarter, but walked off the court victorious for the 16th time in 18 games this season. LaSalle has won eight and lost seven.

Manges Is Ejected

Dick Leo and Jimmy Collins played outstanding floor games for the losers while Stotler paced the scorers with 11 points. Lattimer was again high for the Sentinels with 14 tallies as Dean and Moler played fine games. Although Referees Roby and Fearer called 27 personals Manges was the only player ejected on Fouls.

The Fort Hill Reserves defeated the LaSalle Reserves 31-16 in the preliminary event. The lineups:

New York Yanks Release Newsom

Bobo Toiled For 22 Bosses In 20 Years

NEW YORK, Feb. 6 (AP) — Boisterous Norman (Bobo) Newsom, after 20 rollicking years in organized baseball during which he toiled for 22 different bosses, joined the unemployed today.

The veteran righthanded pitcher, who in the course of his many travels once caused a club to pay $50,000 for his services, has been offered by the New York Yankees to any team which wants him for the price of one dollar.

Actually the Yankees, who obtained Newsom from Washington last summer for the $10,000 waiver price, have given the 38-year-old Gulliver of baseball his unconditional release. Newsom, however, is a 10-year man in the majors, and according to baseball law, waivers must first be asked on all such players.

Manager Bucky Harris of the Yankees, in breaking ties with Newsom for the third time (Harris handled him on two occasions in Washington), paid Bobo a fine tribute.

"However," Harris said, "I have decided to give several promising youngsters a shot at starting roles next season, and Newsom, at his age, simply does not fit into my plans.

Blind Named Starter At Havre De Grace

HAVRE DE BRACE, Md., Feb. 6 —(AP)—Appointment of Edward Blind as starter for both 1948 meetings of Havre De Grace track was announced today by Charles J. McClennan, the plant's general manager.

The assignment makes Blind starter at three of Maryland's four major tracks. He's been handling the chores at Pimlico and Laurel.

McLennan said the appointment came as a result of date changes made by the State Racing Commission. James F. Milton, originally chosen for the job, withdrew because the new dates conflict with those of two New Jersey tracks he is working.

Sweden Regains Lead In Winter Olympic Games

Barbara Scott Takes Figure Skating Title

By BILL MACKLIN

ST. MORITZ, Switzerland, Feb. 6 (AP)—Blonde, blue-eyed Barbara Ann Scott, Canada's superb ballerina of the isce, won Sonja Henie's Olympic figure skating crown today with a dazzling exhibition of grace and beauty that left her rivals nowhere.

Wearing No 13 on the sleeve of her white fur-trimmed costume, the pretty Ottawa girl defied the "hoodoo" number to be hailed tonight as a worthy successor to the fabulous Norse star who won three Olympic titles before the war.

Barbara Ann's victory, coming on top of Dick Button's triumph for America in the men's figure skating final yesterday, gives the western hemisphere a sweep of the specialty which always before has been dominated by Europe's ice artists.

The Canada beauty, already the world's champion, returned a motor car to her admirers last year in order not to endanger her amateur standing. She declared after realizing her life's ambition today that she would not turn professional.

New Yorker Is Sixth

Four European girls, headed by Eva Pawlik of Austria, supplied Barbara Ann with what little opposition she encountered. Yvonne Sherman of New York City was judged sixth best, and Gretchen Merrill of Boston, the American champion, gained eighth place after taking two spills.

While the United States contingent was being halted temporarily after its banner two-victory splurge of the precious day, the hardy Swedes swept back into first place in the team standings by finishing first, second and fifth in the 50-kilometer (31-mile) cross-country ski race, most gruelling of all Olympic events.

Nils Karlsson sped over the long course in the excellent time of three hours, 47 minutes, 48 seconds. Harold Ericksson, his teammate, was a strong second in 3:52.20. No American even attempted to compete in the killing grind.

Sweden Grabs Lead

The 17 points picked up in the snow marathon jumped Sweden to the top among the 28 competing nations with a total of 79 points, with two days to go in the games. Switzerland dropped to second place with 70 points, and the United States clung to third with 53¼.

Other totals under the Associated Press unofficial scoring system were: Austria 51, Norway 48½, Finland 45, France 39, Italy 24, Great Britain 11, Canada 10¼, Holland 6, Hungary 5, Czechoslovakia 5, Belgium 3.

A broken water pipe flooded the Olympic bobsled run at midmorning and halted competition among the four-man bobs after the first of four scheduled heats had been completed and a good start made on the second heat.

The American No. 2 sled, piloted by Francis Tyler of Lake Placid, N. Y., had the second best time in the opening heat and was leading the second go-round when the accident occurred. Workmen repaired the chute, and it was announced that the contest would be resumed tomorrow, starting with the second heat.

U. S. Hockey Team Wins

The Amateur Hockey Association team representing the U. S. in the unofficial Olympic tournament scored a 13-2 victory over Austria, but, having suffered two defeats, was out of the running for the title.

The Swiss forged into the lead by scoring their sixth straight win over Poland, 14-0. Their chief rivals, Canada and Czechoslovakia, battled to a scoreless tie today, giving each a record of five wins and one tie. The Swiss have yet to play both Canada and the Czechs.

The biggest crowd since the Olympics opening ceremony packed the bleachers and perched on the terraced cliffs to see Miss Scott add the last great title to her skating honors.

She poised on her toes and took off in a twirl with the first note of the music. A fall might have meant taps, despite the big lead she held after the compulsory figures yesterday. She glided off the ice on one foot amid applause that bespoke her triumph even before the judges confirmed it a minute later with the marks, ranging 5.3 to 5.9. Six is perfect.

The 10 new players are Robert Doyle, Clem Dreisewerd, Robert Raney, Raymond Shore, Sherwin Swartz and James Wilson, all pitchers, and infielders Perry Currin, Sam Dente, Weslea Hamner and Joseph Lutz.

Czarobski Reported Signed By Rockets

CHICAGO, Feb. 6—(INS)—Zigy Czarobski, Notre Dame's All-American tackle, has signed with the "new" Chicago Rockets to give that franchise its first "name" player since new interests purchased the club from the All-American Football Conference.

This was learned this afternoon on excellent authority, despite a flat denial from R. Edward Garn, present Rocket spokesman who is supposed to announce names and numbers of other new rocket backers at a swank get-together tomorrow.

Four Of Lesser Lights Sharing Texas Open Lead

Blazing 65's Are Posted By Quartet

By HAROLD V. RATLIFF

SAN ANTONIO, Tex., Feb. 6 (AP)—Four of the lesser lights of the winter golf tour—Ky Laffoon, Jim Ferrier, Eric Monti and Norman Von Nida—led the greatest par-shattering rampage in the history of the Texas Open today as they laid down blazing 65's in the rain and mud to tie for the first round lead.

All told 53 players bested regulation 36-35—71 figures on the 6,400-yard Brackenbridge Park course and 15 others equalled them.

Three shot-makers tied for second at 66. They were Horton Smith of Detroit, Skip Alexander of Mid-Pines, N. C., and Sam Snead of White Sulphur Springs, W. Va.

Eight Post 67's

Eight posted 67's, nine registered 68 and 18 turned in 69.

Favorites Bobby Locke, the Johannesburg, South Africa, star, and Jimmy Demaret were two and three strokes respectively back of the leaders and down at even par was Ben Hogan, Hershey, Pa., bantamweight who was a pre-tournament choice to finish at or around the top.

But Hogan apparently was withdrawn from the field. He put a seven on his card for hole 13, thinking he had one penalty stroke for a water hazard instead of two for an unplayable lie.

The tournament committee said he could not disqualify himself — that it was merely a matter of judgment and did not involve disqualification.

Hogan Refuses To Play

The score was changed from a 70 to a 71 and Hogan was told that if he did not continue playing he would be considered as having withdrawn but not disqualified. Hogan cleaned out his locker and left the course, saying he would not play further.

Snead used 34 putts although he hit all greens. He had six putts that stopped on the lip of the hole.

None of the crack amateurs entered in the tournament could get into the top 20 finishers. Skee Riegel, of Monterey, Calif., the national amateur champion, wound up with an even par 71. Frank Stranahan, the Toledo, Ohio star, had a 69.

FROSTBURG, Feb. 6.—Coach Edward Finzel's Beall High School basketeers tightened their grip on third place in the W.M.I. League by defeating Bruce High of Westernport in a hard-fought game here tonight by the score of 31-28. It was Beall's fourth win against two losses in the county league.

One of the long-standing theories of the optics was the emission under which it was believed that the seen object emitted particles which bombarded the eye.

The Christian church is now believed to exist in every capital city in the world with but three exceptions: Lhasa, Tibet; Mecca, Arabia, and Kabul, Afghanistan.

TOP SCORERS—These three basketball stars are the top point getters of the Basketball Association of America. Fulk, ace of the Philadelphia Warriors, won the loop crown last year. He averaged better than 23 points a game for the Warriors last season and copped the league scoring crown by a wide margin. He is averaging better than 22 points per contest and is the leading scorer again this campaign. Braun, rookie star of the New York Knickerbockers, recently set a league mark by scoring 47 points in one game against Providence. Calverly is also an outstanding playmaker.

Advice To The Lovelorn

Typist Wants To Know How To Meet Man Who Works For Same Firm

By BEATRICE FAIRFAX
Famous Authority on Problems of Love and Marriage

Dear Miss Fairfax:

I am 25 years old and work for a large corporation as a typist. Recently a very nice man came to work in the same concern. He is about 37 years old and is divorced. He is general manager of another department.

I would like to know how I can get to meet him and, when I do, just how I should act in order to win his friendship and make it a lasting one. I see him in the hall, and he walks past my desk as though he, also, were interested in meeting me.

"ANXIOUS."

Dear "Anxious": Since you and this man both work for the same company, it seems to me there should be many opportunities for you two to become acquainted. Certainly any man who is interested in a girl in his own office would, it seems to me, make it his business to create such an opportunity. There would be no reason in the world why he couldn't stop to speak to you as he walked by your desk or met you in the hall. A formal introduction would hardly be necessary in your particular circumstances.

On your side, you could certainly smile at him when you run into him, or he passes your desk, or even make some pleasant remark that might open the way to a conversation. Your best plan is to create an opening and, if he follows it up, "how you can act" to win his friendship is just the way you would act with anyone you meet. If he fails to follow your lead, then I think you will have to accept the fact that he is not as interested in you as you are in him.

Suggestions For Lonely Widow

Dear Miss Fairfax:

I was married for 26 years and lost my husband this year after a long illness. While he was alive, he never wanted me to make friends or go out, and now that he is gone I am very lonesome and blue. I go out to meetings in my lodge once in a while, but it is only for women, and I live in a small country town.

"LONESOME."

Dear "Lonesome":

After living such a restricted life so long, it is no wonder you find yourself at a loss to know how to begin to make friends, whether among men or women. Happily, however, it is never too late to start.

Of course, when one lives in a small place, the opportunities for making friends are far more limited than if you live in a city. Since you are now alone, wouldn't you be free to strike out along new lines—move to another place and begin to make an interesting life for yourself? Or wouldn't you care to leave the place you now live in? I think the possibility of moving to new surroundings is something to consider.

At any rate, it is usually possible to increase your circle of acquaintances no matter where you live, and I suggest that you look around right in your own town and in nearby places for social possibilities. Find out what clubs there are you might join, investigate job possibilities, and make a survey of activities open to a single woman. The way to make friends is to be interested in a great many things. Try this plan and see if it doesn't help.

Advice To The Lovelorn

Typist Wants To Know How To Meet Man Who Works For Same Firm

By BEATRICE FAIRFAX
Famous Authority on Problems of Love and Marriage

Dear Miss Fairfax:

I am 25 years old and work for a large corporation as a typist. Recently a very nice man came to work in the same concern. He is about 37 years old and is divorced. He is general manager of another department.

I would like to know how I can get to meet him and, when I do, just how I should act in order to win his friendship and make it a lasting one. I see him in the hall, and he walks past my desk as though he, also, were interested in meeting me.

"ANXIOUS."

Dear "Anxious": Since you and this man both work for the same company, it seems to me there should be many opportunities for you two to become acquainted. Certainly any man who is interested in a girl in his own office would, it seems to me, make it his business to create such an opportunity. There would be no reason in the world why he couldn't stop to speak to you as he walked by your desk or met you in the hall. A formal introduction would hardly be necessary in your particular circumstances.

On your side, you could certainly smile at him when you run into him, or he passes your desk, or even make some pleasant remark that might open the way to a conversation. Your best plan is to create an opening and, if he follows it up, "how you can act" to win his friendship is just the way you would act with anyone you meet. If he fails to follow your lead, then I think you will have to accept the fact that he is not as interested in you as you are in him.

Suggestions For Lonely Widow

Dear Miss Fairfax:

I was married for 26 years and lost my husband this year after a long illness. While he was alive, he never wanted me to make friends or go out, and now that he is gone I am very lonesome and blue. I go out to meetings in my lodge once in a while, but it is only for women, and I live in a small country town.

"LONESOME."

Dear "Lonesome":

After living such a restricted life so long, it is no wonder you find yourself at a loss to know how to begin to make friends, whether among men or women. Happily, however, it is never too late to start.

Of course, when one lives in a small place, the opportunities for making friends are far more limited than if you live in a city. Since you are now alone, wouldn't you be free to strike out along new lines—move to another place and begin to make an interesting life for yourself? Or wouldn't you care to leave the place you now live in? I think the possibility of moving to new surroundings is something to consider.

At any rate, it is usually possible to increase your circle of acquaintances no matter where you live, and I suggest that you look around right in your own town and in nearby places for social possibilities. Find out what clubs there are you might join, investigate job possibilities, and make a survey of activities open to a single woman. The way to make friends is to be interested in a great many things. Try this plan and see if it doesn't help.

Plan Approved To Improve Oakland Water System

Schools To Offer Driving Courses

GEORGE H. HANST

OAKLAND — Augmenting of Oakland's water supply by the drilling of additional wells, but consideration of the advisability of developing a surface source of supply from a long range outlook, were recommended to the Mayor and Town Council of Oakland in a 30-page report of Chester Engineers, Pittsburgh, which has just been completed.

The City Council accepted the report and prepared to contact well drillers for the cost of a new well near Wilson Dam, northwest of Oakland, with an 8-inch bore, to a depth of 200 to 300 feet. The site selected was the first recommendation of the engineers. All water at present is supplied from wells and springs and was particularly low this past fall during dry weather.

Other specific recommendations included drilling of a second new well as soon as the need arises, preferably east of lower Eighth street; the saving of electric energy by installation of automatic controls between reservoirs and pumps, and improvement of the distribution system piping layout.

A study of the population trend led the engineers to state it was reasonable to expect 3,500 or 4,000 persons here by 1955, as compared to about 2,000 at present.

An earth fill dam on Bradley run, north of the city water farm, was suggested with facilities for 50 million gallons of water, enough for over four months supply for Oakland. The cost of the impounding dam, reservoir and filtration plant was estimated at $100,000.

Plan Drivers' School

OAKLAND— A drivers' training course for students in the five high schools of the county was arranged yesterday at a meeting of representatives and principals of the schools with the superintendent and assistant superintendent of schools.

The course will begin the first of February with two periods each week, for which a credit of one-fourth unit will be given for satisfactory completion. The classes for the time being will be limited in numbers.

Instructions will be Carl Everly, Oakland; Marvin Callis, Accident; Jones Griffin, Friendsville; Leslie Amtower, Kitzmiller; and William C. Grimm, Grantsville. These five persons who are instructors in the high schools, attended a conference in Baltimore January 5 to 9, sponsored by the State Department of Education, and took the course which consisted of 30 hours of class work and 10 hours of road work.

Also at the meeting were Principals W. J. Glenn, Marshall G. Brown, Thomas V. Baucom, B. O. Aiken and Foster D. Bittle. They met at the Court House with F. E. Rathbun, county superintendent and R. Bowen Hardesty, assistant superintendent of schools.

Marriage Announced

Mr. and Mrs. Henry O. Martin, Gormania, W. Va., announce the marriage of their daughter, Geraldine, to Kenneth Teagarden, son of Rev. and Mrs. H. O. Teagarden, Mt. Lake Park.

The wedding was solemnized January 28 at 1 o'clock by the bridegroom's father, Rev. Mr. Teagarden. Only members of the immediate family witnessed the ceremony.

The bride had her sister, Mrs. Maxine Reall, as matron of honor, while Oran Martin, brother of the bride, served as best man.

The bride is a graduate of Oakland High School, class of 1943. For the past year she has been employed as waitress in the Star restaurant, Cumberland.

Mr. Teagarden also attended Oakland High School before enlisting in the Navy. Recently he was discharged from the service, having been aboard the battleship Iowa during the war. He has ten battle stars to his credit. Since his discharge he has been employed as an exterior decorator.

Public Forum Planned

A community forum on Domestic and International affairs will be presented in Oakland by Oakland Rotary Club on consecutive Mondays, beginning March 1. This was announced by Dr. E. I. Baumgartner, chairman of the committee on arrangements. Four speakers, outstanding in their respective fields, will be featured during the series, he said.

This year the net proceeds of the series will be donated to the local hospital building fund.

The forums will be held in the assembly hall at St. Paul's Methodist church.

Plans were also made this week for the annual Ladies Night to be held March 18, at which time Gov. W. Preston Lane will be the speaker.

Scouts Plan Skiing Party

Members of Oakland Scout Troop are observing the 8th anniversary of the birth of scouting in America, February 6 to 12, with various activities. They will attend the Methodist church Sunday morning in a group, and have a skiing party at the golf course, west of town, Sunday afternoon.

During the week a basketball game has been planned. A board of review is scheduled for next Thursday night following the regular scout meeting. There will be a service of rededication at this time, according to William Fife, scoutmaster.

Blast Damages Building, Man Slightly Hurt

Hole Torn In Roof Of One Property

By RUDOLPH NICKEL

FROSTBURG — The metal cover of a manhole of C and P. Telephone Company, in front of Paul Dailey's Confectionery Store, 5 Broadway, was hurled 150 feet in the air by a sewer explosion about 10:15 a. m. yesterday.

The cover landed on the top of the building of the Hitchins-Stew-Art Realty Company, tearing a large hole in the roof and cracking the plaster of the apartment occupied by Mr. and Mrs. John Cain and Mrs. Cain's mother, Mrs. Amy Kalbaugh. Two windows in the apartment were broken and the transom window on the first floor entrance was blown out.

Paul Dailey and Mrs. Margaret Higgins, who were in the vestibule entrance with Maurice Craze, were unhurt, but Craze suffered a cut over the eye from flying ice, which required several stitches. Telephone company employes trying to open another manhole about 75 feet away were unhurt and two motor cars near the manhole were not damaged.

The blast was heard for several blocks in each direction and attracted hundreds of spectators. The explosion caused hundreds of birds to take flight from the neighborhood.

Following the blast, the Cumberland and Allegany Gas Company had a large number of workmen here testing their lines for leaks. As an extra safeguard, Woodrow Layman, chief of the Frostburg Fire Department, notified property owners in the vicinity to keep their cellar doors and windows open to avoid gas accumulation.

Palestine Question Discussed

Discussing the Palestine question at Frostburg State Teachers College Wednesday, Baron De Meiss-Teuffen, a lecturer, expressed the belief that the trouble between the Jews and Arabs is due to the fact that the wealthy Arabs do not like to see their age-old feudal system destroyed by the modern progress being introduced by the Jews who are returning to Palestine.

He Stated that the Arabs of the peasant class are friendly to the Jews whose Federation of Labor in the Holy Land has increased wages and shortened the working hours of Arab laborers. The baron stated that most of the Arabs fighting the Jews are unemployed Arabs from Syria and Lebanon.

Extension Course To Start

An extension course in European history is scheduled to begin at Frostburg State Teachers' College. The course will be given by Dr. Lewis Briggs, of the college faculty, and the first meeting of the class will be held Monday at 4:15 p. m. Persons interested in joining the class are invited to come to the college Monday afternoon.

Krause Rites Sunday

Final rites for Carl Krause, 46, a former resident of Frostburg, who died Thursday from a heart attack in Canton, Ohio, will be held Sunday at 4 p. m. in the Durst Funeral Home, East Main Street. Wagner Funeral Tomorrow

Services for Mrs. Louise Wagner, 80, who died Thursday at her home in Grahamtown, will be held Sunday at 2 p. m. at the residence, with Rev. Raymond E. Crowe, pastor of Midland Methodist Church, officiating. Burial will be in Allegany Cemetery.

Australia Irks English Typists

CANBERRA, Australia — (AP) — Some of the 30 English girls who have come to Canberra as typists in Government departments may not stay long, because they say Canberra is dull, lacks personality, its people "live in a world of their own."

British builders brought here to work on Government projects had similar complaints about Canberra's lack of social life.

The typists are not bound to stay in their Government jobs, and many say they will leave when they have saved enough money.

Plan Approved To Improve Oakland Water System

Schools To Offer Driving Courses

GEORGE H. HANST

OAKLAND — Augmenting of Oakland's water supply by the drilling of additional wells, but consideration of the advisability of developing a surface source of supply from a long range outlook, were recommended to the Mayor and Town Council of Oakland in a 30-page report of Chester Engineers, Pittsburgh, which has just been completed.

The City Council accepted the report and prepared to contact well drillers for the cost of a new well near Wilson Dam, northwest of Oakland, with an 8-inch bore, to a depth of 200 to 300 feet. The site selected was the first recommendation of the engineers. All water at present is supplied from wells and springs and was particularly low this past fall during dry weather.

Other specific recommendations included drilling of a second new well as soon as the need arises, preferably east of lower Eighth street; the saving of electric energy by installation of automatic controls between reservoirs and pumps, and improvement of the distribution system piping layout.

A study of the population trend led the engineers to state it was reasonable to expect 3,500 or 4,000 persons here by 1955, as compared to about 2,000 at present.

An earth fill dam on Bradley run, north of the city water farm, was suggested with facilities for 50 million gallons of water, enough for over four months supply for Oakland. The cost of the impounding dam, reservoir and filtration plant was estimated at $100,000.

Plan Drivers' School

OAKLAND— A drivers' training course for students in the five high schools of the county was arranged yesterday at a meeting of representatives and principals of the schools with the superintendent and assistant superintendent of schools.

The course will begin the first of February with two periods each week, for which a credit of one-fourth unit will be given for satisfactory completion. The classes for the time being will be limited in numbers.

Instructions will be Carl Everly, Oakland; Marvin Callis, Accident; Jones Griffin, Friendsville; Leslie Amtower, Kitzmiller; and William C. Grimm, Grantsville. These five persons who are instructors in the high schools, attended a conference in Baltimore January 5 to 9, sponsored by the State Department of Education, and took the course which consisted of 30 hours of class work and 10 hours of road work.

Also at the meeting were Principals W. J. Glenn, Marshall G. Brown, Thomas V. Baucom, B. O. Aiken and Foster D. Bittle. They met at the Court House with F. E. Rathbun, county superintendent and R. Bowen Hardesty, assistant superintendent of schools.

Marriage Announced

Mr. and Mrs. Henry O. Martin, Gormania, W. Va., announce the marriage of their daughter, Geraldine, to Kenneth Teagarden, son of Rev. and Mrs. H. O. Teagarden, Mt. Lake Park.

The wedding was solemnized January 28 at 1 o'clock by the bridegroom's father, Rev. Mr. Teagarden. Only members of the immediate family witnessed the ceremony.

The bride had her sister, Mrs. Maxine Reall, as matron of honor, while Oran Martin, brother of the bride, served as best man.

The bride is a graduate of Oakland High School, class of 1943. For the past year she has been employed as waitress in the Star restaurant, Cumberland.

Mr. Teagarden also attended Oakland High School before enlisting in the Navy. Recently he was discharged from the service, having been aboard the battleship Iowa during the war. He has ten battle stars to his credit. Since his discharge he has been employed as an exterior decorator.

Public Forum Planned

A community forum on Domestic and International affairs will be presented in Oakland by Oakland Rotary Club on consecutive Mondays, beginning March 1. This was announced by Dr. E. I. Baumgartner, chairman of the committee on arrangements. Four speakers, outstanding in their respective fields, will be featured during the series, he said.

This year the net proceeds of the series will be donated to the local hospital building fund.

The forums will be held in the assembly hall at St. Paul's Methodist church.

Plans were also made this week for the annual Ladies Night to be held March 18, at which time Gov. W. Preston Lane will be the speaker.

Scouts Plan Skiing Party

Members of Oakland Scout Troop are observing the 8th anniversary of the birth of scouting in America, February 6 to 12, with various activities. They will attend the Methodist church Sunday morning in a group, and have a skiing party at the golf course, west of town, Sunday afternoon.

During the week a basketball game has been planned. A board of review is scheduled for next Thursday night following the regular scout meeting. There will be a service of rededication at this time, according to William Fife, scoutmaster.

Blast Damages Building, Man Slightly Hurt

Hole Torn In Roof Of One Property

By RUDOLPH NICKEL

FROSTBURG — The metal cover of a manhole of C and P. Telephone Company, in front of Paul Dailey's Confectionery Store, 5 Broadway, was hurled 150 feet in the air by a sewer explosion about 10:15 a. m. yesterday.

The cover landed on the top of the building of the Hitchins-Stew-Art Realty Company, tearing a large hole in the roof and cracking the plaster of the apartment occupied by Mr. and Mrs. John Cain and Mrs. Cain's mother, Mrs. Amy Kalbaugh. Two windows in the apartment were broken and the transom window on the first floor entrance was blown out.

Paul Dailey and Mrs. Margaret Higgins, who were in the vestibule entrance with Maurice Craze, were unhurt, but Craze suffered a cut over the eye from flying ice, which required several stitches. Telephone company employes trying to open another manhole about 75 feet away were unhurt and two motor cars near the manhole were not damaged.

The blast was heard for several blocks in each direction and attracted hundreds of spectators. The explosion caused hundreds of birds to take flight from the neighborhood.

Following the blast, the Cumberland and Allegany Gas Company had a large number of workmen here testing their lines for leaks. As an extra safeguard, Woodrow Layman, chief of the Frostburg Fire Department, notified property owners in the vicinity to keep their cellar doors and windows open to avoid gas accumulation.

Palestine Question Discussed

Discussing the Palestine question at Frostburg State Teachers College Wednesday, Baron De Meiss-Teuffen, a lecturer, expressed the belief that the trouble between the Jews and Arabs is due to the fact that the wealthy Arabs do not like to see their age-old feudal system destroyed by the modern progress being introduced by the Jews who are returning to Palestine.

He Stated that the Arabs of the peasant class are friendly to the Jews whose Federation of Labor in the Holy Land has increased wages and shortened the working hours of Arab laborers. The baron stated that most of the Arabs fighting the Jews are unemployed Arabs from Syria and Lebanon.

Extension Course To Start

British builders brought here to work on Government projects had similar complaints about Canberra's lack of social life.

Mineral County Farmers Eligible For ACP Payments Must File Soon

February 15 Is Deadline

By JUNE B. ROLLEY

KEYSER, W. Va.—Mineral County farmers who participated in the 1947 Agricultural Conservation Program and are eligible for payments are urged to file their report and make application for such payment not later than February 15. Thomas R. Bosley, chairman of the Mineral County A. C. A., states that all reports must be filed by the above date in order for payment to be made.

The county chairman explained that farmers who brought lime or phosphate, fertilized permanent pastures or hay crops or grasses, are, in most cases, eligible for payments provided they file their report on or before February 15. It was also possible, under provisions of the 1947 program, for farmers in this county to earn payments by constructing stockwater dams, diversion ditches or contour strips and by carrying out other approved practices, Bosley added.

Reports may be filed at the County Agricultural Conservation Office, Sincell Building, Davis Street, Keyser, W. Va.

Farm Bureu Elects

Officers elected at a recent meeting of the Mineral County Farm Bureau are: C. I. Homan, president; E. J. Pritts, vice president; Lawrence Idleman, secretary, and Ervin Bane, treasurer.

It was reported at the meeting that the bureau now has 210 members and plans were made to enlarge the membership to 366 members, the 1948 membership goal.

Local entertainers will be featured at the March of Dimes dance to be held at the McCoole Veterans of Foreign Wars Club Monday night, February 9. Also invited to attend are officials of the Crippled Children's League of Allegany County.

All proceeds of the dance will be turned into the McCoole School which is sponsoring the campaign in that area.

Wild Life Meeting Set

A meeting of the Mineral County Wild Life Association will be held at the Star Restaurant dining room February 9 at 8 p. m., it has been announced by L. C. Shuck, president of the organization. All members are urged to be present.

Charged With Contempt

George W. Eagle, Keyser, who was arrested by City Police Thursday night on a charge of drunk and disorderly conduct, is being held in Mineral Couty Jail awaiting a hearing before Judge Ernest A. See on a charge of contempt of court.

Judge See previously had ordered Eagle not to molest his wife and daughters and to move out of their home on South Main Street. Mrs. Eagle has a divorce suit pending in Circuit Court.

Eagle was fined $10 at a hearing before City Judge A. A. Jordan yesterday morning but was returned to jail pending a hearing before Judge See next week.

Danish Engineers Busy World Over

COPENHAGEN—(AP)—Danish engineers are now working all over the world. The biggest Danish engineering firms, alone, have 350 experts abroad.

In Venezuela the Danish firm of Christiani and Nielson is building two cement works and a town for 10,000 workers. In Peru the firm is erecting a hydroelectric plant at the cost of $4,000,000. In South America, alone, Danish engineers are supervising 7,800 workers.

BROADWAY

Only eight of our 49 Governors are natives of the states they govern. . . . The second highest paid public official in the United States (the President topping the field), is the Presiding Justice of the Appellate Division of the Supreme Court of New York State, Second Division — which constitutes New York City. He gets $27,500 a year. The Mayor and New York's Governor tie for third with $25,000. . . . Signs of Our Times: A local mortuary firm's ad in Broadway buses reads: "We Buried General Grant. Why Not Give Us a Trial?" . . . A lower East Side grocery prides itself with selling "Union Smoked Fish Only." . . . An auto exchange at 63d St. and Broadway displays "Horseless Carriages For Sale." . . . A forthcoming magazine (Neurotica) plans to develop pieces on subjects like the following: "Can You Slap Your Mother: a Semantic Problem;" "Love Founded on Mutual Misunderstanding;" "How Boring Can American Poetry Become?" and "The Theatre as Sublimated Suicide."

These Modern Times: The City of Cincinnati to be the first metropolis to have FM receiving sets installed in its buses and street cars. . . . Among other things, today marks the 650th anniversary of the introduction into Italy of the Chinese dish, spaghetti, by Marco Polo. The local restaurant chain of that name, incidentally, has been slowly changing over from spaghetti specialists to ham-and-egg boosters. . . . The National Cancer Fund is having an auction (open to men only) of the latest in women's Easter styles at the Hotel Ambassador Tuesday. Everything from a Floral Laurel-by Dache to hand-painted brassieres is going on the block. . . . A cosmetic concern has announced intentions of putting a new "Eisenhower" mascara on the market. ("Guaranteed not to run," is the slogan.) . . . Pan-American claims that only kitchen sinks remain to be air cargoed. Yesterday, one thousand gas ranges were flown from Miami to Columbia.

Beauty salons are becoming as versatile as drugstores. At the new Stage Door beauty salon, a customer can have her dress remodeled, her feet attended by a chiropodist, her lunch served, her jewelry repaired and her theatre tickets purchased by phone while she's acquiring a permanent wave. Plans to install a circulating library are afoot, also. . . . The Kosher Salami-of-the-Month Club is now seeking members. . . . Motorcycle fans have banded together to pick a queen of their hobby, to be named "Miss Muffler of 1948." . . . Howard Johnson is looking for "Miss Ice Cream Cone of 1948" to give her two week's vacation in Paris. . . . Danish Engineers Busy World Over

COPENHAGEN—(AP)—Danish engineers are now working all over the world. The biggest Danish engineering firms, alone, have 350 experts abroad.

In Venezuela the Danish firm of Christiani and Nielson is building two cement works and a town for 10,000 workers. In Peru the firm is erecting a hydroelectric plant at the cost of $4,000,000. In South America, alone, Danish engineers are supervising 7,800 workers.

STRAWS IN THE WIND

BROADWAY

By DANTON WALKER

Only eight of our 49 Governors are natives of the states they govern. . . . The second highest paid public official in the United States (the President topping the field), is the Presiding Justice of the Appellate Division of the Supreme Court of New York State, Second Division — which constitutes New York City. He gets $27,500 a year. The Mayor and New York's Governor tie for third with $25,000. . . . Signs of Our Times: A local mortuary firm's ad in Broadway buses reads: "We Buried General Grant. Why Not Give Us a Trial?" . . . A lower East Side grocery prides itself with selling "Union Smoked Fish Only." . . . An auto exchange at 63d St. and Broadway displays "Horseless Carriages For Sale." . . . A forthcoming magazine (Neurotica) plans to develop pieces on subjects like the following: "Can You Slap Your Mother: a Semantic Problem;" "Love Founded on Mutual Misunderstanding;" "How Boring Can American Poetry Become?" and "The Theatre as Sublimated Suicide."

These Modern Times: The City of Cincinnati to be the first metropolis to have FM receiving sets installed in its buses and street cars. . . . Among other things, today marks the 650th anniversary of the introduction into Italy of the Chinese dish, spaghetti, by Marco Polo. The local restaurant chain of that name, incidentally, has been slowly changing over from spaghetti specialists to ham-and-egg boosters. . . . The National Cancer Fund is having an auction (open to men only) of the latest in women's Easter styles at the Hotel Ambassador Tuesday. Everything from a Floral Laurel by Dache to hand-painted brassieres is going on the block. . . . A cosmetic concern has announced intentions of putting a new "Eisenhower" mascara on the market. ("Guaranteed not to run," is the slogan.) . . . Pan-American claims that only kitchen sinks remain to be air cargoed. Yesterday, one thousand gas ranges were flown from Miami to Columbia.

Beauty salons are becoming as versatile as drugstores. At the new Stage Door beauty salon, a customer can have her dress remodeled, her feet attended by a chiropodist, her lunch served, her jewelry repaired and her theatre tickets purchased by phone while she's acquiring a permanent wave. Plans to install a circulating library are afoot, also. . . . The Kosher Salami-of-the-Month Club is now seeking members. . . . Motorcycle fans have banded together to pick a queen of their hobby, to be named "Miss Muffler of 1948." . . . Howard Johnson is looking for "Miss Ice Cream Cone of 1948" to give her two week's vacation in Paris. . . . In Washington, a husband recently sued for divorce because his wife hid his wooden leg every night to keep him at home. . . . A western undertaker is reputed to have the new 1948 license plate reading "U-2." . . . Leap Year Note: The marriage license bureau at the Municipal Building is in the same room where you get your hunting and fishing licenses.

Barbara Stanwyck once earned her living as a corset model in Manhattan. . . . Ed Wynn, currently supplying the guffaws at the Carnival, was once the owner of radio station WNEW. . . . Celeste Holm once understudied and played Ophelia in Leslie Howard's "Hamlet." . . . Both Arlene Dahl, Red Skelton's latest leading lady in the movies, and Shiela Bond, dancing star of "Make Mine Manhattan," were in the same Latin Quarter revue three years ago. . . . Bernie Styles, page at Salvin's, once owned nite clubs in Florida and California. Claims he intends to open another in Nevada when he has saved enough money. . . . Sergio, Broadway columnist for some 600,000 Spanish-speaking people (via Ecos) is a direct descendant of Don Pedro de Alvarez, the Conquistador of Guatemala. His baptismal certificate labels him Carlos Rafael Manuel Salivador de Jesus Julio Candido Anacleto Moran Novales y Palacios de Alvarado.

New paint, composed of pigment and polyvinyl resin dispersed in water with about 1 per cent of a synthetic wetting agent, can be applied with brush or spray and dries without odor to a hard film in less than a half hour.

"I know . . . but it TASTES good!"

GRIN AND BEAR IT — By Lichty

"I'm just crazy about this record—Harold, Otis, Joe and Eddie have all declared it's OUR song!"

WIFE PRESERVERS

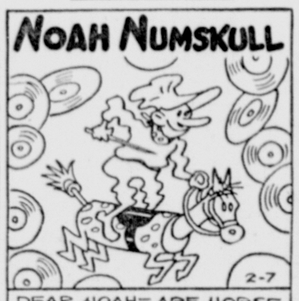

If you are afraid that luscious berry or apple pie may ooze over and burn on your oven floor, and be wasted, insert short lengths of drinking straws into the vents in the upper crust before putting the pie in the oven.

IN MEMORIAM

In loving memory of our dear Son and Father, William L. Yost, who died 3 years ago, February 2, 1946.

Your gentle face and loving smile
With sadness we recall,
You had a kindly word for each
And died beloved by all.
The voice is mute and stilled the heart
That loved us well and true,
Oh, bitter was the trial to part
From so good as you.
You are not forgotten dear son and father,
Nor will you ever be;
As long as life and memory last
We will remember you.

Sadly missed by his mother, MRS. ELLA YOST, Her Children and Grandchildren.

CARD OF THANKS

We want to thank all the many friends for their kindness and expressions of sympathy during our trouble and bereavement.
REV. R. A. McCAULEY & FAMILY
Davis, W. Va.

We are taking this means to thank our friends and neighbors for the kindness extended to us during the illness and death of our husband father, Kemper P. Cline, Clarksburg, W. Va. Also to those who sent floral tributes and donated the use of their automobiles for the funeral.
MRS. KEMPER P. CLINE and SONS

IN MEMORIAM

In loving memory of our dear Son and Father, William L. Yost, who died 3 years ago, February 2, 1946.

Your gentle face and loving smile
With sadness we recall,
You had a kindly word for each
And died beloved by all.
The voice is mute and stilled the heart
That loved us well and true,
Oh, bitter was the trial to part
From so good as you.
You are not forgotten dear son and father,
Nor will you ever be;
As long as life and memory last
We will remember you.

Sadly missed by his mother, MRS. ELLA YOST. Her Children and Grandchildren.

CARD OF THANKS

We want to thank all the many friends for their kindness and expressions of sympathy during our trouble and bereavement.

REV. R. A. McCAULEY & FAMILY
Davis, W. Va.

We are taking this means to thank our friends and neighbors for the kindness extended to us during the illness and death of our husband father, Kemper P. Cline, Clarksburg, W. Va. Also to those who sent floral tributes and donated the use of their automobiles for the funeral.

MRS. KEMPER P. CLINE and SONS

Assorted Stocks Partially Regain Equilibrium But Enthusiasm Lacking

NEW YORK, Feb. 6—(AP)—Assorted stocks regained some of their equilibrium today although further weakness of major commodities helped keep many market leaders in the losing bracket.

With wheat and corn continuing to tumble the permissible limit, enthusiasm for securities was notably lacking.

Wall Street pessimists again trimmed accounts because of doubts regarding taxes, the outlook for business, international affairs and prospects for a new round of wage demands. A slump in the London Securities Mart was a chilling influence.

The Associated Press 60-stock composite was unchanged at 61.6, which was a bottom since last June 10. The utility index, though, edged to new low ground for the past year. Of 1,008 issues registering, 389 fell and 379 rose.

A favorable dividend lifted Great Atlantic and Pacific in the curb.

There was some improvement in selected issues in the bond market after two days of sliding prices.

At the close, however, declines were well in the majority and some issues were off more than two points.

Most of the transactions were in rails and carriers were prominent among the losers.

United States government bonds and foreign issues were quiet.

The Associated Press index advanced a tenth of a point each on 10 selected utilities, foreign bonds and low yield issues, and retreated a like amount for 20 rails and 10 industrials.

The volume was $3,680,000, compared with $4,190,000 yesterday.

Chicago Board Of Trade

CHICAGO, Feb. 6 (AP)—The collapse in grain prices continued today on the Board of Trade. Wheat, corn and soybeans were off their daily limits for the third consecutive session, but oats ended with gains in distant contracts and lard was fairly steady.

Heavy liquidation again hit the major grain pits, but selling in oats was much less aggressive.

Final quotations were down at the bottom in everything but oats and lard. Once again, there were unfilled selling orders in wheat and corn.

Buying of cash grain by the Commodity Credit Corporation was unable to stem the crash.

At the close wheat was down 42¼ to 50⅜ cents from seasonal highs, corn 36¾ to 47¾ cents, oats 12½ to 28½ cents and soybeans 79 to 80½ cents. Closing futures:

Assorted Stocks Partially Regain Equilibrium But Enthusiasm Lacking

NEW YORK, Feb. 6—(AP)—Assorted stocks regained some of their equilibrium today although further weakness of major commodities helped keep many market leaders in the losing bracket.

With wheat and corn continuing to tumble the permissible limit, enthusiasm for securities was notably lacking.

Wall Street pessimists again trimmed accounts because of doubts regarding taxes, the outlook for business, international affairs and prospects for a new round of wage demands. A slump in the London Securities Mart was a chilling influence.

The Associated Press 60-stock composite was unchanged at 61.6, which was a bottom since last June 10. The utility index, though, edged to new low ground for the past year. Of 1,008 issues registering, 389 fell and 379 rose.

A favorable dividend lifted Great Atlantic and Pacific in the curb.

There was some improvement in selected issues in the bond market after two days of sliding prices.

At the close, however, declines were well in the majority and some issues were off more than two points.

Most of the transactions were in rails and carriers were prominent among the losers.

United States government bonds and foreign issues were quiet.

The Associated Press index advanced a tenth of a point each on 10 selected utilities, foreign bonds and low yield issues, and retreated a like amount for 20 rails and 10 industrials.

The volume was $3,680,000, compared with $4,190,000 yesterday.

Chicago Board Of Trade

CHICAGO, Feb. 6 (AP)—The collapse in grain prices continued today on the Board of Trade. Wheat, corn and soybeans were off their daily limits for the third consecutive session, but oats ended with gains in distant contracts and lard was fairly steady.

Heavy liquidation again hit the major grain pits, but selling in oats was much less aggressive.

Final quotations were down at the bottom in everything but oats and lard. Once again, there were unfilled selling orders in wheat and corn.

Buying of cash grain by the Commodity Credit Corporation was unable to stem the crash.

At the close wheat was down 42¼ to 50⅝ cents from seasonal highs, corn 36¾ to 47¾ cents, oats 12½ to 28½ cents and soybeans 79 to 80½ cents. Closing futures:

New Local 1874 Heads Receive TWUA Blessings

DuChessi Installs Full Aldridge Slate

An election slate which won office in Local 1874, Textile Workers Union of America, CIO, on a straight TWUA-CIO platform, received the blessing of the TWUA last night from William M. DuChessi, Baltimore, TWUA director for Maryland and West Virginia, who declared he was proud that the officers of the union do not hold allegiance "to any foreign idelogies."

DuChessi, in installing the slate headed by Playford Aldridge, 540 Fairview Avenue, said he was exceptionally proud that Local 1874, TWUA, in its recent election, supported the views of Textile Workers Union of America.

The TWUA, he said, will participate in the Political Action Committee of the CIO and intends to wage a strenuous campaign to elect friends of labor.

This will be an exceptionally tough year for all organized labor and for 8,700 member Local 1874, he said, since the Celanese local will be negotiating for a contract for the first time under the Taft-Hartley Law.

Will Obey Law

The TWUA will fight the Taft-Hartley Law with every means at its command but while it is law, the union intends to meet with its requirements, DuChessi said.

The international TWUA has qualified under the Taft-Hartley Law, DuChessi said, adding he is sure the local officers will now comply with the election pledges made by the successful candidates.

DuChessi said the TWUA is stressing to all its membership in the Cumberland area, the importance of the coming presidential campaign. You have won all your major battles on the economic front only to see them slip away from you because of the action of the present Congress, he pointed out.

Labor must organize on the political front as never before, DuChessi said, since it has been demonstrated that what was won on the picket line can be taken away in the halls of Congress.

Only if the American people participate actively in the coming presidential campaign can labor hold the advantages it has won since 1932, DuChessi concluded.

To Sign Pledges Today

Aldridge, who will head the Celanese local during 1948, told the members present at the installation that the four officers listed in the TWUA by-laws (president, vice president, secretary-treasurer and recording secretary) will sign the Loyalty pledges required by the Taft-Hartley Law this morning as promised during the campaign.

The action is necessary, he added, if Local 1874 is to have access to the facilities of the National Labor Relations Board.

James A. Blackwell, Baltimore, national TWUA representative, was master of ceremonies for the ceremony held in the ballroom of the Queen City Hotel here.

The officers obligated by DuChessi included Aldridge, president; James Stewart, vice president; John G. Thomas, secretary-treasurer and business manager; James Martin, recording secretary; Walter Mahaney, warden.

Liquor Licenses Not Transferable

The Allegany County Liquor Control Board yesterday emphasized the fact that beer, wine and whisky licenses issued for the sale of intoxicants, cannot, under the law, be transferred when a business is sold.

There have been some misunderstandings on this phase of the county liquor law, and board members, for the benefit of those contemplating the sale or purchase of business involving the dispensing of intoxicants, explain that in the event such an establishment is sold, the license reverts back to the Board.

Before persons contract for the purchase of such establishments, they should clear their own applications for licenses, board members said, as licenses are issued to the individual or persons operating the business and not to the business itself.

Three license applications were approved and permits issued yesterday. All three permits are for places formerly operated by others.

Licenses to sell beer were granted to John B. Roy and Nola O. Beal, North Mechanic Street, formerly operated by Anna Brown; Mrs. Grace Curry, Silver Lane Bowling Alleys, Cresaptown, formerly operated by Allan Grant; and a beer and wine license to Carl A. Keller, 510 Park Street, formerly operated by George V. Trexler.

Jr. Association May Join Drive Against Rodents

Hendricks Calls Committee Meeting

The Junior Association of Commerce Clean-Up Committee will meet Monday night at 7 o'clock in the Jaycee office, Liberty Trust Building, to discuss with Ralph F. McHenry, county farm agent, plans for participation in the "War On Rats" campaign to be waged here the first week in March.

According to Jack Hendricks, chairman of the Jaycee committee, the annual Clean-Up drive, sponsored by the Jaycees, is not usually held until sometime in April, but it is contemplated that the group can participate in the promotion of the drive to kill rats in the interest of saving grain to help conserve food and make more food available for hungry people throughout the world.

Hendricks said yesterday he had been asked by John M. Robb, Jaycee president, to meet with McHenry and learn the implications of the campaign to exterminate rodents, and is quite impressed with work already done in rural areas by McHenry, in organizing the drive.

The farm agent, Hendricks explained, wants the local organization to take on the task of surveying hardware, drug and feed stores to determine the amount of rat poison and the type of rat poison available here, and then to publicize how it shall be used and where it can be obtained.

The drive to kill as many rats as possible is to be extended to stores, industries, private homes, and other places, as well as on farms, Hendricks said, and it is hoped the Jaycee group, meeting Monday, will adopt it as a Jaycee project.

Informed of the meeting Monday, McHenry said he is pleased the Jaycees have offered their help, because he hopes to extend the campaign beyond the rural areas and farms. He said he will be at the meeting Monday to explain the program in as much detail as he possibly can.

Temperature Reading

While the weatherman predicted "cloudy and cold" for today, and made no comment about additional snowfall for a change, mercury in Cumberland yesterday climbed to three points above freezing to reach 35 above zero by mid-afternoon, resulting in some slight thawing. Low reading for the day was 21 above, with 26 reported at 11 p. m. Skies remained fairly clear throughout the day, but there was a slight overcast last night. In outlying areas, a slight mist was reported in the early morning hours.

Experienced Observers Believe Flood Danger May Pass In Area

Weatherman Says Cloudy And Cold

Railroad men, game wardens, foresters, utility employes, and city and county officials, to mention a few who constantly are concerned with weather conditions, were practically unanimous last night in the opinion that there is no danger of a flood here, unless the weather turns suddenly warmer, or there is a steady long-time downpour of rain.

Whenever a heavy snow blankets the area, flood talk is revived in the city, and with a foot and in many places two feet of snow in the mountains now, many persons have been discussing the possibility. While no one will predict that there will or will not be a flood, observers who are experienced on such a situation express the view that the heavy snow will be carried off gradually, unless freakish warm and rainy weather appears. This of course happened 12 and 24 years ago. Some persons locally say a flood is quite possible because they run in 12-year cycles as Cumberland has had a major flood each 12 years since 1900, but other observers say this is mere coincidence.

As compared to the background which preceeded the 1936 flood, the last five months in Cumberland have been drought-like. From September 1935 through January 1936 precipitation amounted to 15.9 inches as compared to 9.51 for the current season and a normal of 12.33 inches.

Precipitation Lower

Precipitation so far this month has been .56 of an inch. For the entire month of February in 1936 it was an inch above the 2.43 normal and the March measurement was 7.77 as compared to 3.04 inches normal.

Most of the snow in the upper Potomac River watershed had melted and left before the March 17 flood arrived in 1936, but the runoff left the ground well soaked with the result there was no place for water from the heavy March rain to go except to streams.

Temperature Above Freezing

In Cumberland and vicinity yesterday, temperature reached a maximum of 35 above zero, and in open areas there was some thawing. However, as temperatures lowered toward nightfall, streets and highways, not entirely cleared, became slippery as the slush and partially melted snow froze. Streets and roads were cindered but travel was slow.

The minimum temperature reported here was 21 above zero at 8 a. m. with 26 reported at 11 o'clock last night. Skies were cloudy.

At Thomas, W. Va., thermometers at 11 p. m. read 22 above, but in the opposite direction at Deal, Pa., mercury at that hour stood at 14 above. There was no new snow either place, except that of yesterday morning, when about an inch fell. Skies were slightly cloudy.

Most of the area is fairly well dug out of the heavy snowfall, but crews, working regular hours are still clearing some streets and roadways. Charles N. Wilkinson, president of the Board of County Commissioners, said all county roads have been plowed or cindered, and no complaints were received yesterday.

G. Bates Chaires, district engineer for the State's Roads Commission said crews worked yesterday cindering slippery spots and highways are in as good shape as can be expected. Plows are working in some areas, and crews will be out as long as necessary to alleviate the situation.

In Garrett County, Oakland reports a total of 13 inches of snow instead of 11 inches previously reported, but in other sections of the county, total snowfall exceeded two feet.

Ski Trails Are Open

At New Germany, H. C. Buckingham, state forester, reported 26 inches of powdery snow on ski trails, and many persons taking advantage of the opportunity to pursue the sport. A large crowd was on hand last weekend and all week, he said, and a large number of ski fans is expected this week end from all parts of the state and surrounding area.

In the city and nearby towns, youngsters were still making the best of the chance to use their sleds. There were no mishaps, but complaints were heard from several motorists that children on the West Side here were sled riding on streets that had not been roped off.

Predicts Cloudy and Colder

The weatherman cleared his board of snowstorm predictions for Maryland last night and reverted to the now monotonous forecast of partly cloudy and cold.

The snowstorm which was to hit the state yesterday morning and continue through the day arrived a few hours ahead of schedule and moved on after depositing a fraction of the snow expected.

But at that, the few inches deposited in Western Maryland and the trace on the Eastern Shore handicapped crews clearing roads of the accummulation of two earlier storms.

State Police hesitated to advise motorists about the condition of the highways until after they learned to what extent yesterday's accummulaion of slush had frozen.

Several main arteries, however, were reported "very slippery" and drivers were advised to use chains on roads not cleared of slush.

Meanwhile, the weather bureau watched developments of a possible storm in the midwest which it said probably would furnish the next threat to the state.

County 4-H Boys Getting Details On Forestry Plan

Brook Bodkin Gives Series Of Lectures

Allegany County Boys' 4-H Clubs have embarked on a program of studying forestry conservation and forest fire prevention, according to Joseph M. Steger, assistant county farm agent.

Brook Bodkin, senior forest supervisor of this county, is appearing at all 4-H clubs in the county, speaking on the forest conservancy act, cutting regulations, fire prevention, timber preservation, and forestry's contribution to flood prevention and prevention of soil erosion. Bodkin is also showing three new forestry motion picture films to the boys, Steger said.

Last night the program was presented to boys at the Union Grove Club in their club house. Yesterday afternoon, Bodkin visited Flintstone club at the school there, and Thursday night he talked to the Pleasant Grove Club.

His schedule for next week includes Pumpkin Center Club Monday night; Piney Plains, Monday afternoon. LaVale, Tuesday night; Oldtown Junior and Senior groups, Wednesday afternoon, and McCoole, Wednesday night. Thursday afternoon he will be at Eckhart and Thursday night at Winchester Road Club.

Steger said the State Department of Forests and Parks, through district foresters and supervisors, plans to enlist the co-operation of 4-H Club boys in an extensive tree planting program in this and other counties. He said he understands H. C. Buckingham, state forester, plans to have the boys participate in a program to plant chestnut seedlings, in an effort to re-establish chestnut trees, which were killed completely in the county by blight a number of years ago.

The boys have expressed considerable interest in the project, Steger said, and are awaiting details of procedure.

He was also ordered to restore the property or to reimburse Valentine for the dies.

Harry Reger, Gay Street, who court attaches said was in the area when the dies were taken January 29, was acquitted of the same charge.

The court said Baker was sentenced to 60 days last August on a larceny charge and had served time on assault charges.

Number Of Dog Poisonings On Increase Here

Strychnine Tablets Blamed In 75 Cases

Local dog owners, many of whom are children, have in the past three months become aware of a growing menace to their canine pets as the lethal strychnine tablet is blamed for more and more dogs' deaths.

There have been at least 75 dogs, many valued animals, found dead in the yards of their owners recently, a local veterinarian explained, adding that he believes it is the work of a perverted person "who just hates dogs—all dogs."

Aside from the cost of the dogs, the veterinarian declared "it is a heart-breaking experience to see a child standing over his pet crying as if his only friend on earth had died."

The situation became noticeable about six months ago, according to the veterinarian, and then in December, just before Christmas, the number of dogs found dead from strychnine poisoning grew much larger.

Follow Same Method

The owners of many of the victims are quick to blame it on a neighbor, he said, but after studying the overall picture there are many things that make it appear to be the work of one person or group "that just doesn't like dogs."

Usually there are about three dogs found dead in one neighborhood within a week, and then in a short period three or four more dogs are found dead in a different section of the city, but always the same method is used.

The most recent attack occurred this week when three valuable dogs were found dead within a few hours on the West Side.

Several weeks ago, the veterinarian said, he was called to the home of a local family where a registered Beagle and her five pups were poisoned with strychnine. One of the pups responded to treatment but the mother and four others died.

In that incident, the doctor declared, the animals were kept in a pen in the back yard and the strychnine tablets were packed in short pieces of meat and thrown into the pen. It was a substantial loss, he said.

More than half of the recent poisonings, which have been averaging about six a week, have involved dogs that are kept tied in the owners' yards or are kept in homes and let out only for brief periods.

The owners, on many occasions sick with grief, have paid for autopsies "just to learn what caused the animal's death," according to the veterinarian. In every case in the past three months a small piece of meat packed with a strychnine tablet was found in the dog's stomach.

Dog May Be Saved

If the dog is discovered quickly after strychnine has been eaten, there is a possibility that the poison can be pumped from its stomach and the animal saved, the veterinarian explained.

The symptoms are very easy to recognize. The dog becomes very rigid for a short period, then relaxes for 10 or 15 minutes and then becomes rigid again.

The owner should force cream or mustard down the dogs throat and get the animal to a veterinarian as quickly as possible.

In cases where the animals received medical care quickly only two died from the poison, according to the animal doctor, "but usually the dog is not found until it has been dead several hours."

The situation is critical in the city and actually required action on the part of the Society for Prevention of Cruelty to Animals, the veterinarian asserted, adding that the city's ordinances are lax in regard to such matters.

Driver Involved In Accident Pays $122.25 In Fines

A Cresaptown truck driver, involved in an accident on Route 220 Monday night, pleaded guilty to three state motor law violations last night before Magistrate Roy Bowman, Cresaptown and was fined $122.25.

Russell Lee White, who police identified as the driver of a truck that struck the parked automobile of Lt. Comdr. Walter N. Hedrick, USNR, pleaded guilty to charges of operating a truck under the influence of liquor, operating without a driver's permit, and reckless driving.

Trooper Thomas G. Barton who preferred charges, said French White, a brother of the defendant, who was riding in the truck at the time of the accident, suffered head lacerations when he was thrown against the windshield.

The truck, according to Trooper Barton, collided with the rear of Lt. Comdr. Hedrick's car as the Naval officer stopped to leave another person out.

White was taken into custody and held in Allegany County Jail until he posted bonds totaling $124.35 the following day.

Staff Sgt. Robert L. Chambers, United States Army recruiting sergeant, Westernport forfeited $6.45 on a charge of exceeding 30 miles an hour on Route 220 February 3.

Paul A. Stair, Route 1, this city, forfeited $6.45 on a charge of passing a school bus that was discharging passengers on Route 220 yesterday. Edward T. Lyons, Frostburg, pleaded guilty to speeding and was fined $5.75.

Seven other motorists forfeited bonds when they failed to appear to answer charges of speeding. They are:

Trooper Barton preferred charges in all of the cases.

Indian War Dance Ends In "Clink"

The vanishing American, a Cherokee Indian, put in his appearance at police station last night after officers received a call that he was doing something similar to his ancestors' war dance.

Several bottles of snake oil and programs of the performance that he gives were found in a brief case taken from the man when he was searched.

Police found a new name for the ancient war dance and charged Chief Red Feathers with drunk and disorderly conduct. He will be given a hearing this morning.

Washington Dairy Offers Premium For Local Milk

Hepner Says Offer Is Above Firms Of Area

The Tri-State Milk Producers Association, which threatened about a week ago to withhold milk from two Cumberland area dairies unless the firms meet its demand for a 25 cent increase per hundredweight in the price of milk, announced last night that a Washington dairy had offered a higher price for its products.

O. C. Hepner, Fort Ashby, secretary of the association, said the offer adds new strength to the request of the Tri-State group for an increase in wholesale milk prices here.

James J. Ward, president of Embassy Dairy, one of Washington's largest dairies, Hepner said, told leaders of the association here last night that his company would pay an average of about $5.70 per hundredweight for milk delivered to the local Embassy plant.

The Washington price includes premiums for low bacterial count and local dairies have been paying $5.30 plus a premium for low bacterial counts, he said.

Hepner said the Washington offer is higher than offers made by local dairies and added that negotiations for the increase should not increase the price of milk in the Cumberland area.

The producers group, adopting divide and conquer tactics, announced January 28 that milk would be withheld from a Cumberland and Midland dairy beginning February 1 unless a 25 cent per hundredweight boost is granted to bring the rate to $5.55.

Jaycees Launch Annual Drive For New Members

William B. Smith Heads Campaign

The Junior Associationu of Commerce has launched its annual membership drive under the leadership of William B. Smith, Windsor Road, general chairman, with five prizes to the members who bring in the most applications, and emphasis being placed upon obtaining more active members, according to John M. Robb, president.

The Association has been organized into four teams with about 30 members to each team. A grand prize of a new radio will be offered the member who brings in the most applications, and to the member of each team with the highest return a prize of a new fountain pen will be presented.

The campaign will continue for one month only, and will end March 3 at the next regular dinner meeting at Ali Ghan Country Club, Smith said last night.

All new members will be guests at the first meeting after which their applications have been accepted, and the fee paid with their application will cover dues until May 1, 1949.

The advantages of joining now, Smith explained, gives the new members three moinths' free dues, and the first dinner free.

The organization roster is open to young men of good character between the ages of 21 and 35, who are interested in civic affairs, and helping work on civic projects for the general welfare of the community, Smith said. The local Jaycees have a long record of accomplishments, and have numerous projects of general interest for the future.

Presently, plans are being formulated for the annual air show, the Miss America Pageant, Clean-Up Week, and a broadened Youth Welfare program, according to Robb.

Team captains for the membership include Ward N. Hauger, William F. New, Harry Kauffman and Henry A. Mackey.

DuChessi Installs Full Aldridge Slate

An election slate which won office in Local 1874, Textile Workers Union of America, CIO, on a straight TWUA-CIO platform, received the blessing of the TWUA last night from William M. DuChessi, Baltimore, TWUA director for Maryland and West Virginia, who declared he was proud that the officers of the union do not hold allegiance "to any foreign ideologies."

DuChessi, in installing the slate headed by Playford Aldridge, 540 Fairview Avenue, said he was exceptionally proud that Local 1874, TWUA, in its recent election, supported the views of Textile Workers Union of America.

The TWUA, he said, will participate in the Political Action Committee of the CIO and intends to wage a strenuous campaign to elect friends of labor.

This will be an exceptionally tough year for all organized labor and for 8,700 member Local 1874, he said, since the Celanese local will be negotiating for a contract for the first time under the Taft-Hartley Law.

Will Obey Law

The TWUA will fight the Taft-Hartley Law with every means at its command but while it is law, the union intends to meet with its requirements, DuChessi said.

The international TWUA has qualified under the Taft-Hartley Law, DuChessi said, adding he is sure the local officers will now comply with the election pledges made by the successful candidates.

DuChessi said the TWUA is stressing to all its membership in the Cumberland area, the importance of the coming presidential campaign. You have won all your major battles on the economic front only to see them slip away from you because of the action of the present Congress, he pointed out.

Labor must organize on the political front as never before, DuChessi said, since it has been demonstrated that what was won on the picket line can be taken away in the halls of Congress.

Only if the American people participate actively in the coming presidential campaign can labor hold the advantages it has won since 1932, DuChessi concluded.

To Sign Pledges Today

Aldridge, who will head the Celanese local during 1948, told the members present at the installation that the four officers listed in the TWUA by-laws (president, vice president, secretary-treasurer and recording secretary) will sign the Loyalty pledges required by the Taft-Hartley Law this morning as promised during the campaign.

The action is necessary, he added, if Local 1874 is to have access to the facilities of the National Labor Relations Board.

James A. Blackwell, Baltimore, national TWUA representative, was master of ceremonies for the ceremony held in the ballroom of the Queen City Hotel here.

The officers obligated by DuChessi included Aldridge, president; James Stewart, vice president; John G. Thomas, secretary-treasurer and business manager; James Martin, recording secretary; Walter Mahaney, warden.

Executive Board—Howard Bush, John Estes, Carl Hinkle, William E. Meagher and George Ziegler; Trustees—Thomas Condon, John Deremer, Charles E. Jones, John G. Kreitzburg and Ernest Wolford; Auditing Committee—David E. Rennie, James Robey and Charles Nicodemus.

The installation was followed by a dance in the ballroom of the hotel.

Jr. Association May Join Drive Against Rodents

Hendricks Calls Committee Meeting

The Junior Association of Commerce Clean-Up Committee will meet Monday night at 7 o'clock in the Jaycee office, Liberty Trust Building, to discuss with Ralph F. McHenry, county farm agent, plans for participation in the "War On Rats" campaign to be waged here the first week in March.

According to Jack Hendricks, chairman of the Jaycee committee, the annual Clean-Up drive, sponsored by the Jaycees, is not usually held until sometime in April, but it is contemplated that the group can participate in the promotion of the drive to kill rats in the interest of saving grain to help conserve food and make more food available for hungry people throughout the world.

Hendricks said yesterday he had been asked by John M. Robb, Jaycee president, to meet with McHenry and learn the implications of the campaign to exterminate rodents, and is quite impressed with work already done in rural areas by McHenry, in organizing the drive.

The farm agent, Hendricks explained, wants the local organization to take on the task of surveying hardware, drug and feed stores to determine the amount of rat poison and the type of rat poison available here, and then to publicize how it shall be used and where it can be obtained.

The drive to kill as many rats as possible is to be extended to stores, industries, private homes, and other places, as well as on farms, Hendricks said, and it is hoped the Jaycee group, meeting Monday, will adopt it as a Jaycee project.

Informed of the meeting Monday, McHenry said he is pleased the Jaycees have offered their help, because he hopes to extend the campaign beyond the rural areas and farms. He said he will be at the meeting Monday to explain the program in as much detail as he possibly can.

Experienced Observers Believe Flood Danger May Pass In Area

Weatherman Says Cloudy And Cold

Railroad men, game wardens, foresters, utility employes, and city and county officials, to mention a few who constantly are concerned with weather conditions, were practically unanimous last night in the opinion that there is no danger of a flood here, unless the weather turns suddenly warmer, or there is a steady long-time downpour of rain.

Whenever a heavy snow blankets the area, flood talk is revived in the city, and with a foot and in many places two feet of snow in the mountains now, many persons have been discussing the possibility. While no one will predict that there will or will not be a flood, observers who are experienced on such a situation express the view that the heavy snow will be carried off gradually, unless freakish warm and rainy weather appears. This of course happened 12 and 24 years ago. Some persons locally say a flood is quite possible because they run in 12-year cycles as Cumberland has had a major flood each 12 years since 1900, but other observers say this is mere coincidence.

As compared to the background which preceeded the 1936 flood, the last five months in Cumberland have been drought-like. From September 1935 through January 1936 precipitation amounted to 15.9 inches as compared to 9.51 for the current season and a normal of 12.33 inches.

Precipitation Lower

Precipitation so far this month has been .56 of an inch. For the entire month of February in 1936 it was an inch above the 2.43 normal and the March measurement was 7.77 as compared to 3.04 inches normal.

Most of the snow in the upper Potomac River watershed had melted and left before the March 17 flood arrived in 1936, but the runoff left the ground well soaked with the result there was no place for water from the heavy March rain to go except to streams.

Temperature Above Freezing

In Cumberland and vicinity yesterday, temperature reached a maximum of 35 above zero, and in open areas there was some thawing. However, as temperatures lowered toward nightfall, streets and highways, not entirely cleared, became slippery as the slush and partially melted snow froze. Streets and roads were cindered but travel was slow.

The minimum temperature reported here was 21 above zero at 8 a. m. with 26 reported at 11 o'clock last night. Skies were cloudy.

At Thomas, W. Va., thermometers at 11 p. m. read 22 above, but in the opposite direction at Deal, Pa., mercury at that hour stood at 14 above. There was no new snow either place, except that of yesterday morning, when about an inch fell. Skies were slightly cloudy.

Most of the area is fairly well dug out of the heavy snowfall, but crews, working regular hours are still clearing some streets and roadways. Charles N. Wilkinson, president of the Board of County Commissioners, said all county roads have been plowed or cindered, and no complaints were received yesterday.

G. Bates Chaires, district engineer for the State's Roads Commission said crews worked yesterday cindering slippery spots and highways are in as good shape as can be expected. Plows are working in some areas, and crews will be out as long as necessary to alleviate the situation.

In Garrett County, Oakland reports a total of 13 inches of snow instead of 11 inches previously reported, but in other sections of the county, total snowfall exceeded two feet.

Ski Trails Are Open

At New Germany, H. C. Buckingham, state forester, reported 26 inches of powdery snow on ski trails, and many persons taking advantage of the opportunity to pursue the sport. A large crowd was on hand last weekend and all week, he said, and a large number of ski fans is expected this week end from all parts of the state and surrounding area.

In the city and nearby towns, youngsters were still making the best of the chance to use their sleds. There were no mishaps, but complaints were heard from several motorists that children on the West Side here were sled riding on streets that had not been roped off.

Predicts Cloudy and Colder

The weatherman cleared his board of snowstorm predictions for Maryland last night and reverted to the now monotonous forecast of partly cloudy and cold.

The snowstorm which was to hit the state yesterday morning and continue through the day arrived a few hours ahead of schedule and moved on after depositing a fraction of the snow expected.

But at that, the few inches deposited in Western Maryland and the trace on the Eastern Shore handicapped crews clearing roads of the accummulation of two earlier storms.

State Police hesitated to advise motorists about the condition of the highways until after they learned to what extent yesterday's accummulaion of slush had frozen.

Several main arteries, however, were reported "very slippery" and drivers were advised to use chains on roads not cleared of slush.

Meanwhile, the weather bureau watched developments of a possible storm in the midwest which it said probably would furnish the next threat to the state.

County 4-H Boys Getting Details On Forestry Plan

Brook Bodkin Gives Series Of Lectures

Allegany County Boys' 4-H Clubs have embarked on a program of studying forestry conservation and forest fire prevention, according to Joseph M. Steger, assistant county farm agent.

Brook Bodkin, senior forest supervisor of this county, is appearing at all 4-H clubs in the county, speaking on the forest conservancy act, cutting regulations, fire prevention, timber preservation, and forestry's contribution to flood prevention and prevention of soil erosion. Bodkin is also showing three new forestry motion picture films to the boys, Steger said.

Last night the program was presented to boys at the Union Grove Club in their club house. Yesterday afternoon, Bodkin visited Flintstone club at the school there, and Thursday night he talked to the Pleasant Grove Club.

His schedule for next week includes Pumpkin Center Club Monday night; Piney Plains, Monday afternoon, LaVale, Tuesday night; Oldtown Junior and Senior groups, Wednesday afternoon, and McCoole, Wednesday night. Thursday afternoon he will be at Eckhart and Thursday night at Winchester Road Club.

Steger said the State Department of Forests and Parks, through district foresters and supervisors, plans to enlist the co-operation of 4-H Club boys in an extensive tree planting program in this and other counties. He said he understands H. C. Buckingham, state forester, plans to have the boys participate in a program to plant chestnut seedlings, in an effort to re-establish chestnut trees, which were killed completely in the county by blight a number of years ago.

The boys have expressed considerable interest in the project, Steger said, and are awaiting details of procedure.

Number Of Dog Poisonings On Increase Here

Strychnine Tablets Blamed In 75 Cases

Local dog owners, many of whom are children, have in the past three months become aware of a growing menace to their canine pets as the lethal strychnine tablet is blamed for more and more dogs' deaths.

There have been at least 75 dogs, many valued animals, found dead in the yards of their owners recently, a local veterinarian explained, adding that he believes it is the work of a perverted person "who just hates dogs—all dogs."

Aside from the cost of the dogs, the veterinarian declared "it is a heart-breaking experience to see a child standing over his pet crying as if his only friend on earth had died."

The situation became noticeable about six months ago, according to the veterinarian, and then in December, just before Christmas, the number of dogs found dead from strychnine poisoning grew much larger.

Follow Same Method

The owners of many of the victims are quick to blame it on a neighbor, he said, but after studying the overall picture there are many things that make it appear to be the work of one person or group "that just doesn't like dogs."

Usually there are about three dogs found dead in one neighborhood within a week, and then in a short period three or four more dogs are found dead in a different section of the city, but always the same method is used.

The most recent attack occurred this week when three valuable dogs were found dead within a few hours on the West Side.

Several weeks ago, the veterinarian said, he was called to the home of a local family where a registered Beagle and her five pups were poisoned with strychnine. One of the pups responded to treatment but the mother and four others died.

In that incident, the doctor declared, the animals were kept in a pen in the back yard and the strychnine tablets were packed in short pieces of meat and thrown into the pen. It was a substantial loss, he said.

More than half of the recent poisonings, which have been averaging about six a week, have involved dogs that are kept tied in the owners' yards or are kept in homes and let out only for brief periods.

The owners, on many occasions sick with grief, have paid for autopsies "just to learn what caused the animal's death," according to the veterinarian. In every case in the past three months a small piece of meat packed with a strychnine tablet was found in the dog's stomach.

Dog May Be Saved

If the dog is discovered quickly after strychnine has been eaten, there is a possibility that the poison can be pumped from its stomach and the animal saved, the veterinarian explained.

The symptoms are very easy to recognize. The dog becomes very rigid for a short period, then relaxes for 10 or 15 minutes and then becomes rigid again.

The owner should force cream or mustard down the dogs throat and get the animal to a veterinarian as quickly as possible.

In cases where the animals received medical care quickly only two died from the poison, according to the animal doctor, "but usually the dog is not found until it has been dead several hours."

The situation is critical in the city and actually required action on the part of the Society for Prevention of Cruelty to Animals, the veterinarian asserted, adding that the city's ordinances are lax in regard to such matters.

Washington Dairy Offers Premium For Local Milk

Hepner Says Offer Is Above Firms Of Area

The Tri-State Milk Producers Association, which threatened about a week ago to withhold milk from two Cumberland area dairies unless the firms meet its demand for a 25 cent increase per hundredweight in the price of milk, announced last night that a Washington dairy had offered a higher price for its products.

O. C. Hepner, Fort Ashby, secretary of the association, said the offer adds new strength to the request of the Tri-State group for an increase in wholesale milk prices here.

James J. Ward, president of Embassy Dairy, one of Washington's largest dairies, Hepner said, told leaders of the association here last night that his company would pay an average of about $5.70 per hundredweight for milk delivered to the local Embassy plant.

The Washington price includes premiums for low bacterial count and local dairies have been paying $5.30 plus a premium for low bacterial counts, he said.

Hepner said the Washington offer is higher than offers made by local dairies and added that negotiations for the increase should not increase the price of milk in the Cumberland area.

The producers group, adopting divide and conquer tactics, announced January 28 that milk would be withheld from a Cumberland and Midland dairy beginning February 1 unless a 25 cent per hundredweight boost is granted to bring the rate to $5.55.

Jaycees Launch Annual Drive For New Members

William B. Smith Heads Campaign

The Junior Associationu of Commerce has launched its annual membership drive under the leadership of William B. Smith, Windsor Road, general chairman, with five prizes to the members who bring in the most applications, and emphasis being placed upon obtaining more active members, according to John M. Robb, president.

The Association has been organized into four teams with about 30 members to each team. A grand prize of a new radio will be offered the member who brings in the most applications, and to the member of each team with the highest return a prize of a new fountain pen will be presented.

The campaign will continue for one month only, and will end March 3 at the next regular dinner meeting at Ali Ghan Country Club, Smith said last night.

All new members will be guests at the first meeting after which their applications have been accepted, and the fee paid with their application will cover dues until May 1, 1949.

The advantages of joining now, Smith explained, gives the new members three months' free dues, and the first dinner free.

The organization roster is open to young men of good character between the ages of 21 and 35, who are interested in civic affairs, and helping work on civic projects for the general welfare of the community, Smith said. The local Jaycees have a long record of accomplishments, and have numerous projects of general interest for the future.

Presently, plans are being formulated for the annual air show, the Miss America Pageant, Clean-Up Week, and a broadened Youth Welfare program, according to Robb.

Team captains for the membership include Ward N. Hauger, William F. New, Harry Kauffman and Henry A. Mackey.

Liquor Licenses Not Transferable

The Allegany County Liquor Control Board yesterday emphasized the fact that beer, wine and whisky licenses issued for the sale of intoxicants, cannot, under the law, be transferred when a business is sold.

There have been some misunderstandings on this phase of the county liquor law, and board members, for the benefit of those contemplating the sale or purchase of business involving the dispensing of intoxicants, explain that in the event such an establishment is sold, the license reverts back to the Board.

Before persons contract for the purchase of such establishments, they should clear their own applications for licenses, board members said, as licenses are issued to the individual or persons operating the business and not to the business itself.

Three license applications were approved and permits issued yesterday. All three permits are for places formerly operated by others.

Licenses to sell beer were granted to John B. Roy and Nola O. Beal, North Mechanic Street, formerly operated by Anna Brown; Mrs. Grace Curry, Silver Lane Bowling Alleys, Cresaptown, formerly operated by Allan Grant; and a beer and wine license to Carl A. Keller, 510 Park Street, formerly operated by George V. Trexler.
